Farmers Union

House bill on dairy due Wed.

ROTHSVILLE — Members of the Lancaster Farmers Union were told Thursday night at their first annual banquet at the Rothsville Fire Hall that new dairy legislation is scheduled to be reported out of committee in the House of Representatives on Wednesday.

The report on the status of federal dairy legislation was part of a report to the Lancaster County group by Paul Sacia, assistant director of the National Farmers Union Office in Washington, D.C. who handles lobbying efforts.

"The dairy legislation is expected to come out of Congressman Tom Harkin's committee on Wednesday," Sacia said.

"We're not sure what vehicle will be used, such as the Federated Milk Producers proposed bill.

"But, it really doesn't make any difference because the final form will undoubtedly be some sort of compromise."

Sacia in his legislative report covered a wide variety of subjects in addition to dairy legislation, in which the Pennsylvania Farmers Union was unsuccessful in a last-ditch effort to halt the 50-cent assessment.

While he was talking, he said that the vote on the ag credit bill should have been completed in the House. This would provide a total of $800 million in emergency loan money to farmers with a deferral mechanism to those who meet certain criteria. Sacia said he expected the bill to get through Congress, but the real test would be in trying to override an expected Reagan veto.

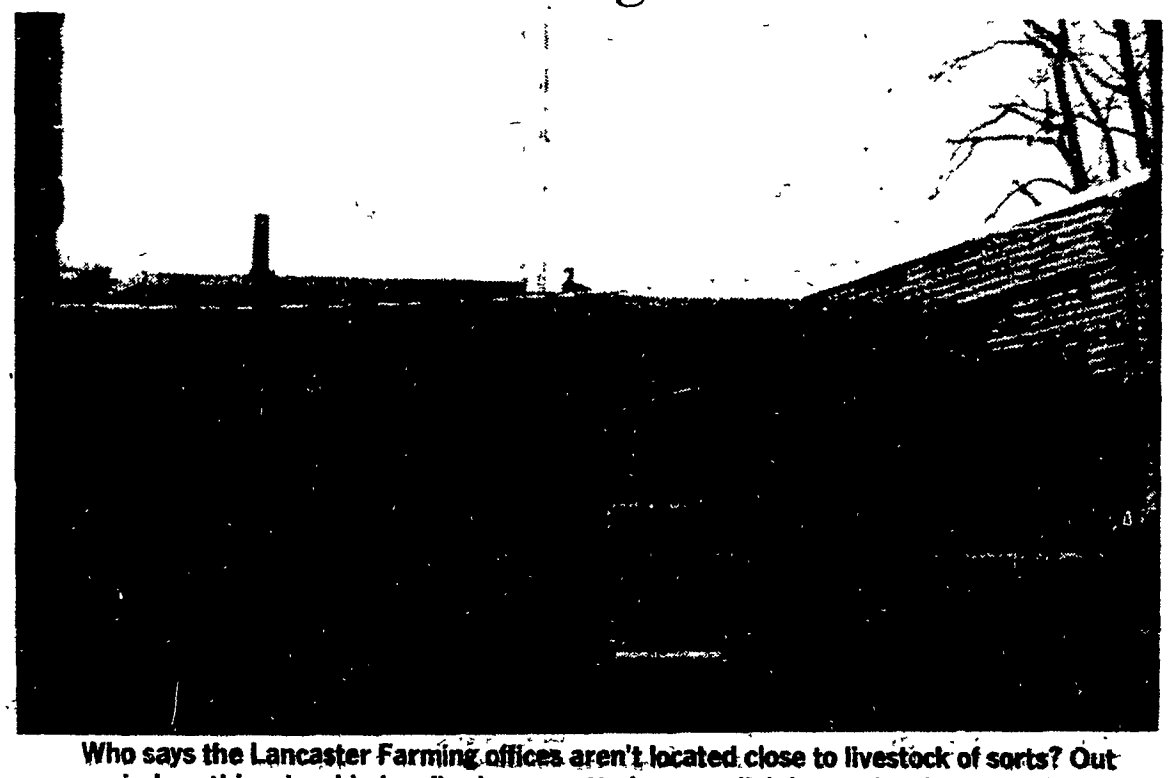
Meet our Mr. Misguided Mallard



Who says the Lancaster Farming offices aren't located close to livestock of sorts? Out our window, this misguided mallard was spotted on an adjoining roof in downtown Lititz. Chilly weather and the surprise snow obviously had him confused. He landed to get his bearings, before deciding whether to head north or south.

Dairying hearings continue

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

LANCASTER — Final decisions are still being awaited on hearings held this week in Harrisburg, and last week in Washington, D.C., over the controversial 50 cents assessment.

Thursday a second hearing was held in Harrisburg before U.S. Middle District Court Judge William W. Caldwell. In a previous hearing held April 15, Judge Caldwell turned down the motion of Pa. Farmers Union and five individual plaintiffs for an immediate restraining order against the U. S. Department of Agriculture's collection of the 50 cents assessment.

When the restraining order was denied after the first hearing, Pa. Farmers Union requested a second hearing date, to try to obtaining a preliminary innjuction. Spokesperson for PFU, Marion Furman said Thursday's hearing was an attempt to convince Judge Caldwell that unless a preliminary injunction is issued against U.S.D.A. before the first deductions are made from the producers' milk checks, they will suffer immediate and irreparable harm.

The plaintiffs also had to prove that the defendent (U.S.D.A) would suffer little harm compared to the plaintiffs, and that there are serious enough issues involved to warrant a preliminary injunction. If a preliminary injuction is granted, a hearing date will be set for a final decision to be made.

The plaintiffs in the suit were Carl Kaufman, PFU executive director; Farmers Union Vice President Barbara Woods, Franklin County; Northern Tier

Mandata poultry financial stew boils over for 60 growers in Pa.

MANDATA — The financial stew involving the Mandata Poultry Processing Company that has been bubbling for the past couple of years boiled over this week affecting some 60 growers in a half-dozen Pennsylvania counties and an Elizabethtown hatchery in Lancaster County.

The Northumberland County-based poultry processor apparently canceled its grower contracts during the past week, leaving the 60 growers with all birds under four weeks of age and payments owed that may total from $10,000 to $30,000 per grower.

In addition, Longenecker's Hatchery, Elizabethtown, also apparently was left holding the bag with large numbers of pullets ready to be delivered to growers and an even larger number of eggs in the three-week set period.

Amidst this turmoil, the Pennsylvania State Grange has again called on the state to, not only come to immediate aid of these growers as far as markets are concerned, but to pass legislation that would require bonding of all poultry processors and brokers doing business in the Commonwealth.

The Grange estimates that perhaps a million dollars is owed the growers by Mandata, which has slipped some 16 weeks behind in payments for the past year and a half.

A Gettysburg area grower, who had been with Mandata for the past 10 years, is likely typical of the poultry farmers caught up in the situation. Here's his story in his own words:

"We haven't heard anything from Mandata directly. But that's the way they have been all along.

"I was cleaning out my house and got a call from the hatchery that there wouldn't be any birds coming.

Pa. State Grange is taking a 'look' at itself

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania State Grange is taking a look at itself.

And what better time to do it than during Pennsylvania State Grange Week.

At age 109, the State Grange is going to its members and some outsiders in a self-analysis survey to see what members and others think of the Grange, its leadership and programs and whether they think this oldest of farm organizations is keeping up with the times.

The questionnaire survey was developed and is being directed by Arba L. Henry, who is on leave from his vo-ag post at Solanco High School in Lancaster County for post-graduate studies in ag education at Penn State.

The study — "An Analysis of the Pennsylvania State Grange" — is being conducted among more than 1,300 Grangers across the state.

Each of the Grangers selected randomly are being asked to fill out and return a seven-page questionnaire, which seeks data in several major areas:

–How effective is the Grange leadership at both the state and subordinate levels?

–How appropriate and up-to-date are the Grange's objectives, services and programs?

–What's the image of the Grange through the eyes of both members and non-members?

–Is the Grange's organizational structure old-fashioned?

In his explanation of the need for the study, Henry cites the declining membership in the Pennsylvania Grange, despite it being the largest and oldest rural-farm organization in the Commonwealth.

"During the 1970's, membership dropped from 55,258 in 1970 to 46,351 in 1979," Henry explained.

Legislative dinner

More than 450 state legislators and Grange members are expected for the Pa. State Grange legislative dinner at the Penn Harris Motor Inn on Monday evening.

Featured speaker at the dinner will be Dean Samuel H. Smith, of the Penn State College of Agriculture.

"At the present time, there are slightly more than 42,000 members. This represents a drop of some 4,000 members in three years.

"If this rate of decline should continue, the Pennsylvania State Grange, as known, would cease to exist by the end of the century."

Grange Master Charles E.

Retired, but still writing

ANNVILLE — Newton Bair may have officially retired as Mr. Ag in Lebanon County, but he literally plans to keep his fingers in area farming.

Those fingers are still turning out his popular column, "The Dairy Business," which is always chocked full of economic and management tips for today's dairy operators.

The farming community's tribute to Newt by friends, neighbors, and colleagues appears on Page A33 and his first post-retirement column is on Page D24. The column will appear in Lancaster Farming about every two weeks.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, April 21
Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Prices lower compared to a week ago. Most dealers have a few small retail features running and note fairly good orders, but regular business is light. So the combination of the two results is no better than fair movement overall. Extra large are in balance to occasionally fully adequate. Large, are ample for needs with surplus stocks noted in most quarters. The excess large are difficult to move, especially at normal relationships. Mediums are slightly more available, but are no more than adequate overall. Small remain tight and while the inquiry is still unfilled, it is not as widespread as before.

A Extra Large 65-72; A Large 64-67; A Medium 59-61½.

Thursday, April 21
Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Ready to cook movement has improved in most quarters and is noted as fair to occasionally good. Parts are strong as current production is readily clearing under an active call. While the discounting of heavy weight production has stopped, there are still some plants which carry product today. The overall slaughter is moderately heavy. Live supplies are fully adequate to ample. Weights are desirable to occasionally heavier than desired. Undertone is firm.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices are unchanged on U.S. Grade A at 43-46 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated April 22 1886; Actual April 14 1822; Actual April 19 1682; Average Weights April 19 4.32, April 4.31.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

APRIL 25-MAY 1, 1983

There is still an occasional chill.

Plant seeds now . . Zipper patented April 29, 1913 . Maryland became seventh state, April 28, 1788 . . Full moon April 27 (Wed) . . Average length of days for the week 13 hours, 56 minutes Inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States, April 30, 1789 . . . Life is like the moon· now dark, now full

Ask the Old Farmer: We have heard that years ago people added milk to whitewash to keep it from cracking and being washed away by the weather Could you tell me what proportion of milk to add? E.B , Mentor, Ohio

Mix enough unslaked lime into a gallon of sweet milk to make it thicker than cream, stir in a teacup of turpentine, and put on at once with a paint brush. It will stick to smooth wood. If you want a color, add earth colors and stir well

Home Hints: Paint handles of garden tools bright colors and they won't be so easy to misplace

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rain and cold all week, then clearing; showers very end of week.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Beginning of week, rain and cold, clearing midweek on; cool with showers to close

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Rain and cold at first, sunny and cool starting midweek, warming at week's end

Last Week	13,400
Last Year	10,300

Compared with the previous Wed. Slaughter Steers and Heifers 1.50-2.00 lower, full loss on Steers under 1125 lbs. and Heifers weighing under 950 lbs. Cows fully 1.00 lower, Bulls steady on thin test. Feeder Cattle 2.00 lower, extremes 3.00 off on 800-1000 lb. Steers. Average weight Slaughter Steers for 3 days this week 1162 lbs. Last week 1167 lbs. Last year 1163 lbs. supplies continue to carry 1-2% mud on the majority of marketings. Dressing percentages have shown minor improvement as continued cloudy, wet weather plagues our trade area. Cme deliveries this week included 37 loads of Slaughter Steers 52 loads of Feeders. There was little buying interest to fill cme loads as most deliveries originated and delivered by producers. The first substantial drop in dressed beef for past 4 months (110.00 down to 107.00 at mid-week). Cattle buyer demand centered on stronger weight 700-900 lb. carcasses while hog men centered their demand on 200-230 lb. as hog weights, unlike cattle, are above normal. Supply included 200 Slaughter Cows, 4,200 Feeders including 840 purchased private treaty, mostly two-way steers retruning for short term in feedlot. Balance of receipts Good and Choice Slaughter Steers, very few lots above 70% Choice.

Looking in a mirror

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

Every once in a while, it's a good idea to stand back and take a look at yourself in a mirror.

But the older you get, the more reluctant you are to taking such a periodic look.

That's why it is all the more commendable that the Pennsylvania State Grange is taking a look at itself through a survey of members and even outsiders concerning their image of the Grange and what it does.

After all, 109 is a ripe, old age.

The Grange, it seems to me, presents two different faces. One is a progressive organization that is particularly active in legislative affairs and steps right in when grassroots issues and problems arise in rural Pennsylvania.

The other image -- based primarily on its rituals and nomenclature -- is that of a stuffy, old organization that isn't keeping up with the times.

Hopefully, the Grange's survey will help better wed these two images into one that clearly expresses the Grange's true progressive nature without sacrificing all of its long and important heritage.

And, other farm organizations in the state might do well to take note of the Grange's self-analysis. Here are just a few questions that most every farm group in the state could ask itself:

--Have I lost touch with the rank and file membership?

--Am I keeping up with the rapidly changing times in agriculture?

--Am I aware of the true wants and needs of my membership?

--Are there any ways to improve cooperation with similar ag groups?

--Is there unnecessary duplication of efforts between my programs and those of other groups?

--Is there a generation gap among my membership or with younger persons I'd like to have as members?

--Is decision-making too centrally held?

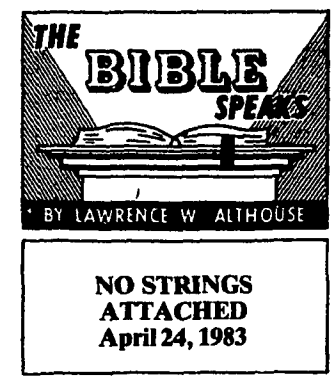
--Are there times when I should be sacrificing some of my group's own personal ambitions to better help agriculture as a whole?

--How could I help to reduce the fractured and disorganized face that the multitude of farm groups and their stands often present to non-agricultural people and groups, such as Congress and the State Legislature?

It often hurts to stand back and take a good, honest look at oneself. But if you want to be realistic, this periodic self-appraisal is needed.

And when you take this look, there's another essential ingredient.

And that's to have the fortitude to go ahead and make changes if the self-appraisal warrants them. Also, to convey your self-look and any changes to the membership.



NO STRINGS ATTACHED
April 24, 1983

Background Scripture:
Genesis 17: 9-14; Acts 15:1-35; Galatians 2: 1-10.
Devotional Reading:
John 10:7-18.

The inclusion of Gentile converts to Christ within the church was nothing less than a landmark revolution. With that revolution one of the major foundations of Judaism (at least as it was construed and practiced) was obliterated.

In light of the tremendous opposition this revolution must have faced, how was God able to bring it into being without splitting the early church right down the middle? The answer is that God made his will so unequivocally clear, that it was hard for even the most reluctant diehards to maintain the traditional exclusivity. First Peter and then others had witnessed the bestowal of the Holy Spirit upon Gentiles who turned to Christ. Had they simply put it to a vote— "All those in favor of admitting Gentiles to 'the Way,' say 'aye'!" —I'm afraid it might have been a long time before the Gentiles were admitted— if ever. But, without asking their opinions. God did it in a way none could mistake!

PUTTING ON A YOKE

So, the church pretty well accepted—if not always enthusiastically—this radical change. Yet, although they could not in good conscience deny Gentiles access to God's Spirit, some of them could and did decide to put some restrictions upon what God had offered unconditionally. Since they could not quite detach themselves from their own religious traditions, neither were they willing to let Gentiles in the church without at least some strings.

The most important of these was circumcision, which for many centuries had been a physical sign of the Jewish male's convenant with God. Unlike some of the provisions of the law, it was practiced throughout the whole Jewish society, Pharisees and Sadducees alike (and probably the Essenes, too). But the circumcision was much more than "skin deep," signifying the Jew's obedience to the whole structure of law.

The Jerusalem church, meeting in assembly, heard the arguments for and against forcing Gentiles to accept circumcision and, moved by the persuasiveness of Peter, Paul, and Barnabas, rejected the claims of the legalists and determined that hence forth circumcision would not be required of the Gentile converts.

THE HOLY SPIRIT AND US

The result of the Jerusalem meeting, however, is not as unequivocal as we might wish. Desiring to be sensitive as they could to the consciences of the legalists, the assembly decided to attach a few minor strings: abstainance from food sacrificed to idols, meat that is not ritually slaughtered (Kosher) and unchastity. The decision of the assembly was not as unrestricted as God's acts, but it was a great step forward and the few strings attached would foster a spirit of compromise. In time, even these strings would be removed (except unchastity) and the legalists would no longer impose their will on others.

In our world today there are still many Christians who spend much of their energies trying to impose their wills upon others. How long before we learn to offer the Gospel with no strings attached?

To Manage Poultry House Equipment

General management of poultry house equipment is important in maintaining a comfortable environment for chickens and turkeys. Defective equipment should be repaired or replaced promptly, especially if it is involved with the delivery of feed or water to the birds.

Rusty and bent cages will allow some birds to escape and may trap or injure other birds. It can also cause an increase in crax. All sharp edges on the poultry equipment must be removed to avoid injuries. Rusty and decaying feed bins are another problem; they allow moisture to get to the feed, resulting in mold growth and sick birds.

To Clean Pastures Before Grazing

Farmers should tour their pastures before their cows do. A careful check for dangerous materials before turning cows out is time well spent because it may prevent serious injuries ... possibly death. One dangerous item to look out for is old paint buckets. Cows like paint and it may contain enough lead to kill six animals. Fertilizer is just as deadly as lead paint ... so make sure it's stored where the cows won't get to it. You should also get rid of any trash, especially broken glass and pieces of metal. These can result in serious udder and foot injuries. Old farm implements are also dangerous and should be hauled away. Be sure to examine areas near highways. Despite the law, people still throw trash out of their cars and some of it may end up in your pasture. In addition to the ground you should also examine fences ... fix all loose wires and replace any that are rotted. A clean pasture is a safe one.

To Practice Strict Sanitation

Livestock and poultry producers must make a special effort to prevent contagious diseases. Many of these infections are brought home by the owner, or with the purchase of a new animal. There are a number of infections that can be spread very easily from farm to farm.

In this part of the country, where the density of poultry and livestock is so great, producers should be alert to the possibility of spreading diseases. When returning from another farm, or public place, different clothes and footwear should be used. Stray dogs, cats and wild birds should be controlled as much as possible. New purchases should be segregated and tested before mixing with the home herd or flock. In many cases vaccination should go along with

LONG

NOW AVAILABLE TO FARMERS IN THIS AREA THROUGH HERSHEY EQUIPMENT CO. of LANCASTER

(1) CORRUGLASS™ BINS:

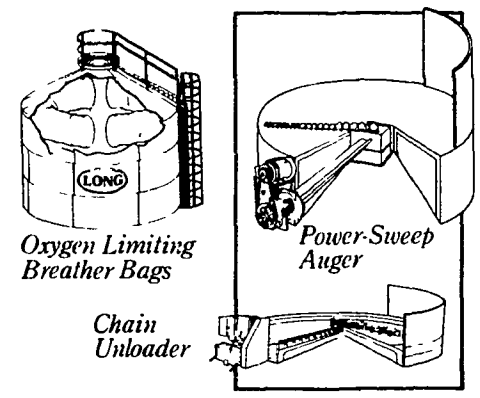
For high moisture grain Long incorporates the strength of corrugated steel with a protective glass-fused-to-steel coating to produce the lowest cost, glass-lined, oxygen limiting storage system for high moisture grain that you can buy. Breather bags and choice of bottom unloader with tapered, power-driven sweep augers, or standard 6" auger unloader with clean-out sweep arm, complete this outstanding storage system.

(2) OXYGEN LIMITING, GLASS-LINED SILOS:

These smooth wall silos are constructed of heavy gauge steel with a glass-fused-to-steel coating permanently bonded to both sides of the sheets to give maximum protection against acids inside the silo and elements outside. Long's glass-lined silos are designed for both high-moisture grain and medium-moisture forages. Breather bags and bottom unloader with tapered, power-driven sweep auger for grain storage or heavy duty chain unloader for forage and grain storage complete this system.

OTHER FEATURES:

Both storage systems feature glass-fused-to-steel wall and roof panels for maximum feed protection, and radius drawn roofs with 30.5 degree pitch for extra strength. Breather bags, suspended in the roof, provide an oxygen limiting environment for feed. The feed stays fresher longer and is more digestible, more palatable, and more nutritious. These systems are designed to cut feed losses —both quality and quantity, and allow growers to carry more animals on the same number of acres.



(3) STOR-LIX® LIQUID MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS:

Stor-Lix tanks are constructed of glass-fused-to-steel walls sheets for protection and durability. Long's Stor-Lix system helps to preserve the nutrient value of manure; helps to protect the environment; and affords livestock growers better management of their time, labor, and equipment.

very strict sanitation practices. Every producer should give attention to the prevention of disease through good management and the use of good sanitation practices.

To Appreciate The Grass Family

Most of our farm crops classify into two broad families of plants - grasses and legumes. Each family contributes greatly to producing food for us and feed as grain and forage to be consumed by livestock and poultry.

Even though there are very obvious differences between these two crop families, we often overlook the contribution grasses make to our total agricultural production, reminds Arnold G. Lueck, Extension agent in agronomy. Take field corn, for example. It's our county's biggest acreage crop. Corn has value both as grain and forage (mostly as corn silage). Corn is really an annual summer grass plant growing out there.

Most of the grasses that we grow, however, rate as cool-season crops. We see them thriving best early and late in the growing season.

As soil conserving crops, the perennial and winter annual grasses do us a great service.

Report Supplied By USDA

Weekly 51—CATTLE—Compared to last week's closing sales, slaughter steers and heifers ended this week 50 cents to mostly 1.00 lower. Slaughter cows 2.00-4.00 lower and slaughter bulls 1.00-2.00 lower.

Prices on fed cattle were under pressure even through day-to-day demand was fairly good. Sharply lower dressed beef prices combined with a larger slaughter total were dominant factors for downward pressure on market. However, some of the downward pressure was eased somewhat as buyers of two-way cattle were active participants daily. Muddy cattle continued to show measureable numbers and were discounted accordingly.

Steers comprised 54 pct of the week's receipts; Heifers 28 pct, Cows 7 pct; Feeders 10 pct. Four day receipts 12,350 compared to 12,470 week ago and 10,600 last year.

STEERS: At the close, choice 2-4 1050-1300 lbs. 68.00-69.50, few 69.75-70.00, few muddy lost 66.50; 1000-1150 lbs. 67.00-68.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1025-1200 lbs. 66.50-68.50. Few Good 63.00-66.00. Choice 2-3 1200-1500 lb. Holsteins 60.00-61.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 58.50-60.00.

HEIFERS: Choice 2-4 925-1125 lbs. on the close 65.00-67.00, load 67.50. Load Choice 3-4 near 1100 lbs. 62.75. Muddy lots to 64.50. Choice 2-3 800-925 lbs. 63.50-65.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 900-1025 lbs. 62.50-65.50. Good 58.00-62.00.

Average of LS 214 Detailed Quotations for 900-1100 lb. choice steers 67.85; 1100-1300 lbs. 69.92. Average cost steers 68.07; average weight 1146 lbs. as compared 68.02 and 1152 lbs. a week ago. Average cost heifers 65.49, average weight 994 lbs. as compared 66.39 and 1005 lbs. a week ago.

COWS: High Cutter, Utility and Commercial 1-3 39.00-42.00, few high dressing to 43.00. Canner and Cutter 36.00-39.00.

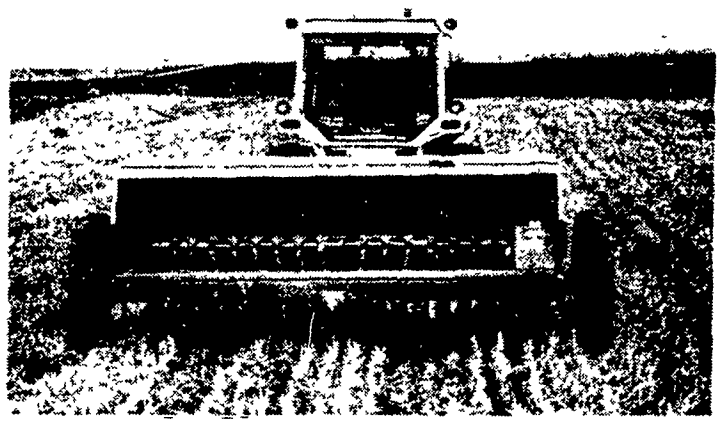
LILLISTON 9680
NO-TILL GRAIN DRILL



For Heavy Stubble and Hard Soils

The new Lilliston 9680 No-Till Grain Drill will operate in maximum severe conditions, where uniform penetration of heavy stubble and hard soils is required. Unlike some of the so-called "no-till" drills available today, which are actually conventional drills with front coulters added, the Lilliston is designed, from the ground up, for one purpose: No-till seeding.

Some Special Features

- Maximum empty weight of 7,160 lbs. transfers 390 lbs. of down pressure to each of the 18 openers on 7 inch spacings.
- Heavy duty 14 inch cutting coulters and double disc openers, spring-loaded scrapers and center rib gauge wheels.
- Three hydraulic cylinders regulate pressure on openers for precision depth control.
- Patented double-chambered feed cups which maintain even seed flow to the feed wheels.
- Cluster gear boxes for easy selection of 27 application speeds of seed and fertilizer.

Feed-Way 155

If bunk feeding seems like a lot of work, it's time you tried out the new Feed-Way 155 from Arts-Way. Hitch it to a light tractor and feel how easily it handles and maneuvers around the bunks. See how quickly it unloads the feed right where you want it. It's a pleasure to use, helps you save feed, fuel and labor.

You'll like the fine construction and the surprisingly low price. Owners say it gives you the most feeder in its class for the money.

FEATURES ■ 193 cu. ft. (155 bu.) level-full capacity for transporting & unloading ■ 144 cu. ft. (115 bu.) for corn silage blending, transporting & unloading ■ Needs only 30-40 HP (540 rpm) ■ Heavy-duty conveyor chain, 12" discharge auger ■ Available with optional electronic scale.

Md. Jersey Sale averages $574.19

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

KEYMAR, Md. — Bidding was sparse and there were many bargains at the annual Maryland State Jersey Sale held Gaywinds Farm, Keymar, Md. last Saturday. Although buyers came from three different states, prices reflected the current dairy situation. Thirty-one animals sold for an average of $574.19.

High-selling animal was a fancy, Virginia-bred, five-year-old. Consigned by Clifford H. Stiles, R1 Toms Brook, Va., "SAR Samsons Miss Solida", commanded $1450.00 on the successful bid of Robert Hockman, Winchester, Va. A daughter of "Gramhil Leader Sophia Samson" one of the top bulls of the breed, "Miss Solida" was classified "Very Good" - 85, and in calf to Briarcliffs Black Magic. Her two-year-old record was 2-09 305 9.030 4.5% 408, and she is currently working on: 3-09 278 10,003 4.8% 479 and projected to 11,003 milk and 527 fat in 305 days.

A Pennsylvania-bred and-owned 3-year-old was second-place, high-selling animal. "Milestone Golden Coleen", consigned by Clyde McConaughey and family, R1, Smicksburg, sold for $1300.00 to Pennsylvanian Beth Reinhart, St. Thomas. A very typey daughter of "Advancer Sleeping Milestone out of a "Golden Faithful" dam, "Colleen" sold just fresh.

Third high-selling animal was a junior two-year-old consigned by the hosts of the sale, Edward and Carol Kahler, owners of Gaywinds Farm. Selling for $900.00 to Charles Harlow, Culpepper, Va., "Gaywinds Christopher Violet" had recently freshened. Sired by an unproven bull, "Violet' boasted a "Milestones Generator" dam with credits of over 13,000 pounds of milk and butterfat tests of 5.6%.

Auctioneering the sale was S. Braden King, with Buddy Barnet reading pedigrees.

Consignments over $700.00 were:

"Sunset Ridge Pioneers Lana" - 3-year-old, consigned by Dana and Debra Stoudt, Bernville, purchased by Tom Toth, Boyd, Md. $850.00

"S.V. Production Lanita" - Senior Calf, consigned by John Stiles and sons, Westminster, Md., Purchased by Donnie Lusk, Eighty Four. $850.00

"Gaywinds Christopher Beth" -

Mandata poultry

"I've been in the poultry business for 20 years and count on this income.

"But think of the younger guys with newer houses, They're really up against it.

"It was around Christmas a year ago that their late payments went to 16 weeks. With two flocks in arrears, they owe me about $10,000.

"Depending on the size of their flocks, some growers may be owed three times that amount.

"When the financial situation became worse, we organized and 25 or so of us hired a lawyer.

"We hear all kinds of rumors that Mandata intends to liquidate, but keep its cut-up line and process only whole dressed bitrds that are brought in.

"We hear that the hatchery will be picking up the remaining birds that are grown out.

"But the growers with small birds may only have about a week's worth of feed on hand and then what."

In a letter to State Sec. of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell, the State Grange urged the Department "to aggressively seek new and expanded markets for the poultrymen."

The Grange also asked that the department call a meeting of the growers, farm organizations, the USDA and the State Department of Commerce to develop long-range strategies to benefit the Pennsylvania poultry farmer, and to increase the Department's efforts to advise the grower on ways to protect his financial interests.

Poultry growers in Adams, Mifflin, Snyder, Juniata, York and Lancaster counties have been under loosely-written grower-operator contracts for several years with Mandata, according to the Grange.

Under the contracts, Mandata owns the birds and supplies the feed and growers provide housing and labor. The contracts stipulate no payment period and either party may cancel at any time.

Earl Parsons, president of the Growers Association, said the company has promised to notify all growers within a week or two by letter as to the arrangements for back payments, according to the Grange.

The State Grange has been attempting to help the growers since January when they requested help in getting back pay from Mandata. Growers have also asked for state legislation to provide protection in cases of default or bankruptcy.

In February, the Grange set up a meeting between Mandata growers, the State Department of Agriculture and government officials in Harrisburg. Last week, the Grange formed a poultry advisory committee to draft state legislation requiring all poultry processors and brokers to be bonded. The State Grange plans to have the legislation introduced shortly.

On the national scene, the Grange seeks to amend the Federal Packers and Stockyards Act, which insures payment to livestock producers if a packer goes bankrupt, to provide identical financial security for the poultry industry.

State Grange Master Charles Wismer said:

"This problem is not unique to Pennsylvania. Currently, there are similar cases pending in Arkansas and North Carolina involving $10 million. The situation here in Pennsylvania makes it even more critical to develop legislation to protect our state's poultry industry."

Many growers are deeply in debt for loans on broiler houses, which can cost an average of $125,000 each, Wismer said. In addition, they have expenses for utilities to heat the houses.

Rodeo at the Buck next Saturday

Professional championship rodeo will be held at Buck Tractor Pull Stadium at 2 and 7 p.m. next Saturday. The stadium is located about 10 miles south of Lancaster on Rt. 272.

Championship events include bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, Brahma bull riding, calf roping, cowgirl's barrel race and team steer roping. Up to 200 participants are expected.

A total of $5,000 in prize money and entry fees will be offered, as well as points toward the year-end world championships. Additional featured attractions include two of the youngest trick and fancy stunt riders in the world, a trick and fancy rope artist, the bucking bull of the year and the rodeo clowns.

New district administrator

Gregory plans to tackle conservation problems 'head-on'

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LITITZ — Last week, L.F. reported on the appointment of former Pennfield feed sales manager Robert E. Gregory to the position of administrator for the Lancaster County Soil Conservation District.

This week, we'd like you to meet the man behind the name.

Gregory, a robust man towering over six feet, resides in northern Lancaster County between the little towns of Brickerville and Lincoln.

Like his height, his goals while administrator of the district, surpass the norm. He discussed these goals and his personal feelings about conservation with L.F. on Tuesday morning — his second day of work.

"Did you ever think of looking at soil as an irreplaceable resource? If you look at it that way, that should make you as aware of it as you would be to an oil crisis or an energy crisis," he said.

But he's quick to give credit where credit is do, explaining that this philosophy was given to him by Dale Gerber, vo-ag instructor of Warwick High School. "He asked me that and I thought that just shed a new light on the subject," he said.

"I took this job with the idea that it's a real important job," Gregory said, explaining that he views the job as a combined one of public relations and education.

"The biggest thing is that we (the District) accomplish things that people can see. In some cases, you've got to sell people on the philosophy of conservation. It's controlling and preserving," he explained.

"One thing I had to learn is how the entire Lancaster County Conservation District was set up," he said, eager to explain that it was created in the '30s to implement federal programs of the Soil Conservation Service as a result of the devastating dustbowls in the west.

But though the Conservation District is a new experience to him, agriculture is not. Gregory was selected out of 43 applicants for his widespread experience in agriculture according to Aaron Stauffer, president of the District Board of Directors.

The new administrator grew up on a 100-acre, 30-Guernsey dairy farm in Monroe County. Upon high school graduation, he entered Penn State to study ag education. After 7 1/2 years of teaching and serving in the veterinary core, he joined the Miller and Bushong Co. — which later became Pennfield — for a 25-year stint.

Today, Gregory lives with three of his four daughters in their R1 Lititz home. The Gregorys also share their property with three dogs and three registered Quarter horses.

Through the years, Gregory said he has become an avid hunter and collector of antiques.

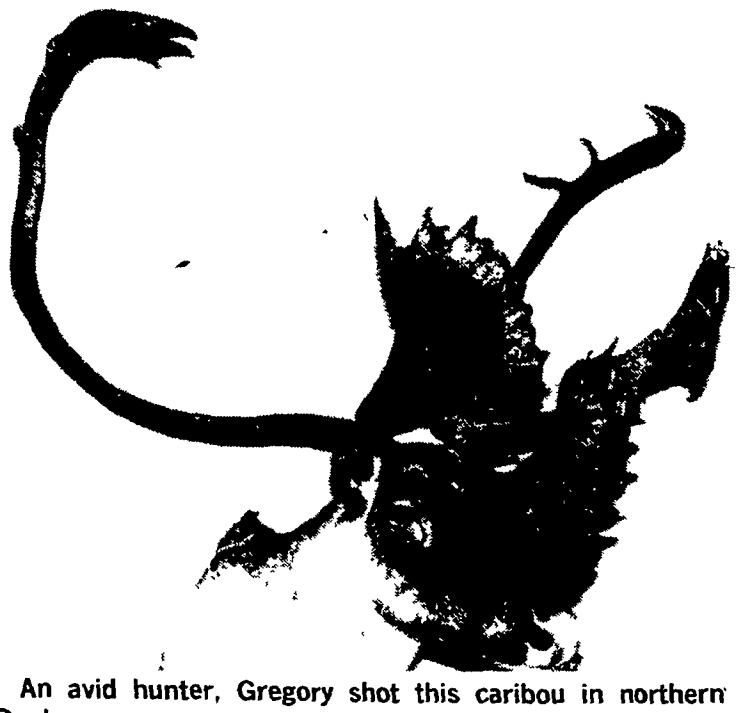
A widower for several years, Gregory attributes his collecting 'bug' to his deceased wife, Mary Alice. Among his antiques is a collection of Mary Alice Gregory glassware dating back to the 1800s, obviously saved because of the similarity in names.

Another hobby of Gregory's is a collection of hunting decoys. All shapes, sizes and colors line the walls of his home.

As an avid hunter, Gregory has had opportunity to practice his sport in several areas of North America, shooting his proudest conquest in northern Quebec — a caribou.

Robert E. Gregory, recently appointed to the position of administrator of the Lancaster County Soil Conservation District, discussed his goals for the job in an interview Tuesday - his second day of work.

Every room in the Gregory home is decorated with antiques.



An avid hunter, Gregory shot this caribou in northern Quebec.

Gregory serves on the Board of Trustees for the Ephrata Community Hospital and is second vice president of the Livestock and Allied Industries Board. He also is well-recognized for his dairy cattle and horse judging. He is a member of both the state and national Holstein Associations.

Anticipating his first day of work, Monday, Gregory said he put his boots in his car over the weekend. "I had a feeling I might need them on my first day. And would you believe at a quarter after six Monday morning, I had a telephone call from a man who said he saw my picture and read about me in Lancaster Farming and figured I would be the person to go to? Here I was, not even in the office. I didn't officially start work until 8 a.m that morning. It made me feel good," he laughed. "I got a kick out of it." And, before Monday was over, Gregory had visited the troubled farmer.

Looking toward the future, Gregory says, "I guess one of the things we need to look at soon is our deteriorating water quality. More and more, high intensity animal agriculture, over fertilization and on-lot sewage systems create trouble."

While he pinpoints water quality as a major concern in the county, he said he feels soil erosion is of equal importance.

"The last USDA survey taken before one completed in the late '70s was done in the '30s. The preliminary report showed that Lancaster County lost some 75 percent of their subsoil. This is a major concern," he said.

Pointing to last weekend's unusually high flooding, Gregory explained that most of the calls to the District on Monday centered around two kinds of concerns. "Some were concerned with what they lost in run-off and others were concerned about the run-off from their neighbor's fields.

"I think the figures state that it takes 100 years to make a tenth of an inch of topsoil, and we can lose 10 times that much with one good rain," he explained.

Gregory also hopes to correct a few bad habits throughout the county, calling this endeavor his "pet peave project:"

"I want to work with farmers who plow or till to the edge of the road. I just can't believe that the extra feet that they gain makes it all worthwhile. If measured in bushels, the production from that extra one row of corn probably would be less than 50 bushels to an acre. It would be better management if they left that roadbank green from the edge of the blacktop to the field. That will control run-off on fields and will save townships a heck of a lot of money in repairing or filling washout."

Snow fluttered to the ground around Gregory and one of his three registered quarter horses. The Gregorys also have three dogs.

With his hunting passion, Gregory joins the hobby of collecting decoys. These shelves are lined with decoy ducks, and the glasses, on top, are decorated with painted ducks. To the left is one of three "rewards" of his hunting trips that he had mounted and placed in his office.

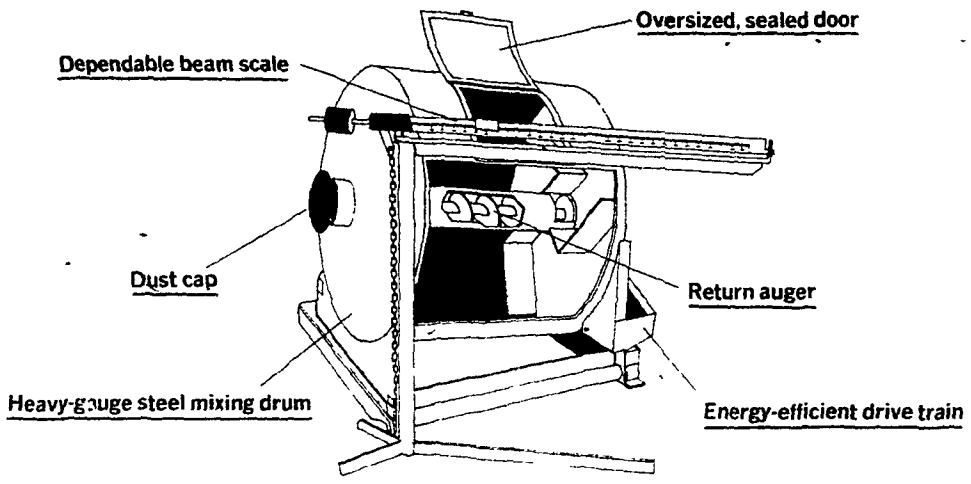
DUAL ACTION BLENDING

Mix grain, vitamin and mineral supplements thoroughly, efficiently - with this new grain blender



Advanced Design Makes The Difference!

As feed enters the loading hopper and into the stainless steel mixing drum the mechanical beam scale system weighs all ingredients to the pound for the precise diet your herd needs. The tilted rotating drum and stainless steel mixing paddles create a tumble-mix effect that quickly blends the feed ingredients in 1 to 3 minutes. Due to the tilted position of the mixing drum, the feed is moved to the rear of the mixing chamber where the return paddles scoop the feed into the return auger. The return auger then moves the feed to the loading end of the mixing drum where the tumble mix cycle is repeated. To unload the blender no reverse rotating of the mixing drum is necessary. Simply lift the discharge deflector control to the unload position. The feed is then deflected from the return auger into the discharge chute for quick unloading. The stainless steel construction of the mixing drum and mixing paddles resists unwanted forage material from building up inside the mixing chamber and insures a long rust free operating life. Bolt together construction allows for quick installation of the blender into existing feed rooms without widening doorways or removing standing walls. Few moving parts along with standardized components allows for easy lubrication and quick maintenance; all critical for a successful T.M.R. feeding system.

Chester-Del. grange holds session

RUSSELVILLE — Hobbies on display on Russellville Grange Hall entertained early-arriving patrons at the regular quarterly session of Chester-Delaware Pomona Grange #3 on April 9. The hobbies exhibited by both adults and Juniors included woodworking, needlework, and collections of model trains, planes, and soldiers.

The meeting opened with Youth Officers in the chairs since April is Grange Youth Month. Three Resolutions were presented. Two of them opposed the withholding of 10% of the interest earned on savings accounts, etc. beginning July 1. The other suggested that the money from uncashed Social Security checks be returned to the Social Security Fund instead of to the General Fund. All were approved by the Grange and will be forwarded to State Grange.

In his report, Master Terry Murray stated that he has been in communication with the Red Rose Alliance, a citizens' group that has gone on record as opposing the dumping of hazardous waste in Narvon Mines. It was also noted that the Lan-Chester Landfill has applied for a hazardous waste dumping permit.

Subordinate Visitations began yesterday when Goshen, West Caln, Sadsbury and Concord gathered at Brandywine to present programs on this year's theme, "Window on the World."

Goshen Grange reported that they had entered the Flag Presentation Contest at Region H Day March 29, and placed third.

Chaplain Robert Chambers led the group in a memorial service for those members who died during the past year, and flowers were placed on the altar in their memory.

Plans are being made to record radio spots for WCOJ, to be aired during Grange Week, April 24-30. The largest project to be undertaken this Spring will be Grange Day '83, at Honey Brook Grange Hall on April 30, the last day of Grange Week. State and Pomona Grange Committees will have displays to interpret the Grange message to the public as well as to new Grange members. The State Grange Exchange, in-

Ideally, Gregory said, it would be nice if every farm in the county had a conservation plan, so he's making plans to reach more farms. "I want to become more active in radio spots and radio releases.

"After I leave here (the interview), I'm making another field call from a farmer who says he's using good practices but is getting all his problems from his neighbor's fields," he says.

Asked how he would handle such a problem, Gregory smiled and replied, "In this case, you only listen. Hopefully, we'll come up with two people who will become farm cooperators."

Gregory explained that farm cooperators are farmers who have signed up with the District to have their farm programed by SCS as to what his needs are for the farm.

And as this hunting enthusiast will attest, the best way to handle any situation is head-on. If Gregory follows through on this philosophy, the District probably can expect a lot more farm cooperators on their list in the very near future.

Sheetz cites bill to protect farm fields

HARRISBURG — Unharvested fields would be protected from damage under legislation about to be introduced by Rep. Terry Scheetz.

The Lancaster County lawmaker has proposed a measure which would require hunters to obtain permission from farmers before hunting in unharvested buckwheat, corn, sorghum or soybean fields.

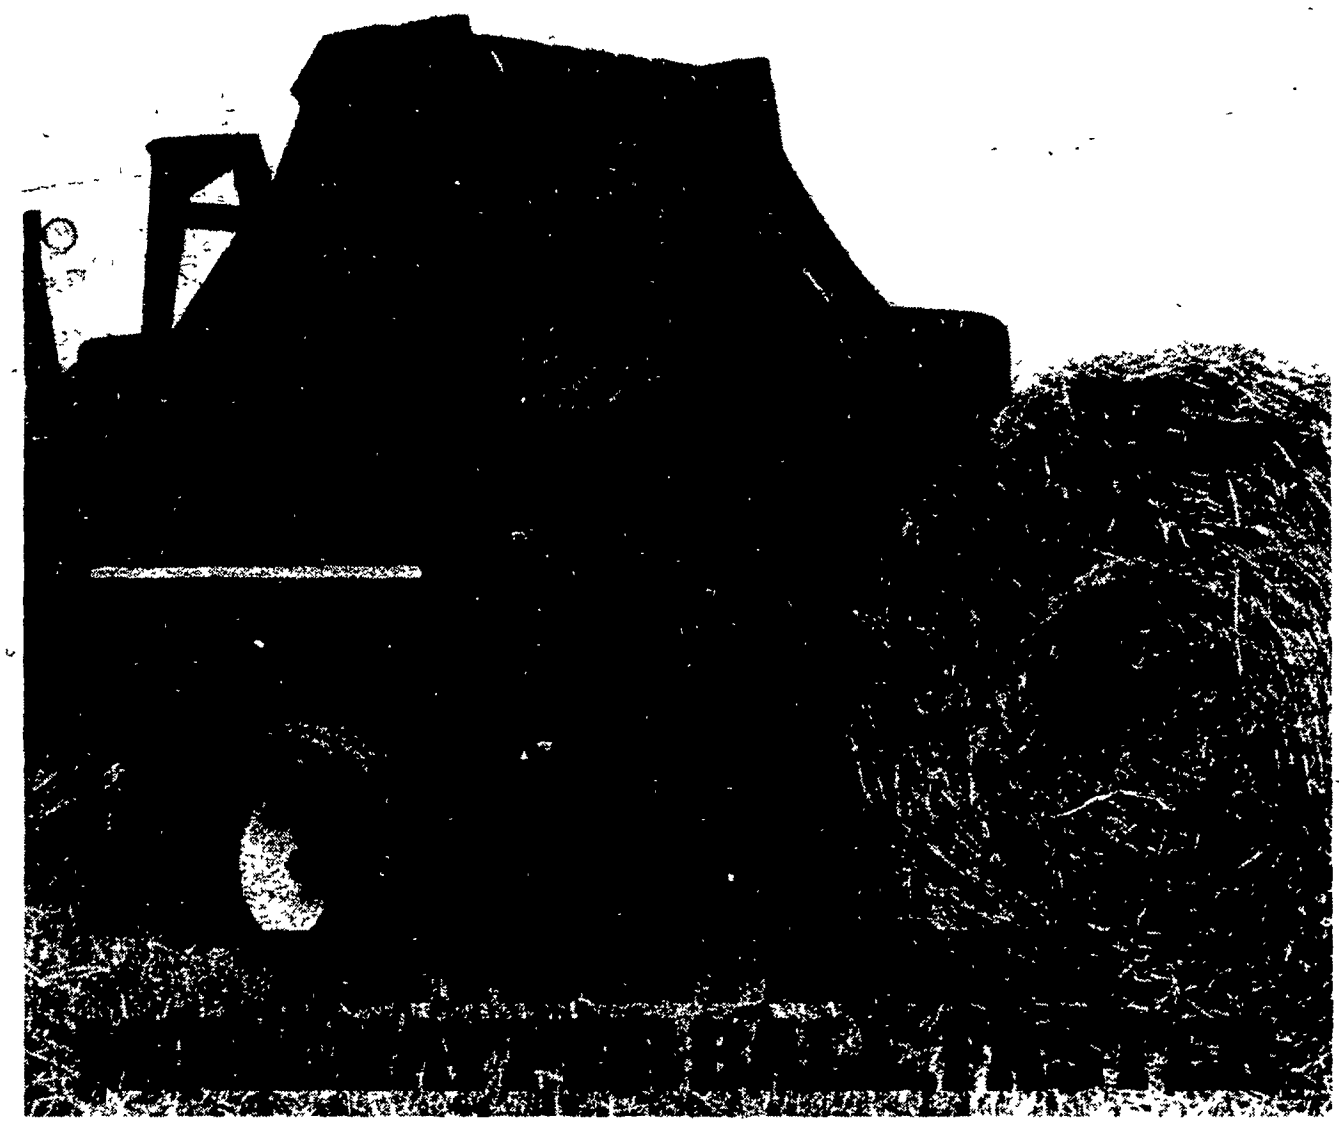
"Hunters who fail to comply would be subject to a $100 fine and a loss of hunting privileges in Pennsylvania for a year," noted Scheetz. "The bill also requires payment of damages to the farmer."

Scheetz said his proposal calls for enforcement by the Game Commission, not local law enforcement officials.

"Hunters will actually have more land to use as a result of this legislation," explained the 99th District lawmaker. "If hunters are required to stay off of unharvested fields, fewer farmers will 'post' their properties out of concern for crop damage. So once the fields are harvested, that much more land will be open to hunters."

Scheetz expressed optimism about the legislation's chances of passage, noting that the Majority and Minority Chairmen of the House Game and Fisheries Committee have both cosponsored the measure.

"Ultimately, all parties could benefit from this proposal," added Scheetz. "Farmers will have less crop damage. Hunters will encounter fewer 'No Trespassing' signs. And local police will face fewer enforcement problems.

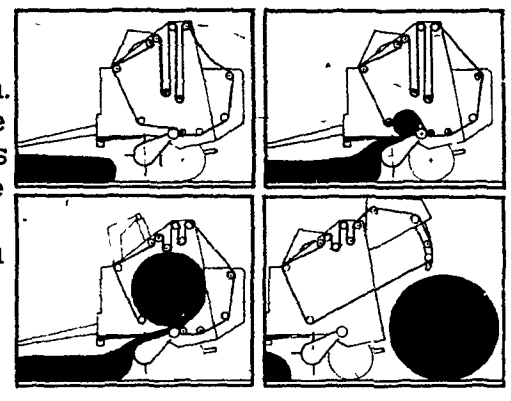


For baling tighter, heavier bales, there's no baler better than a Vicon. No baler is faster or more efficient. It can compress more hay into less space than any other baler.

That's the promise you get from Vicon.

Bales are produced in sizes to suit the grower, densities to suit the crop. An extra heavy duty pickup starts the bale through an open-throated chamber entrance. Hay, straw and even silage are baled fast and efficiently.

Bales have an even density from core to surface. Tightly rolled for respectable payloads and easy stacking and handling.



They're neat, smooth-sided and weather-resistant.

And when you're baling with the Vicon, there's no need to reverse when it comes time to eject. Special ramps make sure the finished bale is ejected clear of the tailgate.

There are two sizes: The Vicon RP 1500 produces five-foot bales. The RP 1200 produces four-foot bales. An electric tie system and automatic chain oiler are standard equipment on both sizes.

The Vicon Round Baler. It's all the baler you'll ever need. All rolled up in one machine.

A couple of FFA presidents speak out

BY SYLVIA COOPER

LANCASTER — During the past year, two local FFA chapters have had young ladies elected to the office of president. To say the least, this is an infrequent occurance, even for progressive Lancaster County.

As they are about to leave office, these active presidents share some thoughts with us about their terms of office and their views on various agricultural issues today.

Let me introduce you to both of them.

Carolyn Witmer, president of the New Holland FFA Chapter, comes from a small 35-acre crop farm. The Witmer family raises beef cattle, hogs and sheep.

Witmer was elected to her office by a large chapter totaling about 200 members.

She is a member of the National Suffolk Sheep Association, the Eastern National Livestock Association and the Advisory Ag Council. Also a member of the County FFA Club, she was elected the group's vice-president.

Gail Ginder, from the Manheim FFA Chapter, comes from a 70-cow dairy farm. The family also raises 200 hogs and about 250 steers.

During the past year, Ginder has served as the Alternate County Dairy Princess, was a member of the Beef 4-H Club and the Elizabethtown Grange. Some of her school activities include National Honor Society and Future Homemakers of America. She is presently a member of the Manheim Young Farmers Association.

The girls were interviewed seperately and asked to answer a number of questions. Here are the questions and their responses.

How do you feel about being elected president of a largely male organization and how do other members relate to you as a lady president?

Carolyn Witmer - It is a big responsibility, but it is also an honor. We have the second biggest chapter in the state so it means a lot to me to be elected president.

I had been a secretary for three years before becoming president, so I gained a lot of experience and good relations with other members. We are a close chapter and everyone gets along well with each other.

Gail Ginder - It was fun being elected president, but some parts are hard. Most of the guys have been really cooperative and have helped me. I can't complain.

I think it was a shock to many to find that I am the president, especially with only two girls in the chapter. My sister and I are the only girls.

Most people, when they get used to it, think it is great. We have good relations among our FFA members.

What special memories will you take with you from this past year?

Carolyn Witmer - I have no regrets with my experiences in FFA. Even my failures have been stepping-stones to future experiences. I have gained a lot and learned many skills.

Gail Ginder - FFA is a great organization. It has taught me leadership and responsibility. I'd like to encourage more girls to join and seek offices. My advisors have been very helpful to me and I have made many friends through FFA.

Something really funny happened at one of our meetings. A mouse ran in front of our FFA sweetheart and she screamed. I think everybody will remember that.

Do you have any special interests or activities that you particularly enjoy in FFA?

(Turn to Page A25)

Gail Ginder, president of the Manheim FFA Chapter, says her office has taught her leadership and responsibility. She is one of only two girls in her Chapter.

Carolyn Witmer, of the New Holland FFA Chapter, says being president is a responsibility and an honor.

ET, good neighbors & 200 quilts mark York Holstein tour

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — Three diversified purebred Holstein breeding operations, with a stop at historic Hopewell Village, took York County Holstein breeders through Lancaster, Berks and Chester Counties on their annual club bus tour April 13.

First visit was to Len-Lyn Farms, operated by the Galen Crouse family, at Stevens R1 in northern Lancaster County.

The Crouse's work with breeding and merchandising of embryo transplant calves has earned them international recognition, and offspring of the herd's top pedigreed individuals are scattered across the states and in eight foreign countries.

Galen and Carolyn, with their sons Phil and Neil, run this family farm and its herd of over 100 milking animals, with a herd average of nearly 19,000 milk. Bulk of the milking string is housed in an L-shaped tie-stall facility.

Top-pedigreed individuals superovulated and flushed for transplant eggs, are kept in a 24-box-stall barn adjoining the tie-stall area. Known as "Kathy's barn, this box-stall section was originally built for a maternity area when first calves of the farm's best-known brood dam were due.

"Windy Mont Matt Kathy" is an EX-90 Matt daughter, and the foundation of the Len-Lyn merchandising success story. She alone is credited with having produced nearly half of the approximately 150 ET calves born at the farm since the initial venture into flushing her in 1978. Kathy's offspring are now in 11 states, with two sons by Valiant in Japan.

A second, larger box-stall facility opens off the opposite side of the milking barn, for maternity and young heifer care, while three dozen outside hutches provide more individual care for ET calves.

The Harvey Stolzfus family hosted the York tour's second stop at their Berks County farm, just south of Morgantown. Located just a short distance from Harvey's boyhood home, the farm had belonged to his uncle until the Stolzfus family moved here in 1968.

Harvey, Mary Jane, and their sons, Donald, Glenn, Dwight and Dwayne, maintain the herd of 62 registered Holsteins. Type is heavily stressed in the breeding program, and a recent classification resulted in an unofficial BAA of close to 105.

On December 12, 1982, fire swept through the bank-style barn, totally destroying the milking tie-stall area and the winter supply of hay for the cattle. Friends and neighbors poured into the picturesque farm valley over the next several days, cleaning up the damage and building a new hip-roofed barn.

By Christmas Eve, the new tie-stall housing for the herd was ready for milking use, and the herd was reassembled from the three farms nearby that had assumed care of the cows in the interim.

(Turn to Page A26)

Phil Crouse, at corner of boxstall, exchanges cattle breeding views with visiting group of York Holstein breeders.

Harvey and Mary Jane Stoltzfus, of Morgantown, expressed their thanks to friends and neighbors who helped rebuild their barn and get cows back home within a couple of weeks after a fire last December.

FFA presidents speak out

Carolyn Witmer - I was a member of the Parlimentary Procedure Team. We participated in four contests, local, area, regional and state. We won state (competition) and later took a trip to Canada and New England to celebrate.

Being on the team helped me learn cooperation and leadership and gave me-a sense of responsibility to my other team members. We became very close through competing together. We had to make a lot of sacrifices to get together and really work.

Gail Ginder - I participated in the Extemporaneous Public Speaking Contest. We had a first place at state and a second in tri-state (competition).

I was also a member of the Parlimentary Procedure Team and won the chain calf, one year.

What type of responsibilities do you have at home or in your work experience?

Carolyn Witmer - I show sheep and raise breeding sheep. I also have a home-garden and two acres of sweet corn.

As far as work goes, I have an on farm work experience with my father planting crops on our farm. I have work-study in the middle of the day at Good's Greenhouse, in Bowmansville. I transplant various types of plants. The job is routine, but I find that working with different kinds of plants keeps it interesting.

I also work at Yoder's Country Market selling produce after school.

Gail Ginder - I have a work-study experience here at home. I take care of the steers and help with the milking. It takes me about one hour to feed the steers and then I help with the last of the milking in the evening.

Do you participate in shows and if so has the experience been an enjoyable one?

Carolyn Witmer - Yes, I showed at all three county fairs. I also showed at Harrisburg and Maryland.

The best part of showing has been the relationships developed with the people I've shown animals with.

I remember a personal experience where I helped fit someone else's lamb. It was his first experience with fitting and as it turned out, he won and I was second.

Gail Ginder - I showed in the district dairy FFA show at Manheim and Elizabethtown. Showing is lots of fun and I've met many new people while showing.

What are your future plans?

Carolyn Witmer - I would like to run for a state FFA office. If I would happen to be elected, I think I would take off a year from school to use all my time for the demands of the office.

After that, I would like to go to Penn State and major in ag-communications and ag-education. I would eventually like to do some ag-teaching.

Gail Ginder - I want to go into partnership with my father. I'd also like to go to business school at Central Penn.

In your opinion what are some problems facing Lancaster County agriculture today?

Carolyn Witmer - One of the biggest problems facing us is vanishing farmland. I think the agricultural community needs to be more aware of the problem and be responsible enough to see that it (the land) is preserved as farmland.

Unfortunately, many of us don't want to get involved until we become personally affected.

Another problem we are facing is the excesses in production. It is easy to condemn the government for PIK, but something must be done to correct excess production. One side of me says we should produce as much as we possibly can, the other side of me says, hold back.

Perhaps farmers should look at other crops to grow on our farms besides our conventional crops.

Gail Ginder - I don't like the way we have to mark hogs before they are sold at market. The tags have needles on them and are slapped on the hogs backs causing them a lot of pain.

We also need to have more people drink milk. It would solve a lot of our problems if we drank the excess milk.

Can you make any predictions for our agricultural future?

Carolyn Witmer - Agriculture is one of our nations fastest growing fields.

I foresee agriculture and food production becoming like the oil business. Our people and agricultural products will be in demand.

Right here around Lancaster, we have many opportunities with ag-corporations and businesses, although I think it will be more difficult to get into farming in the future.

If you really want to get into farming though, it isn't impossible. In this county, a farmer doesn't need to purchase as much land as in other parts of Pa., because of the richness and productivity of the soils.

Gail Ginder-I think that if milk production comes down, there will be lots of farmers who will have problems making payments on loans. We need to encourage people to drink more milk and then we wouldn't have to reduce prices.

Record crowd attends poultry banquet

HERSHEY — A record breaking crowd, totaling 1726 in number, attended the Pa. Poultry Federation Annual Fund Raising Banquet held April 14, at the Convention Center.

Following a new format, the banquet was served downstairs to all but 200 ticket-holders, who overflowed to the upstairs as the large ballroom filled to capacity.

Mel Tillis, a favorite country western singer, provided the evening entertainment. Accompaning Tillis was the Statesider group.

Charlie Slavin, a popular comedian, served as master of ceremonies.

Cutworms work fast.
LORSBAN* Insecticides stop them
before they start.

It usually happens just after transplanting. One day your tobacco plants look fine; the next day they're starting to go down, cut off at the ground by cutworms. And you're stuck with an expensive, time consuming — and completely unnecessary — resetting project.

Unnecessary, because if you'd used LORSBAN* Insecticides at transplanting, you would have stopped not only the usual batch of tobacco pests like wireworms, but the destructive and unpredictable cutworm as well.

This year, stop cutworms before they start with LORSBAN* 15G Granular Insecticide or LORSBAN* 4E Liquid Insecticide, now available in the convenient one gallon size. For more information, write to Dow Chemical U.S.A., Inquiry Service, 1703 South Saginaw Road, Midland, Michigan 48640.

The Stolzfus are abundant with their thanks and praise for those who helped with the buildings, and for donations of hay that arrived later. In spite of the fire and the temporary housing with neighbors, the herd has maintained a rolling herd average of 16,000 milk.

Bull selection earns high priority attention on this herd of 4 Excellent, 25 Very Good, 27 Good Plus and 6 Good individuals. Stolzfus leans forward typey bulls with production, rather than dwelling heavily on index numbers.

"If I make up my mind to use a certain bull, not too much influences me against that," he told the York breeders. Current sires favored include Wileeda, Milkman, Marvation and Magic.

A mostly-home-bred herd fills the 60 tie-stalls at Rocky Side Holsteins in Chester County, owned by the Jefferson Yoder family, Elverson. Jeff and his son, Carl, operate the 800-acre farm, cropped to hay and grains, and also maintain a herd of 120 head of Herefords.

Yoder's breeding philosophy shys aways from the "hot", high Predicted Difference sires, with typiness and size an important part of the overall breeding goal. One measure of Yoder's success is his 16 consecutive years of winning the Holstein Association's Progressive Breeder Award, and an unofficial BAA of 105.5.

"Our bulls have panned out better than those with high PD numbers," he attests of his use ho home-bred sons in the breeding program.

Yoder worries that the continued use of the Elevation and Chief lines in the Holstein breed pose a threat to the long-term quality and size of the breed.

Holstein women on the bus trip got a special treat at the Yoder farm, with a tour of the family home hosted by Reba Yoder.

Reba is noted for her quilt-making, and the beautifically-crafted braided rugs that cover most of the floor space in the spacious, historic home. Encouraged at age 14, by her mother and great aunt to try her hand at quilting, Reba Yoder has since quilted over 200 large quilts, and admits that she has lost count of the baby quilts and wall hangings she has done.

Final stop of the tour was at Hopewell Village, a restored iron-making community that is now maintained as a historic national site.

Jefferson Yoder, right, explains his cattle breeding philosophy to visiting York Countians. Yoder's Rocky Side Holsteins hold 16 consecutive Progressive Breeder awards.

SAYS ABOUT
NU-PULSE MILKERS

"We milk about 42 cows. In March 1980 we changed from Surge mini cups to Nu-Pulse milkers. My brother was using Nu-Pulse and told me about them. I wondered if they would be good when I saw them.

We had a bad fall off problem before we installed the Nu-Pulse milker, now we have just about eliminated fall off. We have had far less mastitis since using the Nu-Pulse milkers.

We have a herd of grade Holsteins. With the Nu-Pulse milker our herd has a rolling herd average of 20,529 lbs. of milk as of March 1983. In March 1980 before we had the Nu-Pulse milkers our herd average was just over 15,000.

We are very happy with the Nu-Pulse milkers."

Crowd gathers for Ag Arena groundbreaking

A crowd of about 300 showed up April 15 at University Park for the ground breaking ceremony for Penn State's new Ag Arena. The arena, expected to cost over $1.4 million, is scheduled to be completed by July 1 of next year.

To symbolize Penn State's role in early Pennsylvania agriculture, ground was broken for the new building by an antique ground scoop, pulled by a team of mules. The mules represented the teams that dragged stone from where it was quarried on campus to the construction site of the original Old Main building at Penn State.

Huff retires as U of D herdsman

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

NEWARK, DEL — On April 30, Ivan Huff will turn the cows out, hang up the milker, and close the barn door behind him. On that day Huff will retire after 24 years and seven months as dairy herdsman for the University of Delaware research farm.

Huff came to the University as herdsman in 1958. Over the years he has become a familiar figure to people in the dairy industry in Delaware. Whether it be showing cattle, hosting a farm tour, preparing cattle for judging classes, or teaching a college student how to milk a cow, Huff has always proudly represented the University.

He is no stranger to dairymen in Pennsylvania and Maryland either. Huff is not unlike the 'army brat' that grows up and joins the service himself. While he was growing up his father managed several different dairy herds for estates in the Pittsburgh, Reading and Harrisburg areas. In 1945 after serving in the military service Huff started working as a herdsman for Twin Meadows Farm in Centerville, Maryland. He stayed there twelve and a half years, until the failing health of the owner resulted in the herd dispersal. From Twin Meadows Farm, Huff went to Lauxmont Farm in Wrightsville. After a year and a half there under the iron hand of an absentee owner Huff left to work for the University of Delaware.

"I enjoy working with cows," said Huff. Outside of the time I served in the military, I've worked with cows all my life. The part I like most about my work is milking. You learn more about your cows by milking them then any other way."

He is not the only one that learned by his milking. Huff has hosted many visitors in the University milking parlor, who come to see how cows are milked. Some ask questions, others actually put a milker on, but all learned something about dairying from the herdsman who could fill a college text book with the questions he has answered.

"The hardest part of my job is getting the cows bred, getting them back in calf," said Huff. "Although we do have a 12 month calving interval, it's difficult catching them in heat."

Maybe that's the reason he often returned to the dairy when he was supposed to be off, but more than likely it was his dedication to his work and love of cattle.

The University of Delaware's herd is a mixed herd. About half the cows are Holsteins, about another third are Guernseys, and there are representatives of the other dairy breeds.

When Huff came to the University in 1958 the Holstein herd had a rolling herd average of 9,284 pounds of milk, last year they reach a RHA of 18,659, this year they have a RHA of 18,686. The color breeds' production also have risen dramatically from 5,694 pounds of milk in 1958 to this year's RHA of 14,439. His knowledge of cows, management ability, and cooperation with George F. W. Haenlein, Dairy Specialist, helped to increase milk production.

While he has been herdsman the University herd has had two class leaders for the Holstein breed.

Huff confides, "I've shown alot of cattle, even when I was kid. But I don't really care for it that much."

He could have fooled alot of people with his enthusiasm on show day. In his show whites with vertical blue and gold stripes, Huff has lead many champions through the show ring. It's probably a safe bet to say Huff will be at ring side this year for the dairy show at the Delaware State Fair.

Francis Waters, his daughter, and her husband Ron have a farmette near Rising Sun, Maryland. They have two children, Ronny and Wendy. Huff is putting a trailer on the property and will live there after he retires.

"I'll be with my grandchildren, that's the best part about retiring," said Huff. "I just had a birthday, and I got two fishing rods, so I guess I'll be doing some fishing too. Of course, I'll raise some calves and maybe a couple of pigs."

An avid gardener, Huff plans to plant a large garden as well. While at the Universtiy, his garden was so large that he supplied many of the people working on the farm with fresh vegetables.

Thinking back over the years he has worked at the University, Huff recalls many of the changes he has seen take place.

"When I came here," he said, " you could loose a tractor out front in the mud... There was three small upright silos and we had to fork out all the silage... We used to keep a bull all the time, now everything is bred artifically... The biggest change was when we moved from the stanchion barns to the milking parlor and freestall barns."

The changes reflect general trends the dairy industry has experienced over the past twenty-five years. Come April 30, the University will experience one more change, when Ivan Huff retires.

Ivan Huff, University of Delaware herdsman, will retire April 30.

Accident releases deadly gas

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

GETTYSBURG — Toxic anhydrous ammonia killed four cows and injured others, when a relief valve was broken on a storage tank in a bizzare accident, allowing the deadly gas to escape. Fortunately, no persons were injured by the unimaginable incident that happened Monday morning on Mason Dixon Farms.

According to Horace Waybright, part owner of the farm, a large overhead storage tank for granular fertilizer shifted and collapsed onto the anhydrous ammonia tank, pushing the ammonia tank off it's base and snapping off the relief valve. Anhydrous ammonia gas burst rapidily through the three inch hole torn in the pressurized tank.

The overhead granualar tank had been filled early that same morning.

"The overhead granular tank that collapsed is divided into four comparments," said Waybright. "Three comparments were filled, one was empty. It must have shifted from an uneven weight stress."

Drifting ammonia gas filled the dairy barns, resulting in the death of four cattle. Other cows incurred lung damage from the gas, some cows had bloody nasal discharges. Cows that had sustained critical injuries had to be shipped out.

Farmer Boy Ag Air Inlet System

For Poultry Or Livestock Buildings

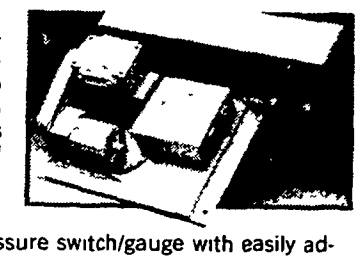
The success of a poultry and livestock operation depends heavily on a reliable, well designed ventilation system. While fans are the most noticeable part of the ventilation system, the air inlets are a very critical component of the system. The inlets must be properly designed and adjusted to circulate air throughout the building without creating drafts or temperature variations. The Farmer Boy Air Inlet System can be operated on a manual or completely automated basis depending on your specific requirements.

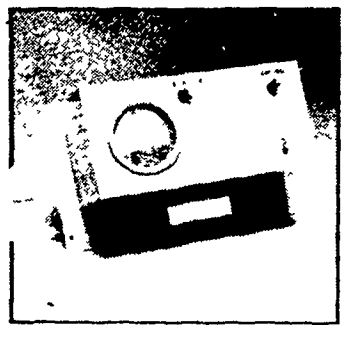
◄ The air inlet is manufactured from galvanized steel and is factory assembled for your convenience. Each inlet is 48" long and has three mounting frame brackets. The centre bracket is equipped with a nylon pulley assembly that will accept the 3/16" master cable as well as the drop chain which connects the inlet door to the master cable line.

The inlet door which is approximately 9" wide is fitted with a 1" thick construction grade styrofoam insulating to minimize cold weather condensation. The styrofoam board, closes against the inlet's steel frame thus providing a thermal break in the unit.

If desired the styrofoam board will slide partially into the next unit to form a continuous rather than modular door system over the entire length of the building

The power pack unit which is easily connected to the control panel has a 12" sweep with 3,000 lbs. pull before stalling and travels 1 38 inches per minute (8.6 minutes to open to 12") The unit features a heavy duty motor and is shear pin protected to prevent overload. Limit switches within the unit are adjustable to adapt to your individual system ►





◄ The Static monitor control panel has a photophelic pressure switch/gauge with easily adjusted set points from 0 to .50 W.C

The control panel is very practical and uncomplicated. It consists of a "lung" which expands or contracts in response to pressure changes between outside (atmospheric) and inside the building, caused by the increasing or decreasing ventilation rates This "lung" in return activates switches which signal the actuator to either open or close the air inlets, thus the static pressure is maintained at a constant level with inlet velocity remaining the same as the volume of air changes

The door adjustment package includes drop chain, cable clamp and hitch pin. Also shown are the corner pulley and winch for manual systems. ►

Building A Good Lactation

In my last article, I mentioned that dry cows deserve a lot of care. They are mothers-to-be, and will soon be facing one of the most stressful times in their life, that of calving. At that same time, they are also adjusting to all those other changes in feeds, housing, herdmates, daily routines, etc.

Our challenge then is to help the dry cow through this period of time with a minimum of stress so she can get about her business of being a good mother and of having a healthy, productive and profitable lactation. To accomplish this, we need to look at several specific periods of time in her life, and focus on some of the things that should be accomplished at these times.

Late Lactation

Care of the dry cow starts in late lactation. This is the opportune time to get cows in good flesh before turning them dry. It is also your opportune time for getting all the cows in the dry cow group in uniform flesh; that makes it easier for you to feed them properly as a dry cow group.

Late lactation is also the time to start discouraging production by reducing grain intake and perhaps be feeding poorer quality forages.

First Week

It's drying off time. To further discourage milk production, remove the cow from the milking string, away from her normal routine and away from the sights and sounds of milking - away from those things that stimulate milk let-down. Place her in a sanitary stall or pen away from her usual herdmates, and switch her onto different feeds.

Stop milking her abruptly and dry treat all quarters. Intermittent milking may be necessary in some situations, but generally is not recommended because it sends the cow confusing signals; she doesn't know whether she's expected to produce milk, or go dry. Pressure buildup in the udder is another deterrent to milk secretion. So, give it time to work. Within a few days, the udder should start regressing in size. Observe the cow's udder frequently. If there is any sign of infection, milk her out and retreat her.

Sanitation is very important during this first week. Did you know that 40% of all new mastitis infections occur in the dry period? Most of them occur during the first and last weeks of the dry period. Why? After drying off, it takes a few days for the sphincter muscle at the base of the teat to close tightly. It also takes a few days for the waxy, keratin, bacteria-fighting plug to form in the teat canal. Until this happens, the door at the end of the teat is partially open. Organisms can enter the teat, and because they're not being flushed out twice daily at milking time, they have time to get established and create an infection. And, this can happen to cows that are turned dry with healthy udders and low somatic cell counts - thus, the need for sanitation and dry cow treatment. In some situations, teat dipping will also be beneficial.

The Dry Period

Now that we have the cow dried off, let's put her in a dry cow group, separate from the milking herd. This is very important if she is to get the care she needs.

Remember, we turned her dry in good flesh - not too fat, not too thin. Our challenge now is to maintain that flesh throughout the dry period. That means reducing her energy intake by reducing her grain and corn silage consumption. We may also need to feed a poorer quality, bulkier forage. It may be helpful to replace some of the chopped forages with longer forages.

Reducing energy intake and preventing cows from becoming overconditioned, can help prevent "fat cow" syndrome and all its related problems, inability to cope with stress, downer cows, ketosis, loss of appetite, displaced abomasum, calving difficulties and reproductive problems. The feeding of bulkier forages increases rumen activity, reduces the risk of displaced abomasums and encourages greater dry matter intake.

The ration also needs to be balanced for protein, vitamins and minerals. Avoid excess calcium intake and excess protein intake by reducing legume intake; some of the legumes can be replaced with grass forages. Excess calcium increases the risk of milk fever.

Force feed the required amounts of vitamins and minerals in the cow's ration. Adequate levels of selenium can help prevent retained placentas. If it is inconvenient to feed vitamins and selenium, consider injecting them. Salt intake should also be restricted, as excess salt can help cause more udder edema.

As you can see, there is a lot to consider when feeding dry cows. It is important for them to receive a balanced ration, even though they are not producing milk. And to accomplish this, they need to be fed differently than the lactating herd.

The dry period is also a good time to trim feet, to let cows get off concrete, to get more exercise, and to administer necessary immunization shots.

Continue to observe her for udder infections. If inflammation is noticed, milk out the udder and retreat her with a dry cow preparation. However, be sure to withhold milk for the prescribed amount of time. A few pounds of milk that might have to be discarded in early lactation is a cheap price to pay for the opportunity to use a product that is strong enough to wipe out udder infections; it's nice to start the new lactation with an udder that is free of infection.

Acclimation Period

The act of calving is a stress. It's no time to pull any surprises on her! Starting 2-3 weeks before calving, increase her grain intake gradually to a maximum of 0.5 percent of her body weight; that'd be a maximum of about 5-8 pounds for a few days before calving. Also start introducing her to the same kinds of feed she'll be receiving later as a fresh cow. But, restrict her intake; she's still a dry cow and you don't want to get her too fat. Nor do you want to kill her appetite. This gradual change will give her rumen time to adjust, which can help prevent off feed problems, displaced abomasums, and acetonemia.

This is also a time to acclimate dry cows, and especially springing heifers, to herdsmen, to herdmates, to their new surroundings, and to their daily routines. Also, check their past records so you know what problems to anticipate. Deworming can also be performed at this time.

It's been a chore to get all dairymen to form a dry cow group. If you already have a dry cow group, a further refinement would be to have a second group - an acclimation group - for those that are 2-3 weeks away from calving.

Close-Up

A few days before calving, move the cow to a sanitary maternity area where she can be observed frequently. The area should have good footing, and be able to accomodate equipment that might have to be used to assist down cows. Areas harboring disease organisms, such as hospital barns, should not be used.

Again, sanitation at this time is very important for preventing mastitis, reproductive infections, and calfhood diseases. A clean pasture lot or pen, or a manure pack bedded lavishly with fresh long straw are good choices.

If the cow is leaking or if she has a lot of edema, you may want to pre-milk her. But, be sure to save the first milk for her calf; it is richest in antibodies. By this time, there should be no antibiotic residue levels remaining from the dry treatment; there's nothing in the udder to fight infection - thus, the need for sanitation. Here again, teat dipping may prove beneficial.

Early Lactation

Hopefully, the cow had no problem calving. For a few days after calving, make no changes in feeding. Then start increasing her grain and forage intake, watching her appetite closely. You want to get as much dry matter into her as possible. As you feed her more grain and corn silage, also be sure to increase her intake of hay crop forages.

To reach peak production, to sustain high levels of production, to test as well as can be expected for her level of production, to regain flesh and to be reproductively active, she needs a voracious appetite, a gut full of the right blend of high quality feeds, and a healthy system. It involves team work between you, your feedman, your veterinarian and the cow. A good dry cow sets the stage for a good lactation. Don't miss the opportunity!

This has been an attempt to relate some dry cow management practices to specific periods of time in a cow's life. I realize that all these concepts do not fit every farm situation. Review what you are doing now, and determine what is needed. Before concluding that you can't do many of these things, determine whether you can't, or won't. Caring for dry cows properly may be inconvenient; it may require some changes in facilities and daily routines. But, these could turn out to be very profitable inconveniences and changes.

A-Day at DVC next Weekend

DOYLESTOWN — A-Day, a two-day annual open house at Delaware Valley College will be held rain or shine on Saturday and Sunday, April 30 and May 1. Hours for this Agricultural and Science Exposition are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days and admission is free.

A-Day is a popular event attracting thousands of visitors to the campus each year. One of the early springtime events in the Central Bucks area, A-Day offers something for every member of the family.

The campus is turned into an exposition as students present exhibits relating to the various course offerings of the College.

Beef and dairy cattle as well as sheep and swine are on display and visitors will be treated to various animal judging contest throughout the weekend. A horse show and a small animal laboratory exhibit round out the features of the Animal Science Division.

An extensive Flower and Garden Show as well as greenhouse displays will be presented by the Ornamental Horticulture Department. Many types of early spring plants and other items for the home garden will be on sale during the weekend.

The various classroom and laboratory buildings will be open for tours and will feature displays on Biology, Chemistry, Food Science, Business Administration, Agronomy and Horticulture.

Honey bees and honey products will be another popular exhibit and various other special features, including an art show, will be of-

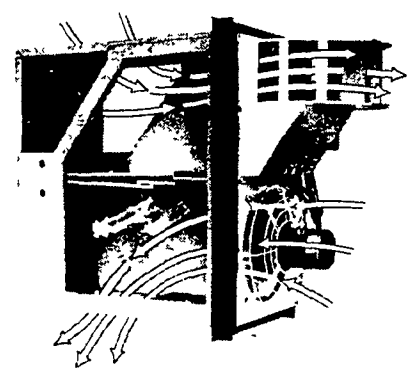
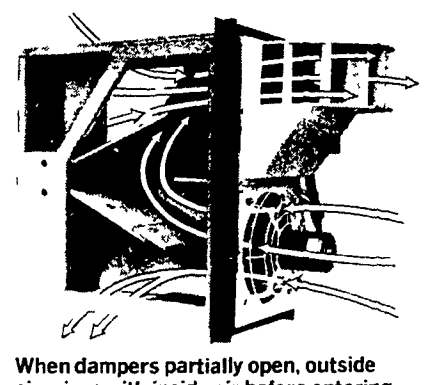
Martin-Air is the result of years of research and development in the field of livestock environmental engineering.



When dampers are fully open maximum cooling and air exchange takes place.



When dampers partially open, outside air mixes with inside air before entering the building.

Pa. State Grange

Wismer cites the importance of the study:

"The collective results will help direct the leadership of the Pennsylvania State Grange in formulating an updated Grange program."

Both Henry and Wismer stress the fact that all individual responses to the survey will be kept confidential.

As a followup, a copy of the results and recommendations will be sent to each subordinate grange to be shared with its membership.

Henry plans to begin analyzing the results on the Penn State computer in May and write his thesis on the survey and results in the summer and fall.

To assess the image of the Grange from non-members, the 60 State Deputies will each submit the names of eight non-Grange members from their area who will receive a separate survey.

The Grange was formed nationally in 1867 as an aftermath of the Civil War and in Pennsylvania in 1873. It was the nation's first farmer organization.

In a proclomation signed by Governor Dick Thornburgh designating Grange Week, the Governor said:

"This special tribute to the State Grange recognizes the large amount of strength and vitality we have derived from the services of this grassroots organization. Local Granges have served as hubs of community activity and have provided convenient forums for planning in our rural communities. Grange members have also taken an active role in government and the legislative process."

Pennsylvania Grange membership stands above 42,000 in 552 local community units. Nationwide, membership totals 450,000 in 37 states.

Meet Grange survey author

UNIVERSITY PARK — Arba L. Henry is a former Delaware State FFA officer, a Lancaster County vo-ag teacher and an active Granger who has a deep personal interest in the farm organization he is now surveying.

A member of Lancaster County Fulton's Grange since coming here from Delaware in 1970, Henry has held several offices, as well as chairman of the ag committee.

He is also quite active in other community activities in southern Lancaster County, including former member of Quarryville

Borough Council, past president of the fire company and member of the Rotary Club, as well as director of the Solanco Fair Association and chairman of the youth department.

An FFA member in Delaware, he served as the state association president in 1967.

Henry is an ag education graduate of the University of Delaware.

Coming to Solanco High School in 1970, he was named chairman of the vo-ag department upon the retirement of Dr. William Fred about five years ago.

Just this past year, he was awarded his Honorary American Farmer Degree at the National FFA Convention.

He was born and raised on a poultry and grain farm at Laurel, Del. His parents still farm.

Included in his activities at Solanco High School were involvement in a three-year pilot program to develop a course of study for high school teachers to instruct in the area of ag products.

Henry is now on a year's leave of absence from his Solanco post participating in post-graduate studies at Penn State. He will be writing his master's thesis on the Grange survey and its results.

Hearings

Farmers Union Milk Producers Co-op President William Sturges, Tioga County; Farmers Union Milk Producers' Association President Jack Rynd, Crawford County; Albert Garber, York County; and David Stetler, Mifflin County, all dairy farmers.

Approxomately 50 farmers were in attendence as observers. A number of farmers testified before the judge, disclosing their financial statements. The testimonies brought out the low income many dairy farmers are receiving after assignments to creditors are taken from their milk checks. An implement dealer testified that his company and other similar companies will suffer from reduced income to the farmer.

A ruling on the hearing had not been handed down at this printing, but is expected to come within the next couple of days.

SENATE HEARING

A final decision is also being awaited on a hearing held April 13 and 14 before the Senate Agriculture subcommittee on Agriculture Production, Marketing and Stabilization of Prices. The committee chaired by Senator Thad Cochran held the hearing to examine the options that have been proposed for modifying the dairy program.

The Senate is under alot of pressure to pass legislation that will rectify the dairy surplus problem and do away with the 50 cents assessment.

According to Ag Committee Press Secretary Ron Phillips, six bills have been introduced to the Senate to correct the dairy surplus. The one point of agreement is that the 50 cents assessment must be replaced.

Most of the testimonty came from two general schools of thought, either to decrease the price support, or to give producers a monetary incentive to reduce production.

Generally, dairy interests from New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota favored a plan to give an incentive to reduce production. The Southeast and other areas tended to favored a plan to reduce the support price.

Phillips said, he expects the final decision to include elements of both, and be a compromise between them. He anticipates a final decision to come out within the next couple of weeks.

Lancaster Co. leads Order 4

ALEXANDRIA, VA — Lancaster County continued as the leading milk producing county in the Federal Order No. Four milkshed, according to the Order's 1982 Annual Statistical Report. During the 12 months of 1982 a total of 793.1 million pounds of milk produced in Lancaster County was pooled under Order Four. The value of this milk was nearly $110 million. The second leading milk producing county was Frederick, Md with 450.8 million pounds of pooled milk which was valued at $62.2 million. In December 1982 milk from 138 counties in 7 state was included in the Order Four pool.

During 1982 a record 6.04 billion pounds of producer milk was pooled under the Middle Atlantic Order. This total represents an increase of over 103 million pounds or 1.7 percent from the previous year. The value of all pooled milk in 1982 was $834.4 million compared with $829.6 million in 1981.

The Order Four Class I milk price averaged $15.26 per hundredweight during the year, a drop of 10 cents from the 1981 average.

The Class II price averaged $12.51 per hundredweight in 1982 compared to $12.60 the previous year.

The Order Four Class I milk price averaged $13.81 per hundredweight during the 12 months of 1982, a 19 cent drop from a year earlier. The average 1982 excess milk price was $12.37.

The withholding rate for the Order Four advertising and promotion program was 14 cents a hundredweight during 1982 compared to 13 cents in 1981. The advertising rate is deducted from the base and excess milk prices. Advertising monies withheld are refunded to producers upon request, with refunds made on a monthly basis.

In 1982 producer deductions for the program totaled $8.4 million compared to $7.7 million in 1981. A total of $6.4 million was available to the Order Four Advertising Agency during 1982 and over $2.6 million was refunded to producers in 1981.

fered at this 35th annual A Day event.

Food stands and a chicken barbecue will help satisfy the taste buds and the kids will enjoy the hay and pony rides.

Some of the special events will include Band and Chorale concerts and contests in log sawing, pie eating, canoe jousting and a milking competition.

A-Day is a fun time for the entire family and provides a special environment for an outdoor weekend.

All events will be held on the College's campus on Route 202, one mile west of Doylestown.

Concerning PIK:

"It's a lot more expensive than anyone ever expected – possibly $10 billion to $15 billion," Sacia commented.

"Looking back, it would probably have been better to have a straight paid diversion program."

Export PIK program – Sacia says the National Farmers Union opposes any bonus commodity deals because they don't carry any pricing formula.

Sacia was critical of the USDA, particularly Secretary John Block, in the official administration view that only bad farm operators who are irresponsible are now in financial trouble.

"What we need now are farmers who are willing to fight for what they believe in," Sacia said.

Also speaking to the group was Barbara Woods, Pa. Farmers Union vice president from Franklin County.

"Too many segments of agriculture are pulling in too many different directions," she said.

"It's time for everyone to sit down and analyze what's happening in ag.

"I want to continue to exist as a farmer and we have a right to an economic well-being."

We wish to thank them for being a Purina Chow Feeder and for supplying a dairy cow during our Open House at the Lancaster Chow Plant.

Pine View Acres has recently installed a Farmtronix Computerized Feeding System from West Willow Farmers Association. With this system each cow is individually fed to insure the highest quality of milk possible. This milk is then pasteurized and homogenized to preserve its quality. West Willow Farmers Association and Ralston Purina Company are proud to be associated with Pine View Acres. We invite you to try a gallon of Pine View Acres milk!

Lebanon received a lot more than can be returned

Thanks, Newt from...

Jay Irwin, Pa. County Agent Association

Marion Deppen, assistant regional Extension director

State Sen. David J. Brightbill

Ed Arnold, Lebanon County Commissioner

Everyone

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LEBANON — "Lebanon County farmers have received a lot more than we can ever return." With these words I. Hershey Bare, 1982 Master Farmer from Lebanon County, summed up the feelings of the 250 guests attending a surprise retirement salute for Newton Bair who retired as Lebanon County Extension Agent on March 31.

Bare also said, "I hope we can go out of our way to help others like Newton has done for us."

His feelings were echoed by others at an afternoon event which featured citations and awards for Newton and his wife, Priscilla, along with genuine feelings of appreciation for a job well done.

W. Wayne Hinish, director of Extension for Penn State, called Bair a "farmer, educator, inventor, innovator, traveler and photographer but most of all he was a friend of all." He added, "Newton has many facets like a diamond. He has an inner light which has touched us all."

Another Master Farmer Harold Bollinger said, "Newton has served Lebanon County as a great county agent. Lebanon County agriculture will never be the same."

His son, Donald, who shared Master Farmer honors with him, said, "I think Newton is just changing careers for the second time. Advice from Newton Bair, the County Agent, was tempered with advice from Newton Bair, the dairy farmer." Bollinger referred to the fact that Bair had been a York County dairy farmer before deciding to pursue a college education at age 49.

There were also congratulations from the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents, presented by Lancaster County Extension Agents Jay Irwin and Arnold Lucck, and a Nittany Lion statuette given by Epsilon Sigma Phi with Marion Deppen, assistant extension director, making the presentation.

A citation from the Senate of Pennsylvania was read by State Sen. David J. Brightbill who sponsored it. It was written, in part, to "a nationally recognized communicator and educator who has excelled in combining scientific research and common sense to help citizens find practical solutions to problems involving food production, energy conservation and production and farm financial management."

Bair's retirement

County Commissioners was read by Commissioner Ed Arnold. It noted Newton's practical farm experience and new ideas" with which he earned the respect of Lebanon County farmers.

Bair, who has a special interest in computers, received a disc drive for his Apple II home computer as a retirement gift, along with letters written by friends and associates and a cash gift.

In acknowledging the tributes, Bair said he will work in a part-time capacity as a consultant on farm computers for a local computer firm.

He added, It has been a great pleasure to serve in this capacity. I can't tell you how much I have enjoyed working here. You are the finest bunch of people anywhere in the country and we feel very close to all the people in the county."

County Extension Director Alletta Schadler commented, "It has been a really growing experience working with Newton. It has been a challenge and an inspiration. He was a friend, and a wonderful co-worker and Lebanon County is so much richer for all he has done."

A written tribute to Bair stated, "He has been expert, innovative, creative, practical, sensitive and always learing more himself. He has touched our lives and made a difference."

surance program, and Credit Union will have representatives on hand to explain these benefits. Door Prizes will be awarded each hour.

"Betty Sheppard's Flower Basket Quilt" will be displayed and chances will be sold; Grange cookbooks will be on sale as well. A clown will have free balloons for the children, and antique machinery will be exhibited. Chris Harris will be in touch with Subordinates for three items for the Bake Table and help to serve the meals, which will be a Pancake Breakfast, served from 8-10 a.m. for $3, and a soup-sandwich lunch, served from 11 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

The Master has posters for Granges to post in their communities. There will be other exhibits and demonstrations.

Ways and Means Chairman Bill Buffington has planned a bus trip to the Baltimore Inner Harbor for Monday, July 11, for Grange members and their friends. Cost for adults is $17.50; children under 12, $13.80.

Judging of the Pomona Sewing Contest takes place today at East Lynn Grange at 9:30 a.m., with a fashion show at 1 p.m. The Grange voted to buy a case of cookbooks to sell on Grange Day '83, and to contribute to CARE.

Bowling Night sponsored by the Youth Committee was a success, with 19 participants, according to Youth Chairman Ellen Marie Huber. There is still time for Subordinates to form a team of four members of any age to enter the Grange Knowledge Bowl.

Everett Wilson, Legislative Chairman, announced that tickets are now available from Subordinate Masters for the annual Legislative Banquet April 23 at Wagontown Fire Hall, when the speaker will be George B. Wolf, Public Affairs Consultant for the State Grange. Tickets are $8; door prizes will be awarded. He reported on several bills now before the Legislature. The Grange opposes the 50-cent levy on milk and the power of the Secretary of Agriculture to set support prices but favors the 5-cent deposit on beverage bottles.

Harry Davis reported that the FFA and 4-H Award Committee has met to formulate guidelines for

Lee Yost honored at National Guernsey Convention

LANCASTER — Lee Yost, business manager of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association, was honored Monday at a luncheon in Columbus, Ohio. Yost recieved the Tarbell trophy for outstanding service to the American Guernsey Cattle Club. The presentation was made by John Merryman of Maryland, at the 106th AGCC Convention.

Over 500 AGCC members attended the convention held in Columbus, April 15-18. Forty-four delegates went from Pennsylvania. The theme for the convention was, OHIO - The Place To Be In '83.

John Ayars, Land of Living Farm, Ohio was master of ceremonies for the buffet dinner and program Friday night that kicked off the convention. The All Ohio Youth Choir provided the entertainment for the evening of Guernsey Breeder fellowship.

Delegates spent Saturday on tours. They first toured the AGCC headquarters, in Columbus, where they saw how streamlining has been done from computers to personnel. Then it was on to Select Embryos. There, delegates learned how excellent cows could be flushed and how embryos can be split to advance their breed. The last tour stop was Select Sires, where delegates enjoyed a buffet lunch. After lunch they walked through the bull barns, seeing SS bulls of all breeds.

Lee Yost was chairman of the evening program Saturday. Yost introduced Emerson Marting, farmer-auctioneer-humorist, from Ohio. Marting started the laughter flowing, and had everyone on the edge of seat with laughter. On a more serious note he challenged the American youth to set their sights for life early and accomplish what they want in America, the land of opportunity.

After the program three workshops were conducted on linear evaluation, reading a Guernsey pedigree, and promotion and advertising.

In an open forum it was announced that Bernie Heisner, business manager for AGCC, has agreed to stay on in the position and has just signed a new one year contract.

On Sunday, delegates were able to preview the cattle in Monday's sales. A demonstration was given on linear type evaluation by Doug Wilson.

Angee Mohr was crown National Guernsey Queen, Sunday. Ms. Mohr was one of 12 contestants who competed for the title. All the contestants presented a skit as part of the contest. First runner-up is Heidi Meyer of Parksville, Iowa.

Ms Mohr is a fourth generation Guernsey breeder on her family's centenial farm, Malaboo Farm. She is 18 years old, her parents are Wayne and Bonnie Mohr. She is the ADA Dairy Princess for Illinois.

In the business meeting held Monday, Albert Hack , Pennsylvania GBA president, brought a motion on the floor. The motion called for a nationwide mandatory 15 cents deduction for milk advertising. The motion was defeated.

The National Heifer Sale and the Convention Sale were held Monday at the Ohio State fairgrounds. The combined number of head sold for both sales was 68. The combined sale average was $3276.

A Low Price Is Soon Forgotten. Good Service At A Fair Price Is Never Forgotten.

Prize-winning teams and coaches are costly labor of love

DEVON — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weaver of Peoria, Ill. will return to the Devon Horse Show and Country Fair May 27 through June 4 with the same team of Hackneys that won the Coaching Championship last year.

Weaver Enterprises teams have shown at Devon for eight years, winning the championships the last six years in a row.

"It's one show we never miss," says Weaver. "We're looking forward very much to returning to Devon."

The Weaver's coach was built by Brewster in New York in 1902 for the Drexels of Philadelphia.

It weighs 2,438 pounds and sold originally for $2,500. Today it is worth $35,000.

Elegant four-in-hand coaches, which are enjoying a resurgance of popularity in this country, are featured nightly at Devon.

The coaching classes and carriage marathon at the show were begun at Devon in 1953 with the encouragement of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Robinson, West Chester.

Robinson, chairman of the Devon Horse Show, competes annually in his four-in-hand coach drawn by a team of Hackneys.

"We brought this team one by one in Canada as three-year-olds," says Mrs. Robinson. That's more fun than buying them as a team. The fun is in putting them together."

Last year's carriage marathon drew over 100 entries, the largest showing ever.

Coaching is enjoyed by all ages and costs can range from a few hundred dollars into thousands.

A novice can begin with a $50.00 pony, a $50.00 cart and a $100.00 harness and graduate to a single or pair of horses ranging from $400 up or to a four-in-hand team, one of which was recently bought for $80,000.

A road coach in mint condition can cost up to $30,000 at auction, and a set of harness for a four-in-hand runs over $12,000.

Abner Lapp, of Lancaster County is the top carriage restorer in the country. His work can be found in the Smithsonian.

Martin's Sales of Blue Ball, and Gil Schneck, of Chester Springs, also do fine restoration work on carriages.

Repairs can be costly, with a wheel costing $600 and coaching lamps running at about $2,500.

Last year eight four-in-hands competed in the Coaching division at Devon, one of the few shows in this country to offer this type of class.

With its growing popularity, coaching has been added to the United States Equestrian Team disciplines.

For the past two years teams have been sent to Europe to compete in the Coaching World Championships, and last year the United States was ranked eighth on the list of top world competitors.

COACHING SPLENDOR — Robert Weaver, Peoria, Ill., drives his Four-In-Hand to victory as over-all coaching champion during the 1982 Devon Horse Show.

This European style Farmer Boy crate reduces creep crushing because it is narrow at the top and wide at the bottom. This design prevents the sow from turning and ensures that she takes extra care in rising and lying down. The front and back doors open easily and without losing pins, with the new style J pin. The all welded construction, hot-dipped galvanized after fabrication, eliminates sharp edges that can cause injury.

Hoffman Silage Inoculator Outscores the Competition 5 to 2

The bio-engineered bacteria and enzyme team in Hoffman Silage Inoculator outscores the competition. Hoffman Silage Inoculator contains five staged-growth bacterial strains — including patented Cernelle 68 bacteria. Each strain is selected for the temperature and acidity range in which it thrives.

The highly advertised competitive product label shows only two types of bacteria.

Two potent enzymes add more punch to Hoffman Silage Inoculator's lineup by stimulating release of usable food substances for the inoculating bacteria to help them grow and multiply.

The competitor's label shows zero enzymes.

More Eastern farmers each year are profiting from the benefits they gain from Hoffman Silage Inoculator. They find it helps minimize spoilage, helps reduce seepage, helps control heating, and reduces nutritional loss. It is easy to apply and is noncorrosive to equipment.

See your Hoffman Seed Man for reports from pleased users. Inoculating half your silage this year would be a logical way to find out what Hoffman Silage Inoculator can do for you.

LacTaid, a specially digestible fluid milk for persons with lactose intolerance, is now being processed by Dairylea Cooperative, Syracuse, and will be marketed in metropolitan New York as well as Syracuse beginning May 16.

Dairylea begins 2 new products

Dairylea Cooperative, Inc., of Syracuse, has begun processing and packaging two new products – LactAid, a non-allergenic milk, and Nestle's Quik chocolate milk.

LactAid, first marketed by Dairylea's co-op partner Altantic Processing, Inc., Allentown, Pa., four years ago, is a 1% milkfat milk with Vitamins A and D and a natural non-allergenic enzyme added.

Studies have shown over 20% of the population have some difficulty digesting lactose, the complex sugar found in all milk. The natural enzyme in LactAid reduces 70% of that sugar into a simpler, more digestible form.

Dairylea is processing LactAid at its Oneida plant for distribution in metropolitan New York, and will add the product to its Syracuse volume as well.

Nestle's new product, Quik chocolate milk, is a super-rich, real chocolate milk already being sold in other parts of the country. Dairylea is processing Quik at its Woodside (Queens, NY) plant for distribution in Woodside, Goshen and Long Island.

the award, and has made up a sample questionnaire to help select winners. The following were named judges: C. Wilmer Supplee, Mary Sproat, Kathy Shappell, Robert Janney, and Mary Louise Maule.

The "Grange on the Move Award" will be presented to the Subordinate Grange with a net gain of at least 5 members during the calendar year. It will consist of a cash award or a plaque.

Recess was declared for the Literary Program presented by the Youth Committee. Ellen Huber led us in a practice round of Grange Knowledge Bowl, with Sisters winning 32-19 over Brothers.

After the recess, the count showed some 60 in attendance. Russellville won the Master's Award with 10 percent. A fire extinguisher was presented to Russellville Master Robert Janney.

Pumpkin seeds were distributed to each Grange for the contest that will take place in October to find the heaviest, largest, and oddest-shaped pumpkin in the Pomona!

The next Pomona meeting, July 9 at East Lynn, will feature a baking contest, with Sisters making white cupcakes and Brothers, a chocolate sheet cake, each using his favorite topping. Cakes will be judged and served as dessert for the covered dish picnic which will precede the meeting at 6 p.m.

EYE OPENING DISCOUNTS for SPRINGTIME BUYERS

Put More Utility In Your Utility Tractor With A Power Front Axle.

Nothing beats the 2-55 or 2-65 Field Boss® utilities when it comes to work-saving standard features. They're packed with equipment some manufacturers charge extra for as options.

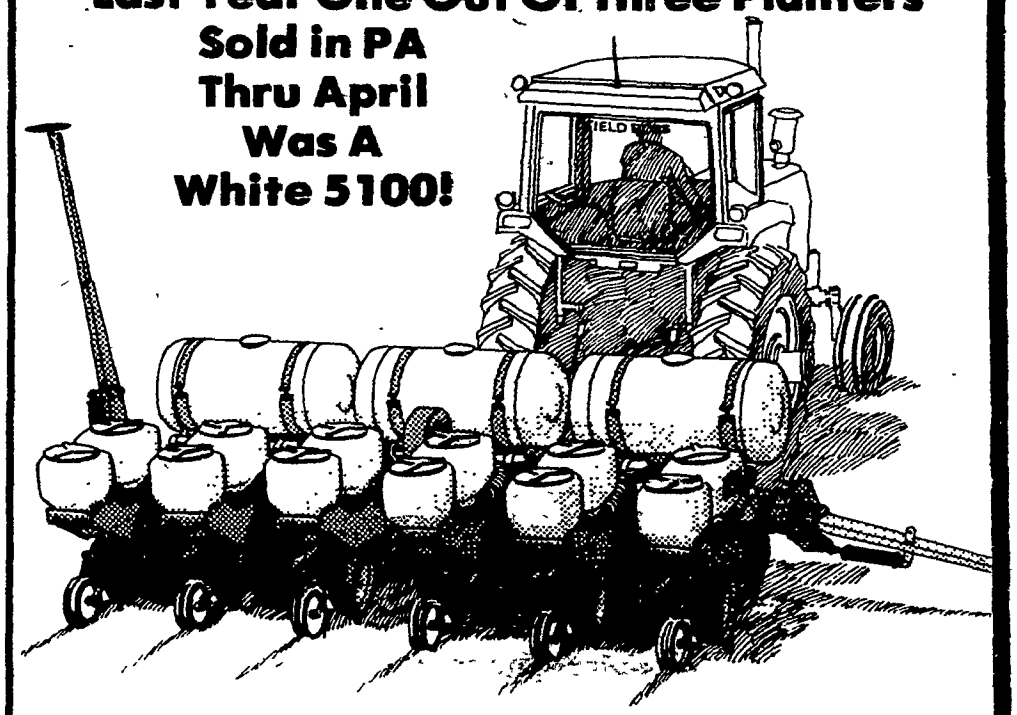
Add a Power Front Axle. But one option that really pays off in productivity is our Power Front Axle. It adds performance to any job. From field to feedlot. Anytime the going gets tough.

High clearance, tight turns. Adding four-wheel-drive doesn't mean losing clearance or agility. Because our Power Front Axle is designed for more front axle clearance than most four-wheel-drive tractors. Plus, even with the Power Front Axle, our 2-55 and 2-65 tractors turn almost as short as our two-wheel drive models.

Come in to the dealership and see for yourself what a Power Front Axle can do. We think you'll be impressed.

The optional Power Front Axle gives added performance to your 2-55 or 2-65 Field Boss utility tractor. With the high clearance and short turning radius of most two-wheel-drive models.

Last Year One Out Of Three Planters Sold in PA Thru April Was A White 5100!



Nobody builds a more accurate planter than the Seed Boss.®

And we can show you — on a Seed Boss planter in stock — exactly why we'll match our White Farm planter against any other brand. In conventional, minimum-till or no-till.

More accurate planting depth and seed spacing can mean better stands and yields. Come in and see how little it takes to own what a lot of farmers believe is the most accurate corn and soybean planter sold today: the Seed Boss.

Fieldstone Meadows' champions

Paso Finos - "smoothest riding horses in the world"

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

Hooves beating an almost musical rhythum, "Bonito de Colombia" gaited gracefully past the stable and training barn, his mane and tail fluttering in the light breeze that wafted over Fieldstone Meadows rolling hills.

Colombia is a Paso Fino, one of a breed of horses that move so smoothly on their feet that they almost seem to be dancing, but with the style and spirit of a prima donna. In fact, Paso Fino means "fine step or fine gait."

Paso Finos originated in Spain and share common ancestry roots with the Arabians, tracing back to parentage from the Spanish Barbs, Jennets and Andalusians. It is believed that Columbus brought the first Paso Finos to the Western hemisphere on his second voyage to explore the New World.

What makes the Paso Fino's gait so unique is the lateral movement of the left and right pairs of legs. Both legs on one side of the animal move ahead at the same time. However, the hind foot strikes the ground just a fraction of a second ahead of the front foot, creating a smooth, one-two-three-four rhythum. Because of the smoothness of this gaiting, the rider of a Paso Fino feels neither a forward or backward pitch, or a rolling movement to either side.

"Paso Finos are the smoothest riding horses in the world," attests Lee Glatfelter.

Lee first heart of the relatively rare breed in 1971, when she spotted a picture in a newspaper of a Paso Fino on display at a show in Harrisburg.

She, and husband, Art, a York insurance firm owner, enjoyed horseback riding on their 40-acre Fieldstone Meadows farm near New Bridgeville. (Art was the purchaser of this year's Farm Show champion steer;.

Though plagued with arthritis, Lee refused to give up riding, but had purchased a smooth riding Tennessee Walker mount. Reports of the Paso Fino's unique gaiting immediately captured her interest, and she began researching the unfamiliar breed.

But it wasn't until six years later, in 1976, that the Glatfelters traveled to Puerto Rico to take their first look at the Paso Finos being bred there.

"We rode them there for the first time, along the ocean," she recalls. "It was just beautiful."

Conformed enthusiasts after that introduction, the Glatfelters imported their first Paso Fino the following year. At that time, there were a mere 2,000 individuals of the breed in the United States. Although that figure has now tripled, barely a dozen breeders across the country maintain a breeding herd of over 30 head.

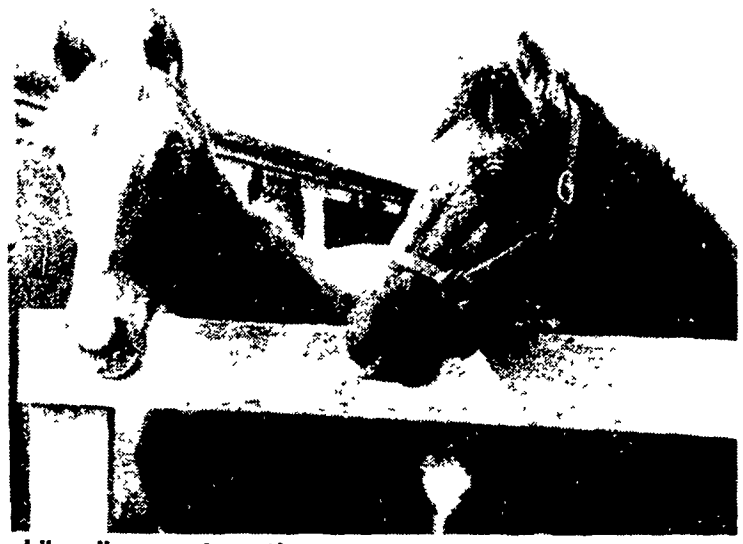
Sixty of the beautiful horses now roam the neatly fenced pastures around the beautifully-landscaped Glatfelter home and stables, including the stallions, mares, yearlings and the spring crop of colts and fillies.

An almost constant stream of visitors flow through Field Stone Meadows, including owners of mares arriving for breeding services.

Senior herd sire is "Sonrio de Verde," Art's personal riding favorite and a former reserve national Paso Fino trail class winner. Purchased from a breeder in Georgia, the stylish and spirited dark stallion is known more affectionately as "George."

"Dona Francesca" is Lee Glatfelter's riding mount, and a favorite of the brood mares. This six-year-old now has a colt sired by a reserve national champion performance class winner.

Field Stone Meadows in southeastern York County is one of mere handful of Paso Fino breeding operations with more than 30 in the herd. The farm, outside of New Bridgeville, will host York County's 4-H horse and pony club's field day next Saturday.



Like all youngsters, these yearlings show endless curiosity about what's happening outside the fence around their own backyard.

It's school time at the Glatfelter Paso Fino breeding farm for junior herd sire "Bonito de Colombia." Trainer Bob Kilgore, left, and his assistant Rodney Miller work the double lead lines used in training and exhibiting Paso Finos in the lead classes. Imported last summer from Colombia, South America, the young stallion will compete in his first conformation classes in just a few weeks.

"Columbia," the 30-month-old youngster and junior herd sire, is presently in schooling under the farm's top-notch trainer, Bob Kilgore. Imported last summer from Colombia, South America, the young stallion is being readied for his initial appearance in the conformation classes on this year's show circuit.

Because the breeding season in his native home runs opposite ours, "Colombia" must face competitors several months older in the classes.

Eight major shows are included on the circuit, each requiring several days of travel. The five to seven head in the show contingent are entered in the range of classes, covering physical conformation, performance, pleasure, trail and the "classic Fino," scored on the most correct form or gait, the epitome of the desirable Paso Fino on the move.

The Spanish use the word "brios" to sum up the character of the classic Paso Fino. "Brios" encompasses the striking spirt and fireiness of the breed, but with the sense of control that enabled these horses to work long hours in the fields, as many still do in parts of South and Central America.

Within just a few hours of birth, a Paso Fino breeder knows if a foal has gaiting ability.

"It's a natural gift of God," Lee explains. "They're born doing it, and babies just hours old will gait beside their mothers. We can refine it, but not teach it. Gaiting is inbred."

Some individuals require just a few weeks for the refining schooling, while others perfect their gaiting finish more slowly. Some simply can never do the classic gait.

In the training and showing of lead classes, animals are handled with two leads lines, one held out each side of the trainers.

In some countries, it has been common for Paso Fino trainers to use artificial devices to aid in refining the gaiting technique. Jagged pieces of metal are sometimes fit across the nose, causing the horse to hold its head in a position that aids the overall gaiting form. Sometimes hooves have beent rimmed to excess to cause a horse to move its feet more desirably.

Domestic show judges are extremely strict in checking for even the slightest hint of scars, or evidence that such artificial devices have been used on horses. In fact, if a breeder shows a horse that carries such marks, it must be proved beyond doubt to the judges that the scars were incurred before the horse crossing through U.S. customs.

"I like that rule," says Lee, lavish in her praise for the strict judging ethics enforced on the U.S. showring circuit.

Everything about Paso Fino exhibiting focuses on the natural beauty of the horse.

Only very simple leather halters are permitted, and never any ornate haltering or saddle equipment. Riders, however, dress with the Spanish flavor, in costuming of the Flamenco style black pants, ruffled skirts and flat-topped black hats.

Most of the horses are exhibited "barefooted," although show rules do permit a light, ten-ounce racing plate to be used on the hoof.

About five or six years elapse before a new breeder begins to see the results of the selection program and the ability of the offspring to perform in exhibition. Last year, the Glatfelters exhibited four of their own-bred yearlings, but only in the conformation classes. This year those maturing hroses will be entered intheir first saddled classes.

"We will not ruin a horse by showing it too young just to win a ribbon," Lee stresses. "No horse goes into saddle training until it has reached at least 22 months of age."

With a practiced eye for trait selection, Lee looks for a horse with width and depth of chest, and with straight, properly set legs up

LONG MANUFACTURING INC.
PROUDLY ANNOUNCES

JOHN HEFTY SYSTEMS and RYDER SUPPLY CO.

Watsontown, PA — Chambersburg, PA

ARE AUTHORIZED DEALERS FOR:

LONG

NOW AVAILABLE TO FARMERS IN THIS AREA

(1) CORRUGLASS™ BINS:

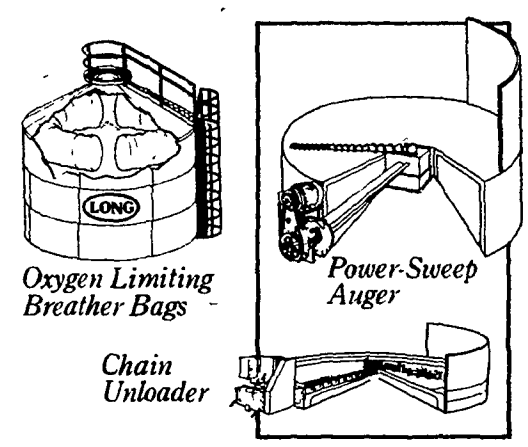
For high moisture grain Long incorporates the strength of corrugated steel with a protective glass-fused-to-steel coating to produce the lowest cost, glass-lined, oxygen limiting storage system for high moisture grain that you can buy. Breather bags and choice of bottom unloader with tapered, power-driven sweep augers, or standard 6" auger unloader with clean-out sweep arm, complete this outstanding storage system.

(2) OXYGEN LIMITING, GLASS-LINED SILOS:

These smooth wall silos are constructed of heavy gauge steel with a glass-fused-to-steel coating permanently bonded to both sides of the sheets to give maximum protection against acids inside the silo and elements outside. Long's glass-lined silos are designed for both high-moisture grain and medium-moisture forages. Breather bags and bottom unloader with tapered, power-driven sweep auger for grain storage or heavy duty chain unloader for forage and grain storage complete this system.

OTHER FEATURES:

Both storage systems feature glass-fused-to-steel wall and roof panels for maximum feed protection, and radius drawn roofs with 30.5 degree pitch for extra strength. Breather bags, suspended in the roof, provide an oxygen limiting environment for feed. The feed stays fresher longer and is more digestible, more palatable, and more nutritious. These systems are designed to cut feed losses —both quality and quantity, and allow growers to carry more animals on the same number of acres.



(3) STOR-LIX® LIQUID MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS:

Stor-Lix tanks are constructed of glass-fused-to-steel walls sheets for protection and durability. Long's Stor-Lix system helps to preserve the nutrient value of manure; helps to protect the environment; and affords livestock growers better management of their time, labor, and equipment.

Paso Finos

under a strong, round rump. Leg and rump structure is vital because it enables the horses to perform the proper gait with the power from the rear leg structure.

Head refinement and set are important, since the head position also affects the overall gaiting technique and appearance. A desirable head is short and the nose slightly concaved, but not dished. Eyes should be wide-set, and the ears relatively short.

According to Lee, the Colombian strain of Paso Finos has more of these desirable characteristics than does the Puerto Rican line, which tends to be more coarse. Glatfelters prefer either straight Colombian stock, or a cross of Colombian with the Puerto Rican bloodlines.

Strains of Paso Finos have also been developed in the Dominican Republic and in Cuba.

Unlike the Latin culture breeders, who give primary emphasis to the stallion's influence on the offspring, the Glatfelters stress the importance of the maternal side of their pedigrees.

"We believe in good mares," and put as much emphasis on them as we do on the stallions," adds Lee.

"Dona Francesca," Lee's own riding horse, is a favorite mare, and one of several in the greening pastures with a baby gaiting by her side.

Matriarch of the brood mares is "Terrimoto," a 30-year-old female the Glatfelter's purchased four years ago. In 1980, she was named the second top dam in the country, based on show points accumulated by her offspring.

Still spry after her three decades of production, "Terrimoto" recently delivered probably her last foal, a colt. Lee now plans to retire the highly-esteemed dam from the brood mare barn to a well-deserved life of leisure in the pasture.

The farm's entire 40 acres are maintained in pasture and all feed is purchased. Pure alfalfa hay is the foundation for the carefully formulated feeding programs, structured to ages and groupings of horses.

Grain mixes are heavy in oats, but light in corn. Special show-string rations include a portion of peanut oil, which "finishes" the coat with gloss and shine.

Show individuals are kept separate from others in the breeding herd, since scars of nips or scratches earn show judge criticism and fewer points.

As the breeding herd has grown and developed, Field Stone Meadows is selling some stock to other breeders, and a few select individuals have been imported. Lee handles all the bookwork involved in maintaining the pedigree, show and merchandising records, as well as the accounts for operating the farm.

The Glatfelters will host the York County 4-H horse and pony clubs' field day on April 30, with a program lineup planned that features a variety of equine-related topics.

A veterinarian will speak on handling lameness problems, and trainer Bob Kilgore heads up a grooming and showmanship session. Participants will get hands-on experience at judging hay samples and; on the lighter side, a fashion display of proper show garb is scheduled.

Horse and pony club members interested in taking part in the field day at Fieldstone Meadows should contact the York Extension Service.

Lancaster Co. plans dairy pageant

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Milk Promotion Committee is seeking qualified contestants for the annual Lancaster County Dairy Princess contest, to be held this year on June 18 at the Farm and Home Center.

To be eligible, contestants must have completed their junior year of high school and not reached her 22nd birthday by December 31, 1983. They must be the daughter of a dairy farmer, dairy farm manager, herdsman or dairy farm owner, or own at least one dairy animal prior to May 1. This includes the six major breeds of dairy cows.

The local winner will be eligible to compete in the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess contest in September and will attend a training seminar scheduled July 11-13.

Local contestants have the opportunity to participate in milk promotion activities, and all receive gifts. The winner will make appearances on behalf of the local dairy industry throughout the year of her reign.

Contest co-chairmen are Gerald and LInda Kreider, R1 Quarryville. For further details and an application, contact them at 284-2242. Deadline for contestants to enter the contest is May 14.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Into every young life a little culture, a little history, a little heritage should periodically be introduced.

And so it was that we headed forth on a Sunday expedition to the very seat of national culture, history, and heritage.

Mt. Vernon. Washington, D.C. The Smithsonian Institute.

Did they absorb a sense of the tremendous contribution, the unlimited energies, the foresight of George Washington, father of this nation, whose home and plantation we visited was a bustling industry unto itself?

Let's hope they did. One thing's for sure: playing hide-and-seek through the tall boxwood borders of the formal floral gardens will be remembered. So will the baby bunny they spotted under a hedge hiding from the tourists.

Did they fully grasp the humanitarianism of this man who freed his more than 300 slaves a century before the law of the land decreed abolition?

Perhaps. They were certainly impressed with the downhome equality of a small-boy wearing a baseball cap, sitting tall in the front seat of a sleek, long limousine that picked up dignitaries at the plantation's gates.

Probably they'll best remember the visit at the snack bar where a clerk dropped not one, but two, towering soft ice cream cones onto the floor and counter before we got them into our hands.

"That oughta' help a little with the milk surplus," observed the teenager.

Towering palm trees, giant cactus, and exquisite orchards are among the bounty of beauty offered at my favorite stop, the National Botanical Conservatory, located at the foot of the Capitol building.

They definitely picked up something from this sightseeing stop: a couple of palm tree seeds that littered the walkway. With luck, the little black seeds will sprout in the container of vermiculite on the windowsill.

A veteran visitor to the Smithsonian's Air and Space Museum, the farmer guided us through that fascinating display of lunar vehicles, rocketry, hot air balloons and miscellaneous mechanical flying devices.

Unrelenting attacks of the giggles set in several times as we stumbled up steps and into the wall or chairs in small darkened theatres for space slide, movie and puppet shows. And the pleas have been renewed about how we need an ultra light, one-person aircraft for checking out the crops and flying to Grandma's for cookies.

With luck, the seeds that sprout from such afternoon travels grow more lofty than palm trees, and mature into a lifelong appreciation for all those things that form the rich fabric of America.

Maybe it's true. You can take us out of the country, but you'll never get the country out of us.

Still, aren't we lucky to live in a time when we can leave the country, if just temporarily, and partake of the wealth of culture, of history, of heritage that surrounds us?

Lamb Facts

When selecting lamb, pick pinkish-red fine textured meat surrounded by a rim of brittle white fat. Lamb does not have heavy marbling since it is the meat of a young animal. The thin, parchment-like skin (fell) should be removed from chops but left on a roast to help retain shape and keep in juices.

Lamb - the adaptable meat

Entertainment time can be "fun time" for the hostess as well as her guests. . .when fun menus are planned.

Lamb in its many forms can be the main attraction. . .a real gourmet treat with an added plus: It's easy to cook.

Lamb is among the oldest foods known to man. It was prominent in man's diet for thousands of years B.C. Sheep accompanied armies in the Middle East and elsewhere as a walking food and clothing source. Sheep, also, appear throughout history as symbols of peace and prosperity.

Lamb recipes reflect the tastes and life styles of people the world over. Lamb is tender and flavorful, nourishing and easily digested. . .truly the ideal meat for people of all ages. Below we have included a wide variety of tastes all using delicious, adaptable lamb.

LAMBURGERS IN BLANKETS

1 1/2 lb. lean ground lamb
1/8 t. garlic powder
1/8 t. pepper
1/2 t. salt
2 t. Worcestershire sauce
3 T. catsup
2 t. prepared mustard
1 pkg. refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
3 T. sesame seeds

In large bowl, combine all ingredients except rolls. Mix very well. Divide into 6 equal portions and shape into patties. Grill 1 to 3 inches from charcoal or source of heat about 7 minutes on each side, or until desired degree of doneness. Separate crescent roll dough into 4 rectangles. Spread dough on cutting board and press perforations closed with fingertips. Cut dough into 1-inch strips and wrap around each patty. Roll in sesame seeds. Arrange lamb patties on piece of aluminum foil placed on grill top. Cook until dough is nicely browned. Turn and cook until second side is cooked through and browned.

VOL-AU-VENT D'AGNEAU

2 lb. diced lamb, trimmed of fat
2 T. olive or cooking oil
1 1/2 c. diced onion
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 c. beef or chicken bouillon
1/2 c. white wine
1 c. diced carrots
1 t. dried oregano
1/2 t. dried basil
1 t. salt
1/8 t. pepper
6 frozen patty shells
1/2 c. water
1 T. flour
1 can quartered artichoke hearts, drained
1 c. frozen peas

Over high heat, in heavy saucepan or skillet with tight-fitting cover, brown lamb in oil, stirring constantly. Add onion and garlic. Cook over medium heat until onion is transparent. Add bouillon, wine, carrots, oregano, basil, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over medium-low heat for 30 minutes. Bake patty shells according to package directions. Blend flour with water. Gradually add to lamb and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add artichoke hearts and peas. Heat through. Spoon lamb into hot patty shells and serve.

SWEET AND SOUR LAMB MEATBALLS

3 lb. lean ground lamb
1 c. fine dry bread crumbs
2 eggs
1/2 c. bouillon or water
1 1/2 t. salt
1/4 t. pepper
10 oz. jar sweet and sour sauce
1 can crushed pineapple and juice
1/2 c. chopped green onions
1/2 c. diced green pepper
1/4 c. carrot, grated
3 T. vinegar
3 T. soy sauce

Combine lamb, breadcrumbs; eggs, bouillon or water, salt and pepper; mix thoroughly. Shape lamb mixture into meatballs about 3/4-inch in minutes, shaking pan gently to cook and brown evenly. Remove from oven and drain excess fat. Meanwhile, in medium saucepan, combine sweet and sour sauce, pineapple and juice, onion, green pepper, carrots, vinegar, and soy sauce. Simmer about 20 minutes. Add meatballs and stir gently, spooning sauce over lamb until meatballs are coated with sauce and heat thoroughly. Makes about 100 meatballs.

VOL-AU-VENT D'AGNEAU — Don't let the name scare your. It may be foreign, but the dish is sure to please even the hungriest of American appetites. And won't your family be impressed?

LAMB STUFFED MUSHROOMS

36 large mushrooms, washed, dried
1/2 c. melted butter juice of 1 lemon
1 lb. lean ground lamb
2 T. minced parsley
2 T. minced onion
1/2 c. grated Swiss cheese
1/2 t. salt
dash freshly ground pepper
3/4 c. fine bread crumbs
1/2 c. sherry wine

Cut stems from mushrooms. Dip caps in 1/4 c. melted butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Chop mushroom stems very fine. In skillet saute lamb, chopped mushroom stems, parsley and onion in remaining 1/4 c. melted butter until lamb is still pinkish-gray. In bowl, combine grated cheese, salt and pepper, 1/2 c. bread crumbs and wine. Add lamb mixture and toss lightly. Shake lemon juice from mushroom caps. Fill each cap with lamb mixture. Sprinkle lightly with remaining 1/4 c. bread crumbs. Dot with additional butter. Bake in oven preheated to 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Lamb is a snap to cook

Lamb cooking is a SNAP!...versatile and economical too.

You can prepare lamb exactly as you cook any red meat. Just remember that for least shrinkage and moisture loss, oven temperature should not exceed 325 degrees F.

French chefs often sear roasts briefly before roasting for a special flavor. This is done by cooking the roast 15-20 minutes at 450 degrees. Then the heat is reduced to 325 degrees F. for the remainder of the roasting time. It must be pointed out, however, that searing can result in greater shrinkage, smoke and oven spattering.

The "typical" lamb cooking aroma comes when your oven temperature is set too high and the fat burns. When broiling meat, add one-quarter cup water to the bottom of the pan so the fat drippings won't burn on the pan.

When roasting, place meat on a rack in a shallow OPEN roasting pan. You can also cover the bottom of the pan, UNDER the rack with water to catch dripping fat. This will prevent drippings from burning and results in pleasing cooking aroma.

Rubbing a leg of lamb with a cut lemon half, squeezing lightly as you go, adds a nice flavor touch and minimizes cooking aromas when searing temperatures are used.

Lamb is delicious done rare (140 degrees F. internal temperature) or well-done (170 degrees F.). By removing a roast ten degrees lower then you wish, and letting it rest outside the oven for 15 minutes, the roast will continue cooking inside. This "rest period" for the roast, also allows easier carving.

John Deere 5- and 8-hp riding mowers help keep your lawn and your budget in trim

John Deere riding mowers are an easy and economical way to take the legwork out of lawn work. Climb aboard and see how enjoyable mowing jobs can be.

Choose from four models. The 5-hp 65 with 28-inch cut; the 8-hp 68 with 30-inch cut and recoil or electric start; and the 8-hp 68 with 34-inch cut and electric start.

Each model is "human engineered" with cushioned seat, color-coded controls, roomy operator's area and wide nonslip footrests. Triple-safety starting guards against accidental starts. A welded steel frame provides added durability.

The 65 Rider has a gear-drive 3-speed transmission; 68 Riders have a 5-speed in-line transmission that lets you clutch and shift on the go. Cutting heights adjust easily, from 1 to 3 inches on the 65 and from 1 to 4 inches on the 68.

To give your lawn a manicured look, a 6½-bushel rear bagger is available for use with the 30-inch 68 Rider.

LAMB BOLOGNA

10 lb. ground lamb
2 lb. ground beef
4 T. meat tenderizer
2 T. coarse black pepper
2 T. mustard seasoning
1 T. hickory smoked salt
1 T. garlic salt
2 oz. liquid smoke
1 T. sweet marjoram
1 T. basil leaves

Mix all ingredients. Cover and refrigerate over night. On the second, third, and fourth day, knead like bread. On the fifth day, stuff into casings. Bake at 150 degrees for six and one-half hours or till meat thermometer reaches 150 degrees.

SPICY LAMB SHISH KEBAB

1/4 c. cider vinegar
1/2 c. dry white wine
2 T. salad oil
1 clove garlic, minced
2 T. mixed pickling spice
2 lb. boned lamb, cut in pieces
1 green pepper, cut into small pieces
2 firm tomatoes, quartered
8 large fresh mushrooms

Combine vinegar, wine, oil, garlic and pickling spice. Arrange lamb cubes in shallow glass dish or casserole. Pour marinade over lamb; then refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Alternate lamb, green pepper, tomato and mushrooms on 4 long skewers; then brush with marinade. Grill or broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes per side, or until desired degree of doneness.

LEMON BARBECUED RIBLETS

riblets of 1 lamb, about 5 lbs.
1/2 c. lemon juice
1/2 c. catsup
1/2 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. water
1/2 t. garlic powder
1 med. onion, sliced
1 lemon, sliced
salt

Cut riblets into portions, arrange fat side up in baking dish, sprinkle with salt and sear in 400 degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove from oven and pour off drippings. Combine remaining ingredients except lemon slices in saucepan and bring to boil. Pour mixture over riblets and return to 350 degree oven for 30 minutes, basting once. Arrange lemon slices over top before serving.

What makes lamb a good buy

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania lamb, available year-round, is an excellent buy, comparable to other meats, according to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Marketing Program.

Pennsylvania sheep producers raise 115,000 lambs for market each year, providing consumers with a fresh, high quality product. Buying Pennsylvania lamb rather than frozen lamb which may have lost quality during shipping and storage, treats consumers to the delicious delicate flavor for which lambs are known.

Lamb is from a young animal, so all cuts are tender. Because top-quality fresh lamb is available year-round, consumers should not have to pay the higher prices for "spring lamb" at certain times of the year, when there really is no difference.

Pennsylvania producers are striving to produce a larger, meatier lamb to give consumers more for their money. Pennsylvania lambs are marketed between 3 to 12 months of age. Yearling mutton is not sold in retail stores, and comes from animals 13-14 months of age. However, if a consumer prefers mutton (which is slightly less tender and has a stronger flavor), it can be purchased either special order or through a local sheep producer.

There are approximately 4,700 sheep flocks in Pennsylvania where consumers can directly purchase lamb.

Because of lamb's small carcass size, consumers may find a freezer lamb better suited for budget and freezer space. Lamb is divided into a hind and foresaddle. If you intend to split a freezer lamb with a friend, make sure to receive cuts from both the hind and foresaddle.

How much of the animal ends up in your freezer? With a 100-120 pound live lamb, the average dressing percentage will retain approximately 50 percent of the original weight--so, a 110 pound live lamb will yield about 55 pounds dressed, and 46 pounds of usable meat (after trimming fat).

ASPC launches food service program for lamb

DENVER, Colo. — Stating that "Lamb is the meat for all centuries," Jane Wallace, editor in chief of "Restaurants and Institutions" magazine, told the American Sheep Producers Council Board of Directors that the foodservice industry holds vast untapped potential for the lamb industry.

The foodservice industry is growing rapidly with one out of every three food dollars spent on eating away from the home. With more dual-income families and because more and more women are entering the workforce, more lunches and dinners are being served in a variety of restaurants, from white tablecloth to fast-food outlets. Lamb has opportunities in all of these areas.

Currently, about 20 percent of domestic lamb, or around 65 million pounds, goes into the foodservice market. Even so, only 16 percent of commercial restaurants and 23 percent of hospitals and institutional feeders use lamb. An aggressive promotion against these key market segments would benefit the lamb industry because it is a concentrated market and it is relatively easy to reach the decision makers.

Lamb is ideal for the restaurant operator because the profile of the "best customer for the restaurant trade" is almost identical to the "best lamb consumer" based on two independent research surveys. Both are young, well-educated, affluent professionals, and enjoy trying new things. This describes the lifestyle leaders targeted by the American Lamb Council (ALC) in its advertising and promotion campaigns.

Foodservice operators are expanding their menus and continually looking for new ideas. The ALC has just introduced the "New Look of Lamb" with a variety of cuts from every part of the car-

Joycelynn Hartman wears Franklin apple crown

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Franklin County has a new Queen.

Joycelynn Hartman was recently crowned the 1983 Franklin County Apple Queen during the annual crowning ceremony held at Kauffman Community Center, Kauffman Station.

Joycelynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartman, 117 Maranatha Drive, St. Thomas. Joycelynn aspires to be an airline stewardess after completing her high school education at James Buchanan High School where she is now a junior.

This new queen is active in her school and some of her activities include vice president of her class, homeroom representative, co-chairman of the color day committee, member of the American Field Service Club and prom committee. Her hobbies include ennis, reading and swimming.

Joycelynn is not only a queen of beauty, but a queen of knowledge about her commodity. This queen has been working in the orchards for many years and has no problem with making apple butter from start to finish.

During the contest, one of Joycelynn's questions was about promotion of the apple industry. She said she would tell others about the benefits of eating apples. Specifically, she said they are low in calories, high in fiber, pectin and potassium, and that numerous studies have shown that the apple reduces cholosterol in the blood.

She also added that there is "more to the apple than meets the eye." The apple is just not an apple, it is a very versatile fruit. The apple can be made into sauce, butter, cider, juice and jelly, to name a few.

The Queen's second question was how would she convince a junk-food junkie to eat an apple. She said, "I would give the person an apple to eat and he could taste it for himself." Then she added I would tell him how good it is for him.

The first runner-up banner went ot Michele Carlin. Michele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert of St. Thomas-Edenville Rd., St Thomas.

Michele is a junior at James Buchanan High School where she is the chairman of the color day committee, a member of the American Field Service and a member of the prom committee.

After high school, Michelle plans to attend college and major in counseling. Her hobbies include reading, taking walks and all types of sports.

Tammy Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Keller closed her 1982 Franklin County Apple Queen reign with a few brief remarks. She said that she was really sad to see it all end, but it had been a year to remember. And a highlight of her reign that she will always remember was the State Apple Queen Contest in Hershey. Tammy was selected as first runner-up for the state title.

Mrs. Isaac Horst, representing the Franklin County Horticultural Society committee closed the contest commending Tammy for an excellent job during her 1982 reign, and for all her promotional efforts, and new ideas that she introduced in the county.

Judith Pheil, Mrs. Donald Gracey and Mr. Robert Baker served as judges for the contest.

The contest is sponsored annually by the Franklin County Horticultural Society.

Joycelynn Hartman (seated), Franklin County's new Apple Queen was crowned by, left, Tammy Keller, the 1982 queen. Michele Carlin, right, was selected as the first runner-up for the contest.

cass. These items will be introduced to all segments of the foodservice industry from white-tablecloth to family-style restaurants, to fast food. Lamb is extremely versatile and can be adapted to table-side servings of a 3/4 steamship round leg of lamb.

Ms. Wallace said, "Your new look of lamb is a winner. Lamb fits right in with a return to taste in dineout. The foodservice industry needs a uniform product, a product that is available throughout the year, and that is easy to prepare. The way you are marketing your products now will fit right in."

Ms. Wallace added that the gyro sandwich, which is a combination of lamb and beef served in fast-food outlets as a Greek specialty sandwich, is one of the most exciting new product introductions in some time. "The gyro sandwich is rated as a 91 percent good seller in outlets where it is featured. This is an extremely high rating in the foodservice industry."

The spring of the year is a very busy time around a pond. New land creatures appear to take advantage of the pond's cool water, and the sun's warming rays initiate growth within the pond that most people don't even see. A devout pond fan is the duck. The one above looks out of place on this page. Help it find the pond.

NO SILO TOO HIGH

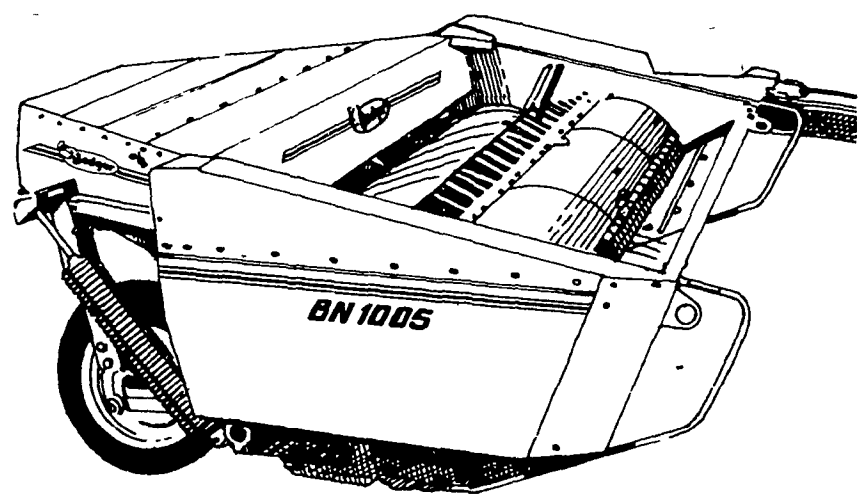
They haven't built a silo that the Badger Blower can't fill. No matter how high or how big, the Badger Blower can fill 'em all.

It's simply the smoothest running, toughest blower you can buy, outperforming other models in volume and speed.

It will take anything you give it, forage or grain. And the special Badger magnet catches tramp iron.

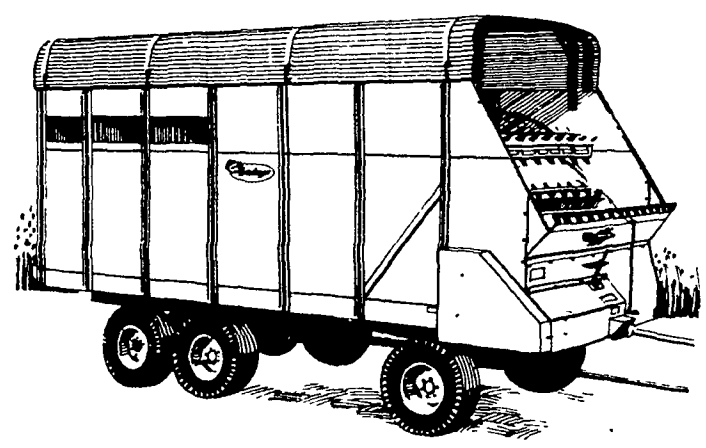
Get together with your Badger Dealer today and get ready to fill your big silo.

Badger's Mower/Conditioner... ground hugging, clean cutting efficiency at its best!



Badger's Mower/Conditioners are quiet, solid running, heavy-duty units designed to get all of your valuable forage crop without over-conditioning. Built rugged for less maintenance, longer life, adjustable dial hitch reel speed and tooth pitch. Wheel to cutter bar distance is only 38" to follow ground contours and get all the crop. Unitized header dampens high speed bounce.

It's easy to understand why you'll never see a Badger Box in "the forage box graveyard."



You can't buy a better box than Badger's. Start with specially treated acid resistant exterior grade plywood, bolted to steel channel stakes. No nails anywhere. Add to that a tough welded and bolted undercarriage built to carry the big loads. Match all this with Badger's simple and reliable heavy roller chain drive, a beater design that delivers a smooth even discharge to the blower. And then mount it on Badger's own heavy duty single or tandem axle running gear and you've got a box that will stand up to the toughest punishment.

Ladies Have You Heard?

EGG-BASED PIZZA DEVELOPED

Are you looking for a good tasting, nutritious, low calorie alternative to conventional flour-based pizza? If so, you may wish to try a new egg-based pizza which has been developed by food scientists at Cornell University.

Pizza is an increasingly popular meal or snack. Sales have been increasing 10 percent annually and exceeded $1 billion in 1981. In addition to our interest in convenience foods, we as a nation are also becoming more diet conscious. The Cornell food scientists contend that egg-based pizza is both convenient and nutritious.

The egg-based pizza crust supplies only one-third the calories of a flour crust. While this crust provides more protein than the flour crust, of greater importance is the quality of the protein provided. The egg crust supplies a well-balanced source of essential amino acids; protein in the wheat flour crust is deficient in several of the essential amino acids.

If you would like to mix up your own egg pizza at home, try the following Cornell recipe:

5 or 6 whole eggs
1/2 cup all-purpose white flour
1 tablespoon all-purpose white flour
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon Italian seasoning
1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients in a blender for 30 seconds. Pour into 12-inch round or 9 x 13 inch lightly greased pan and bake at 350 degree F. for 12 minutes. Add toppings of your choice and continue to bake for seven minutes.

ALLERGIC?

An allergic reaction in the form of an itching, inflamed skin rash often can be traced to something an individual is wearing.

The offending substance in allergic skin rash is less likely to be the fabric. Many people, for example, contend that they are allergic to nylon. Often, however, their allergic response is not to the nylon but to the fact that nylon keeps the skin too warm, and warm skin contributes to the release of the dyes in the fabric and to the absorption of the dyes into the skin. Nylon also may be a factor because it is often treated with an allergy causing resin. Any dyed or chemically treated fabric can produce an allergic skin rash.

It sometimes takes laborious detective work on the part of both the patient and the doctor to find out what item in the patient's wardrobe is causing a skin allergy. A person may be allergic to dyes, elastic or "stretch fibers," or "permanent press" finishes on fabrics. The allergy sometimes is traced to the fur which trims a garment or to the glue which is used to attach ornaments. Sometimes the offending chemical turns out to be not wearing apparel but a moth repellent used in storage of clothing.

The typical allergic rash is usually red, swollen and itchy. It may be blister-like and moist or it may be scaly and dry. It may appear on any part of the body which has been touched by the clothing containing the dye or chemical to which the individual is allergic.

Women seem to have more skin rash from clothing than men. Overweight women are particularly prone to clothing contact skin allergy. In both sexes, dermatitis is more likely to occue where there is close contact between the article of clothing and the skin, such as inner thigh, armpits, sides of the trunk, and waist.

A skin rash which develops from an allergic reaction should not be treated without medical advice. Treating the rash with other chemicals might trigger painful or dangerous additional skin reactions. Lotions which usually seem gentle and soothing and which can be safely applied to non-allergic skin may further aggravate an allergic skin rash. Preparations which customarily relieve itching can sometimes make matters worse when used on an allergic skin which is already reacting to chemical irritation.

The most important step in treating an allergic skin rash is to ask your doctor to help you identify the specific chemical to which you are allergic so that you can avoid it in the future. This can be aided by patch testing with all substances to which you have been exposed. Significant skin test reactions may support your suspicions concerning the source of the allergic reaction.

Strip patchwork

Strip patchwork is one of the most colorful, attractive and unique ways to piece together fabric scraps. It is ideal for place mats, pillows, quilt blocks, aprons, clothing and banners.

The technique, also called Seminole patchwork, was originated by the Seminole Indians of Florida. After learning patchwork from the Early American settlers, the Indians adapted the Colonial techniques to embellish their clothing with bold, geometric patterns in colorful bands.

As the name suggests, strip patchwork relies on piecing together fabrics into long strips. The strips, in turn, are sewn into rows; the rows, into wide bands. Eventually, the wide bands combine to form fabrics.

What makes strip patchwork so interesting is that the pattern possibilities are unlimited. Every time you tilt the strips, vary their widths, or turn them upside down, you have exciting new patterns.

Here are directions for a strip patchwork place mat:

MATERIALS: For two place mats: At least three colors of cotton or cotton-blend 36-inch-width fabric; ½ yard 36-inch-width fabric for place mat back; polyester batting; four yards of bias tape; pencil; yardstick; sewing supplies; iron.

CHECKERBOARD STRIP: 1. To assure straight edges, tear a narrow strip from 36-inch edge of each fabric. Discard strip. 2. Tear off one 2-inch strip each from first color and second color of fabric. 3. Press strips to remove, puckering from edges. 4. With right sides facing, sew strips together with 1/4-inch seams. 5. Press seam toward darker fabric. 6. Cut band in 2-inch strips. 7. Line up 12 strips, reversing, alternate strips to form a checkerboard pattern (a). 8. Sew strips together with 1/4-inch seams. Press open seams.

ZIGZAG STRIP: 1. Tear off two 2½-inch strips from first color of fabric. 2. Tear off one 1-inch strip from second color of fabric. 3. Press strips. 4. With right sides facing, sew strips together with 1/4-inch seams. 5. Press seams toward darker fabric. 6. Cut band into 1½-inch-width strips. 7. Lay 20 strips in diagonal, parallel lines (b). 8. Sew strips together with 1/4-inch seams. Press open seams.

ASSEMBLING PLACE MAT: 1. Cut two 2-by-17-inch strips and one 3-by-17-inch strip from third color of fabric. 2. Press strips. 3. Alternate plain and patchwork strips as illustrated or as desired. 4. Sew bands together with 1/4-inch seams. Press seams toward plain or darker fabrics.

STITCHING: 1. Cut batting and place mat back to 12-by-17 inches. 2. With right sides outside, sandwich batting between place mat front and back. 3. Baste a large X-shape through all thickness. Trim as needed. 4. Machine stitch near patchwork seam lines.

FINISHING: 1. Open out one edge of bias tape. With right sides together, pin tape to place mat, 3/8 inch from edge. 2. Stitch tape along fold line. 3. Turn tape over edge. Hem-stitch or machine-stitch in place.

CHORE-TIME®

The Air System With A Mind Of Its Own

Until now, most ventilation systems had one drawback. Air inlets had to be opened and closed by hand.

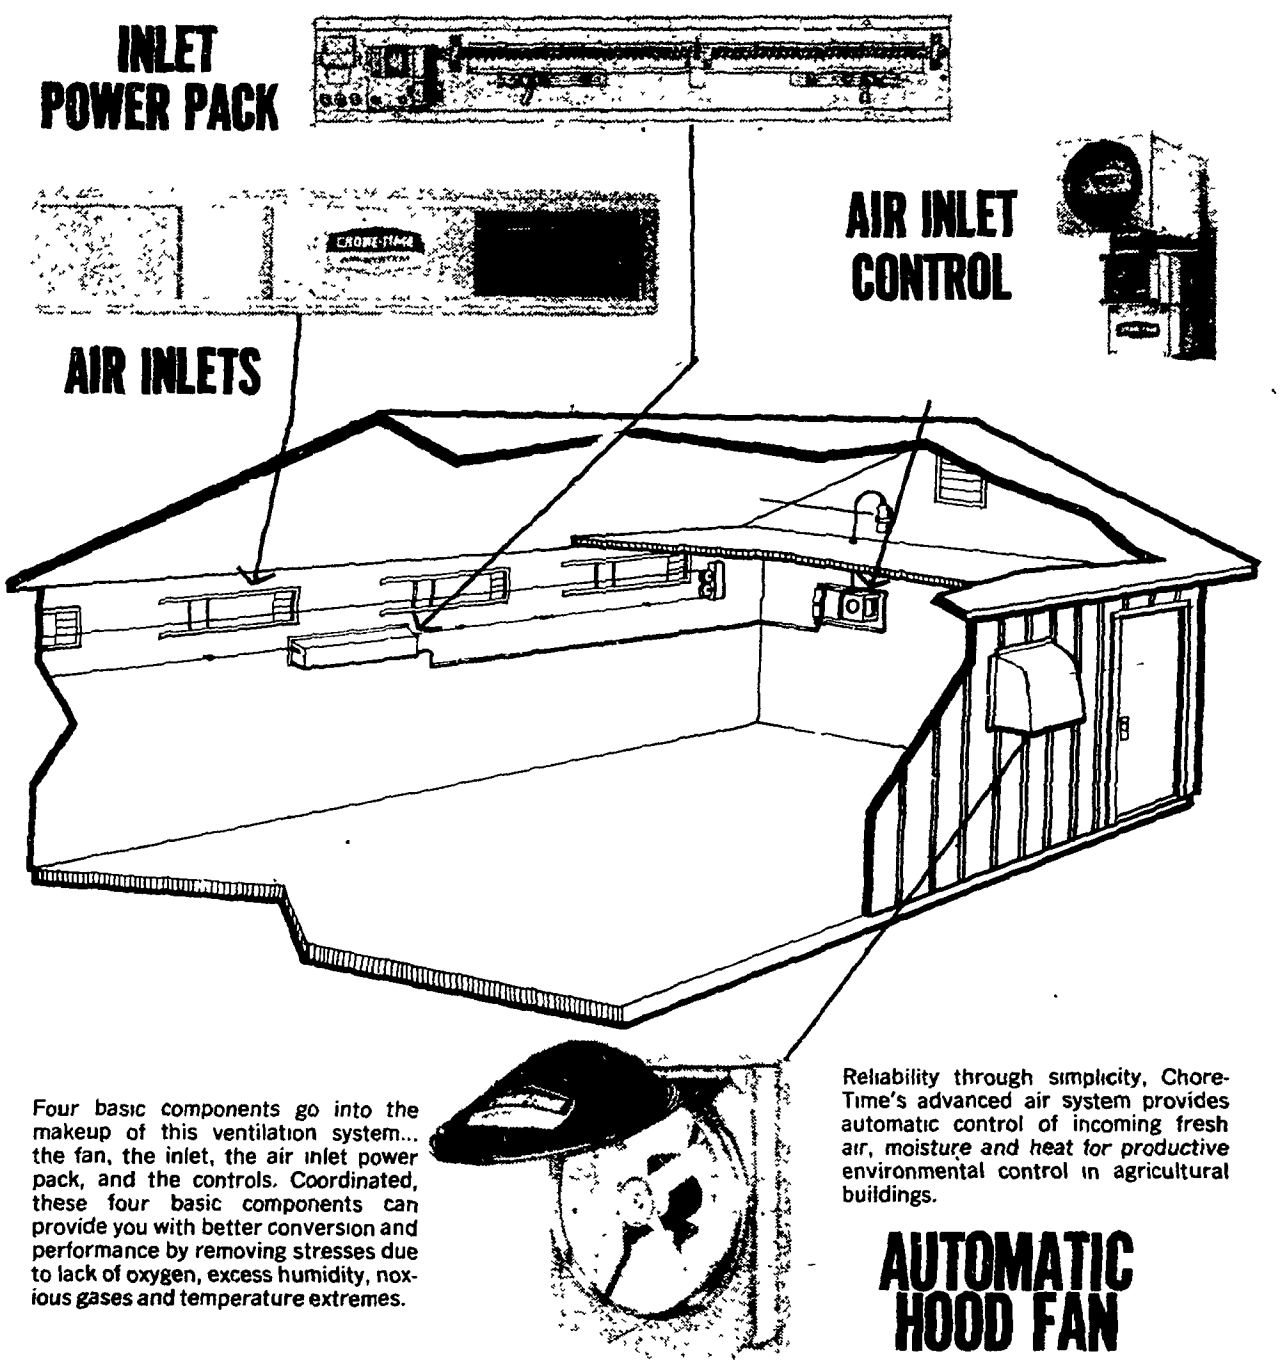
This was time consuming — and pretty much a matter of guesswork.

Now, Chore-Time has eliminated this problem.

The Chore-Time system has a mind of its own and adjusts inlets — in conjunction with fan operation — to maintain air pressure at a constant, preset level.

This provides a degree of air and moisture accuracy never before possible in poultry and livestock buildings.

The new inlet control (pictured) is just one of many exclusive features that make Chore-Time air systems number one in performance and reliability.



Four basic components go into the makeup of this ventilation system... the fan, the inlet, the air inlet power pack, and the controls. Coordinated, these four basic components can provide you with better conversion and performance by removing stresses due to lack of oxygen, excess humidity, noxious gases and temperature extremes.

Reliability through simplicity, Chore-Time's advanced air system provides automatic control of incoming fresh air, moisture and heat for productive environmental control in agricultural buildings.

4-H'ers attend capital days

LANCASTER — County 4-H members had an on-the-spot opportunity to see how state government functions by attending State 4-H Capital Days activities, April 11-12, in Harrisburg.

Delegates from Lancaster County were: Susan Hess, Jeff Martin, Wanda Hershey, Michele Dean and Pam Goss and 4-H leader Marian Brenneman.

Extension agent Donna Lucidi pointed out that the 4-H members toured the Governor's Mansion and visited with personnel in one of the following departments or agencies: Game Commission, Environmental Resources, Health, Agriculture, Commission for Women, Aging, Transportation, Education, State Police, Commerce, Crime and Delinquency, and Treasury.

"The two-day program was designed to provide educational experiences that will lead to a better understanding of each member's role as a Pennsylvania citizen," Donna said.

The county delegation attended the event along with more than 200 other 4-H members from throughout the Commonwealth.

State representatives and senators were guests of the county group at a special legislative breakfast on April 12. Lawmakers and 4-H members discussed local issues, how new laws are established, and the purposes of the educational youth program.

Main speaker at the legislature breakfast was Charlene Gormley, of R2, Newtown, a former outstanding 4-H member and a student at Shippensburg State College.

Also on Tuesday, 4-H members toured the State Capitol Building and met with area legislators in their offices.

State 4-H Capital Days is part of The Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension Service youth citizenship program. Since the Harrisburg event was initiated in 1966, more than 3,500 Commonwealth 4-H members have taken part in state government educational activities.

Discussing local issues and the functions of state government during State 4-H Capital Days are Rep. Paul Semmel, Kirk Fisher from Berks County Baby Beef Club, and Sen David Brightbill.

Potter Co. 4-H honors leaders

COUDERSPORT — Almost 100 people attended the 1983 Potter County 4-H Leaders and Bankers Dinner, Tuesday, April 5, at Potato City Motor Inn.

Speaker for the affair was the Rev. David Ford, president of the Potter County 4-H Expansion and Review Committee who spoke on how 4-H builds character.

Nancy Pratt, president of Teen Council served as mistress of ceremonies.

Debbie Buchanan, daughter of Nina and David Buchanan of Shinglehouse, won the $100 annual scholarship award for her 1000 word essay on "What 4-H Has Meant To Me." The award was presented by the Rev. David Ford.

Deb Buchanan of Shinglehouse was presented with a $100 scholarship by the Potter County 4-H Expansion and Review Committee for her essay on what 4-H has meant to her. The Rev. David Ford, Genesee, president of the committee, presented the award.

Leaders receiving awards and years of service are: Jane Lewis, 26 years; Jack Moshier, 17 years; Fred Baker, Jane Crossley, and Janet Erway, 16 years; Audrey Eaton, 15 years; Ruth Palmatier, 13 years; Charles Cornell, 11 years; Betty Leet, and Jessie Palmatier, seven years; Cheryl Wheaton, Jane Rice, Don and Pat Hyde, Mousey Norton and Debbie Graham, six years; Mary Grom, and Judi Turton, five years; Mark Flacinski, Sam Oldham, Ruth Ann Long, Loretta Sewell, and Evelyn Stevens, all four years; Myra Crippen, Kathy Hess, and Joyce Renko, all three years; Susan Taft, John Turton, Connie Shatz, Sharie Anderson, Dottie and Bob Patinka, Anna and Earl Jordan, and Mike Aucott, all two years.

Receiving first year pins were Dorothy Alackness and Jane Thompson, Kris Smoker, and Theresa Barber, Joyce Briggs, Cathy Hanchett, Clinton Bundy, Marsha Prince, Richard Graves, Donald Mix, Mary Pitts, Jerry Rea, Mary Swink, Fran Vanhor, Sharol Safford, Joan Skinner, and Ann VanGorden.

Teen leaders receiving awards were: Fifth year, Leo Dunn, Nancy Pratt, Robin Watterson, Darcie Terrette. Fourth Year, Sue Pratt. Third year, Marie Erway, and Deb Buchanan. Second year, Mike Hyde and Michelle Hyde, Todd Wheaton, Terry Lewis, Luke Crossley, Brent Schoonover.

First-year junior leaders were Kim Crippen, Mary Ellen Barber, Wendy Smith, Nelsa Matthews, and Paige Matthews.

Edith Reisler, Potter County Extension home economist, presented a 15-year pearl clover 4-H leader's pin to Audrey Eaton at the annual Potter County 4-H Leader's and Banker's Dinner.

Jefferson 4-H meets

SEVEN VALLEYS — The Jefferson 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on April 12 at the 4-H Center in York.

The evening included demonstrations by club members Greg Bankert, Robin Shive and Ginger Yingling.

The club will be observing Rural Life Sunday on May 15 at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Jefferson.

The next meeting will be held May 10 at the 4-H Center and will include a softball game with the Stoverstown 4-H Club.

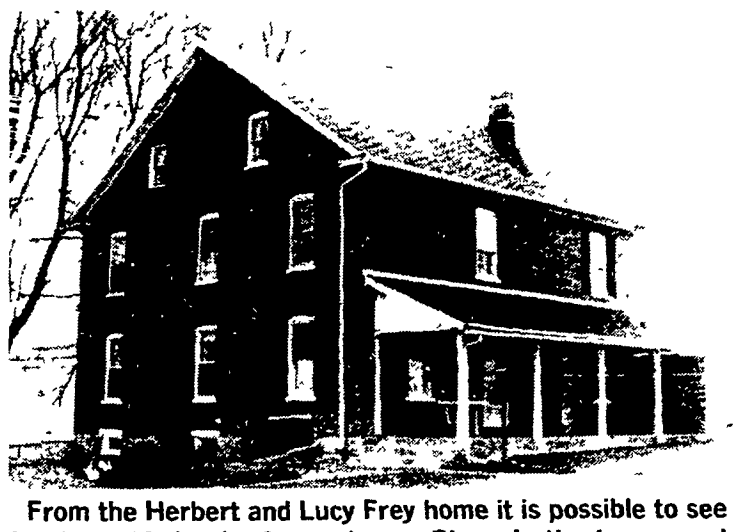
Twins make Heritage Trail #7 twice as nice



From the Herbert and Lucy Frey home it is possible to see the river hills by the Susquehanna River. In the foreground are the newly laid brick sidewalks which match the brick of the house. This will be the first view tour participants will see as they visit the Freys.

MAYTOWN — The homes of twin brothers will be featured on the Heritage Trail #7, sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Lancaster County Farmers Association on May 5, as part of their annual Ladies Day Out.

Herbert and Harold Frey operate a livestock farm near Maytown, and their homes will be open as part of the morning tour of farm homes in the northwestern sector of the county.

Herbert and Lucy Frey live in a home which was built about 1930 as the living quarters on the main farm, after a portion of the Drew Hiestand Estate was sold. The original farm home remains standing close by, but it is no longer part of the farm. There is a smaller tenant house on the property.

An interesting feature of the Frey's farm kitchen are the original cupboards in the kitchen. The woodwork in the area was stripped of its many layers of white paint and returned to the original wood in 1973. Although Lucy says it would be nice to have more modern cupboards, she appreciates the original ones. One disadvantage is that the counters are low, but in the remodeling they felt the height could not be changed without ruining the appearance of the cupboards.

They added a counter with stools and matched the wood of the below-counter cupboards to the original wood.

The kitchen once had eight doors, but the Freys removed two of the eight, and stripped the original white paint from the others, finishing the wood natural. Because of the height of the kitchen ceilings they added a matching chair rail and paneling to make the room seem cozier.

Lucy enjoys making crafts, including padded picture frames. Here, she adjusts one which sits on the hutch which her son made. On the wall is a corn husk wreath which she made.

This hutch is the perfect place to display Barb's creative talents. She enjoys sewing all kinds of craft items, often purchasing one to figure out how to make it or improve on it himself. This hutch will be on display in the home on the Ladies Day Out tour on May 5.

Upstairs, a quilt which Lucy recently completed, will be on display in the master bedroom. The quilt was pieced by an aunt of Lucy's in the 1920s.

Seven years ago the family remodeled the basement, and now have a family room which features two stone walls, one paneled wall and one wall with original wood. There is a bricked area where their Franklin stove sits and an original beam which can be seen, despite the fact that they lowered the entire ceiling. A pool table and ping pong table offer entertainment, and Lucy says the ping pong table doubles as a dining table when there are guests.

In addition to working in her large garden and strawberry field, Lucy enjoys crafts and there is evidence of her handiwork throughout the house. She makes corn husk and calico wreaths, padded picture frames and enjoys crotcheting. She adds, "I've always enjoyed sewing and I'd like to get back to it." Her loves of plants shows in almost every room, with many beautiful plants thriving throughout the house.

In addition to liking to read, Lucy is now learning calligraphy. She says, "I enjoy writing." She has written a mother's tribute for her church's mother and daughter banquet. Their son is married and their 21-year-old daughter attends college.

The top of this quilt was pieced in the 1920s by an aunt of Lucy Frey. Lucy recently completed the quilt and now has it on the bed in the master bedroom of their farm house.

As tour visitors approach the house they will walk across newly laid brick walkways which match the brick of the exterior of the house. A unique feature of the brick on the house is that every seven rows there is a row of brick turned on its end. When asked the purpose of this unusual arrangement, Lucy said, "We would like to know."

The Frey Brothers purchased two farms in 1963 which totaled 265 acres. They presently have 250 head of steers, 60,000 layers and farm 1000 acres of corn, wheat, tobacco, barley and soybeans.

Harold Frey and his wife Barbara live in a brick farmhouse original to that farm. The house, which is about 150 years old, has a fireplace in each of its 11 rooms.

At one point in its history, the center hallway was partitioned off to contain a laundry and bath. It has now been re-opened and makes a gracious entrance into the home with an open staircase going into the second and third floors.

Two and a half years ago a fire destroyed the breezeway and garage and it was re-built at its present location. The breezeway is now closed in to make a comfortable, light family room. "We spend most of our time there," Barbara relates.

The basement also has been redone with exposed stone walls and barn siding on some walls. This will house a craft shop which Barb hopes to open in June. She says, "I am starting my shop as a hobby. It is something I have always wanted to do." The shop has been named "Morning Meadows" to reflect Barbara's feelings that nothing is prettier than morning in a country meadow.

Barb's interest in crafts can be found throughout the house. Most of her crafts involve sewing, and she creates all of them in the

(Turn to Page B17)

Never lacking for craft ideas, Barbara works here on a hat which will grace the fireplace in her daughter's room on the Ladies Day Out tour on May 5. She is also completing a blazing star which will be on display the day of the tour.

sewing room adjoining her bedroom or at the kitchen table. She makes wreaths, blazing stars, lined baskets, potpourri ducks, small dried flower arrangements and many ceramic items. She hopes to have some consignment crafts in her shop.

Barb says, "It's a treat to give nice things to other people." At Easter she made 32 of her baskets and gave them to the students who ride on her Intermediate Unit 13 bus, and to others.

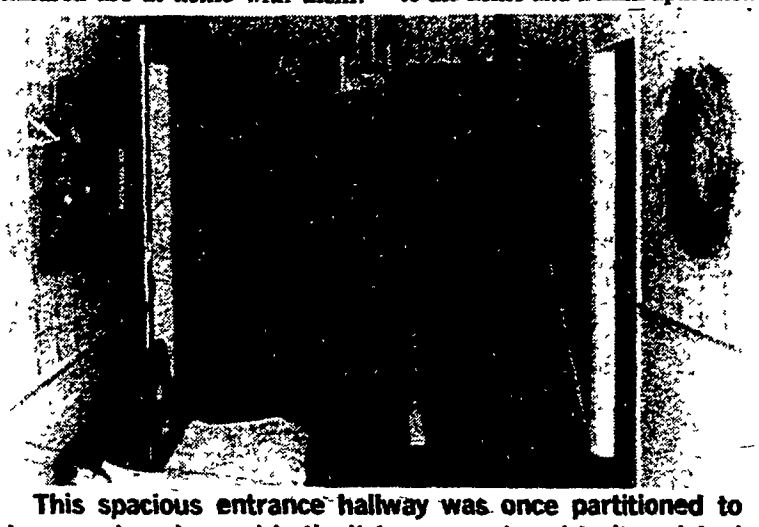
Barbara says the family enjoys entertaining and going places with friends. "I enjoy being with people" Three of their seven children are at home with them: Rodney, 20; Jamie, 13, and Matthew, 11.

Other homes on the tour include Robert and Lois Brubaker's farm home which was constructed of sawed logs in 1870. A few of the interior walls still have hog bristles and original plaster walls. In 1980 they built a family room, completely insulated and installed new siding and a new kitchen. The Brubakers farm 160 acres and have 150,000 chickens and 1200 hogs.

The final home is a double home belonging to John and Thelma Wolgemuth. Part of the home dates to 1780 and has walls that are two feet thick. There are two sides to the home and a mini-apartment on the second floor. The home is furnished in early American style with a Victorian parlor. The dining room features an exposed stone wall which was original to the house. This 300-acre farm has 97,000 layers.

At noon there will be a luncheon at the Landis Valley Resort Inn with the afternoon program featuring Shirley Garner and Jeanne Bender Davis talking about "Dangers in the Air." Extension Home Economist Michelle Rodgers will talk on "Your Family is Your Number One Business."

Tickets for the day cost $8 and are available from Ginny Hess, R2 Box 108, Quarryville, Pa. 17566. Checks should accompany reservations and should be made payable to Lancaster County Farmers Association. Ticket deadline is April 30. A self-addressed, stamped business size envelope should be included with reservations. The tour is from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.



This spacious entrance hallway was once partitioned to house a laundry and bath. It is now restored to its original state, and allows a view through the house to the graceful stairs and the family room in an addition at the rear of the home.

Rehrersburg 4-H elects officers

BETHEL — The Rehersburg Adventures Club met to elect officers, recently, at the Little Swatara Church of the Brethren.

Elected were: president, Jamie Batz; vice president, Nannette Coryell; secretary, JoLyn Batz; treasurer, Stephanie Kintzer; news reporter, Shelly Emerich; song leaders, Kelly Brubaker and Lisa Brubaker; game leaders, Kelly Reed and Jennifer Kintzer.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 10 at the Little Swatara Church of the Brethren.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This is the season for country auctions. Many farm machinery sales are held at this time of year. Some people go to sales to buy a particular item while others simply go to see what is offered and to visit with neighbors while the children play.

Usually the accumulation of a lifetime is a large and often an odd assortment of things. At farm sales a wagon or two will hold many small tools, boxes of nails, bolts and screws plus brushes and odd pieces of metal. Household goods include everything from flower vases to mixers and from dolls to pictures.

The auctioneer at a sale must keep the crowd's attention with his wit. He calls attention to the flaws in a particular piece but still tries to convince the crowd that the purchase is a practical one. At an early age many auctioneers develop a certain chatter and develop a following of buyers.

Whenever I attend a sale, I am reminded of the oddities stored in my attic. It was half full of "stuff" when I moved here and I have only added to the variety of stored items. I hate to think of the big job of emptying it someday. Probably a lot of it could simply be destroyed as worthless. But, there is always that chance that a valuable article might be found among the accumulation.

It is interesting to learn the value of certain pieces of machinery, furniture and antiques. And so when I phone auctioneers all over the state and type up the "Sale Reports" for Lancaster Farming, I hope that other people find the prices as interesting as I do.

Does wool irritate your skin? Wool is a protein fiber, the same substance as your hair and fingernails. It is highly unlikely that the irritation felt is the wool fiber, perhaps a DYE or FINISH on the fabric is the cause of irritation.

Three most productive crops

Onions, green beans and tomatoes are three of the most productive crops you can grow in a home garden. With proper care at planting time and minimal attention during the growing season, they'll produce abundantly right up to the first hard frost in the fall.

Onions are one of the first crops that can be set out in the spring, but there's still time to plant some if you haven't done so yet. Start with sets or plants, rather than seeds. Sets, which are easy to come by, are actually small onions that were started the previous year. Look for "Ebenezer" and "Yellow Glove" — two of the most popular varieties for the home garden.

Onions need fertile soil to produce well. Use 5-10-10 or 10-10-10 fertilizer at planting and sidedress plants with nitrogen about six weeks later. This fertilizer is needed to produce a good green color and rapid growth.

If you intend to harvest them as mature bulbs, plant sets 3 to 4 inches apart and 1-1/2to 2 inches deep. For scallions, plants or sets should be 1-1/2 to 2 inches apart and 3 to 4 inches deep. Pull green onion whenever they reach edible size, starting with largest ones first. Harvest your dry-bulb crop after the majority of the tops have dried and are bent over.

For a satisfying yield, green or wax beans are one of the easiest and quickest crops to grow, says the specialist. Most beans require little space to grow and are adaptable to a wide range of soil conditions. It takes only 50 to 60 days from seed to produce a good crop of snap beans.

You have a choice between pole or bush type plants, when it comes to beans. There are differences in taste, as well as differences in length of harvest period for each type.

One planting of pole beans will give you a two-to-three month harvest, as opposed to only three weeks for bush beans. Pole beans are also somewhat easier to pick, because you don't have to do so much bending over. But bush beans have the advantage of taking up less space, and with several plantings about ten days apart, you can get almost a continuous harvest over a three to four month period.

A favorite bush bean variety is "Tenderette"—a velvety green-podded bean. But for people interested in tryping something a little different, some purple-podded beans. These grow on a bush type plant that produces a tender, stringless purple pod that turns deep green when it's cooked.

If you're wondering how many beans to plant, figure on a yield of about a pound of beans from every two feet of row.

To get the most mileage out of tomatoes, plant several varieties with different maturity dates. There are a number of good ones to choose from, all resistant to fusarium and verticillium wilts.

For canning, a good variety is Roma VF. The plant yields an abundant harvest of firm fruit right up to a hard frost.

Two mid-season, all-purpose varieties are Floramerica and Heinz 1350. Other good varieties are Supersonic, Jet Star and Better Boy.

If you're looking for tomatoes weighing a pound or more, go to the Beefstake or Ponderosa types. These give extra large fruit that's good for fresh eating. Just be prepared for a bit less flavor and texture than the smaller fruited varieties. Also, plants will yield less and may be less resistant to disease.

Speaking of diseases, blossom end rot is one problem home gardeners can reduce with careful cultural practices. Mulch plants well and maintain an even soil moisture over the growing season to reduce losses to this physiological condition.

A final word of advice: don't try to rush the season. It's just begun and late plantings when the weather is warmer tend to catch up with earlier ones—with less chance of losing plants to frost.

Boyertown slates quilt show

BOYERTOWN — Once again this spring, members of the Boyertown Area Historical Society will be holding one of their most interesting projects - their annual quilt show.

This will be the ninth year for the show, slated for Saturday, April 30, 10 to 6 and Sunday, May 1, noon to 6. The event will be staged in the Society building, 43 South Chestnut Street, Boyertown.

The display, which contains over 100 quilts, old and new, has attracted hundreds of visitors. For novice quilters, Society members will be stitching and can provide advice to interested onlookers.

On exhibit will also be a rust and brown "Twist" pattern quilt, which seems to embody a flowing motion. The quilt was just recently completed by Society members and friends.

This year's special display will concentrate on crazy quilts. This textile was usually composed of satin or velvet and featured richly colored fabrics, decorated with ornate hand-embroidery. The late Victorian era was the "golden age" of crazy quilts, and most of those on view date from 1890 to 1920.

Another highlight of the show will be a lecture on marking quilts by Ann Burrows, quilt supervisor of the Kutztown Folk Festival. The lecture will be held Saturday, April 30, 10:30 and 2:30 at the Good Shepherd United Church of Christ, Boyertown. Mrs. Burrows will discuss all facets of marking quilt tops from the basic "how to" to selection of appropriate designs. The presentation will supply fundamental information on a phase of quilt making that stymies many quilters. The cost of the lecture is $4 per person. Reservations may be secured by making a check payable to the Boyertown Area Historical Society and sending it and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Mrs. Richard Irey, 16 Fairview Street, Boyertown., PA 19512.

There is a $1.50 donation for the show, children under 16 admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Montgomery Co. plans tractor safety course

NORRISTOWN — The Montgomery Extension Service and the 4-H Clubs will offer a tractor safety certification course for area youth, beginning April 26.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act, all 14 or 15 year-olds who plan to be employed off the home farm and will operate a tractor of over 20 PTO horse power, must have evidence of satisfactory completion of such a course.

The course will continue evenings May 3, 10, and 17, at 7:30 p.m., and will conclude with a driving exam on Saturday morning, May 21.

All classes will be held at the Western Montgomery Co. Vo-Tech School, located on Graterford and Sunset Roads, off Rt. 422 in Limerick.

Although the course is geared for 14 and 15 year-olds, anyone is invited to attend.

To reserve a spot in the class, contact County Agent Nancy M. Kadwill.

Berks pays tribute to top conservationists

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

VIRGINVILLE — "In conservation, one meets great people who are concerned about the quality of life for everybody, particularly about passing on what we received," commented Victor R.H. Yarnell, at the Annual Banquet and Awards Ceremony of the Berks County Conservation District and the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Committee on Friday, April 15, at the Virginville Grange.

This statement summed up the collective beliefs of the large attendance of concerned Berks County conservationists.

Yarnell, managing director of the Schuylkill River Greenway Association, was on hand to accept the award for the Association as the "Outstanding Conservation Organization of the Year."

Hailed as a "Citizen's organization", the group's goal is to establish a "greenway" along the river. Water quality is one of the main concerns and the association functions as an advocate for the proper use of the river. Because it is known that the river water is reused at least six times on it's way to the Delaware, this organization continues to hold seminars on river-related matters.

Because this association continues to encourage the public on the beautification and protection of the river banks and tributaries, and "the maintenance of the quality of life in and on the river", the Schuylkill River Greenway Association was honored by the Berks County Conservation District and presented a plaque by Donald Duncan, and Mark Wolfskill, farmer member directors.

Taking the top individual awards for outstanding conservationists in 1982 were Joe Leindecker, Reading; Donald McNutt, Womelsdorf; George W. Balthaser, Wernersville; and E. Daniel Leatherman, Perry Township.

As "Mr. Conservation of Pennsylvania...Leindecker has been advocating conservation for the past half-century, not only for soil and water, but also for wildlife and aquatic life," stated Donald Duncan as he presented Joe Leindecker the award for the "Outstanding Conservationist of the Year". Often lecturing to interested groups, he is highly respected in regards to the use of natural resources.

E. Daniel Leatherman, left, is Outstanding Conservation Farmer of Year and Joe Leindecker is Outstanding Conservationist of the Year.

Leindecker has promoted conservation as Game Protector, Pennsylvania Game Commission officer, Federated Sportsmens Clubs of Berks County, and as Berks County Director of the Wildlands Trust Fund. Often volunteering his services on behalf of the preservation of natural resources, Leindecker was honored for promoting conservation all his life.

Donald Lutz presents Certificate of Service to Charles Savidge for 10 years of ASCS service.

Accepting Preservation Award for the Berks county Conservation District are Donald Duncan and Mark Wolfskill.

"My Grandfather put in strip cropping in 1931, so I think my heritage of conservation goes back pretty far", commented Donald McNutt, Vo-Ag Instructor and Young Farmer Advisor, at the Conrad Weiser School District, as he accepted the honors as "Outstanding Conservation Educator of the Year". In addition to his profession duties, McNutt also advises area farmers on conservation practices and is known to be very knowledgeable on manure handling facilities and storage systems.

Hews gets USDA post

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Edward D. Hews has been named deputy manager of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Merritt Sprague, manager of the agency, said today.

Hews replaces Robert H. Sindt, who transferred to USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Prior to accepting the crop insurance post, Hews had been deputy administrator for program planning and development at the stabilization and conservation agency. He was responsible for analytical planning of program developments, appeals and correspondence and was secretary of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Before that, Hews was executive assistant to the administrator of the agency. He was acting administrator of the agency during the transition period in 1981 and has been assistant to the deputy administrator for state and county operations.

Earlier, Hews served as chairman of he Aroostook County, Maine, Agricultural Stabilization and conservation committee. He also has served as director of the stabilization and conservation agency's northeast region and director of the eastern region.

From 1943 to 1971, Hews raised potatoes, sugar beets, barley and other crops in Maine.

Hews is a member and past director of the Maine Potato Council and has been active in the National Grange and Presque Isle Rotary Club. He has served as president of the Washington, D.C., chapters of the Maine State Society, the National Conference of State Societies and the Soil Conservation Society of America.

"Outstanding Conservation Farmer of the Year", was E. Daniel Leatherman of Perry Township. A full-time dairy farmer with a 60-cow herd, Leatherman moved to his current set-up in 1976. Following development of a conservation plan in 1976, Leatherman installed cropland terraces, diversions, grassed waterways, tile drainage, contour stripcropping, hayland management, an animal waste facility, and an animal waste system. "He is receptive to using newer and better ideas as they are developed", stated Duncan as he presented the plaque.

For outstanding forest management, the "Maurice K. Goddard" award went to George Balthaser, Wernersville. Balthaser's wildlife contributions have included placing out feeders, retaining apple and autumn olive trees, sowing buckwheat in tree planting areas, and saving brushpiles for wildlife habitat. Balthaser also sponsored the 1981 Berks County Equipment Operator's Workshop, and donated the use of his land as a landing zone for the DER's Gypsy Moth Spray Program.

Honorable mention awards for their contributions to conservation on their farms went to Marion A. Buchta, Centre Township; Franklin L. DeCosta, Tilden Township; Herbert H. Moyer, Tulpehocken Township; and Ray W. Seidel, Windsor Township. Each was presented with a BCCD farm sign.

Honored for their efforts as "Volunteer Roadside Trash Collectors", were Ruth Troutman, R1 Bernville, and Harold Weaver, Main Street, Bernville. Each volunteer was presented with a BCCD hat and T-shirt.

Chairman of the Board of Directors of the BCCD, Mary Ann Rimby, stated that "since its establishment in 1947, the Conservation District has dedicated itself to the conservation of all natural resources in Berks County". She recalled the areas of emphasis in 1982 as including: recycling information, erosion and sediment control, stormwater management, energy resources, urban development, prime farmland preservation, solid waste management, and education.

The BCCD received 123 erosion and sedimentation control plan reviews in 1982. Thirty-five new requests for conservation farm plans were also received.

Rimby outlined the accomplishments of the BCCD for 1982. They included joining the Soil Conservation Service in planning and implementing the 21st Annual Equipment Operators Workshop, distributing educational cartoon books and teachers guides in schools, sponsoring a Conservation education booth at the Sportsmens Expo, holding the annual Seedling sale, and managing the Gypsy Moth Spray Program in Berks County.

Donald Lutz, Mohrsville, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, was on hand to present Charles Savige and plaqua honoring him for ten years of service as a "community committeemen".

Lutz also reported that in 1982, the ASCS program helped share the cost of conservation work for 80 participants who received a total of $52,915.00 on 90 farms in Berks County. Continuing with his report, Lutz stated that 378 farmers enrolled in the wheat program, 125 in the barley program, 628 in the corn program, 9 in the Grain Sorghum program, and 333 in the oats.

Very active in regards to politics and farmers, Lutz commented that he is against charging the usury fees that the government dictates. "Usury is forbidden 12 times in the Bible", Lutz stated. Lutz attends all state and national planning meetings as possible and says, "sometimes when you make a wild statement, your challenged, ... but the do-it-yourselfer is still ahead of the governments organized research". Lutz concluded.

Jack Gounder, Shillington, Urban member of the BCCD Board of Directors, served as the Master of Ceremonies for the evening, and being "primary time", there were many introductions to be made as he introduced the many incumbents and candidates.

Mary Ann Rimby, Chairman of the BCCD, stated, "All of us are offering our knowledge and experiences without pay,...we're doing a lot for you". She concluded her report by thanking all the people of Berks County and all the agencies for being so cooperative during the past year, "as we all endeavor to promote resource conservation."

This is National Consumers Week

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Recognizing the importance of consumers in our economy, President Reagan proclaimed April 24-30 as National Consumers Week.

Its purpose is to highlight how educated and informed consumers play a key role in the national and international marketplace.

In his proclamation, the President stated, "It is clear that the greatest fairness for consumers can be achieved through the active cooperation of business, government, and consumers... working to ensure equity, increased competition, and safety in our free market economy."

This cooperation will be demonstrated by ceremonies in cities throughout the country as well as national events being planned for Washington, D.C. Spearheading this nationwide effort, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, directed by Virginia H. Knauer, has received the cooperation of government agencies, businesses, educational institutions, consumers, labor unions, and community organizations.

Special events in Washington, D.C. include conferences for educators and business leaders on worldwide consumer education, and on international trade as it relates to consumers. A special program is also planned for children to recognize that "Kids Are consumers Too."

Commenting on the Week, Mrs. Knauer said the importance of consumer education and information was underlined in a recent national Harris poll showing that consumer concerns over the quality of products and service were at an all-time high. "It's one thing to demand high quality, and quite another to know how to shop for it. Education and information are the tools we need to appraise value, and National Consumers Week is an appropriate time for those in the public and private sectors to provide these tools," Mrs. Knauer said.

It goes down smooth.

Now the best granular pesticide you can buy is even better. Introducing new TEMIK® 15G aldicarb pesticide formulated on gypsum — the most trouble-free TEMIK granule ever developed

You'll see why new TEMIK is better the minute you open the new easy-pour spout. The round gypsum granules resist clumping, resist clogging, and flow smoothly through the applicator tubes for a more even distribution.

And they're more efficient. Gypsum granules are so compact, you can pour more TEMIK 15G into the applicator box and cover more acres per fill-up.

No granular pesticide is more convenient. Or more effective.

TEMIK protects plants from underground pests like nematodes and root maggots. Then works systemically to control aphids, mites, plant bugs, thrips and other foliar insects

Crops grow their best - and yield their best - when they're protected with TEMIK.

New TEMIK 15G aldicarb. Performance made it the best Gypsum makes it better.

We do it because of and for the kids

BY DORIS CROWLEY
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — When Pat and Larry Shaffer's paperboy, Curtis Peebles, asked why there were always so many bicycles parked in front of their Wilmington home, the couple invited him inside to visit their 4-H club. He stayed, became a member, and went on to become a state photography project winner and delegate to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Now serving on the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy, Peebles still keeps in touch with his former leaders and reports his photography skills have come in handy on the job.

"Our 4-Hers don't travel far from home," said Pat Shaffer during a recent phone interview - meaning, no doubt, that "graduates" of this highly successful program tend to value their old club ties. She and her husband hope to see Peebles later this month while he's on leave between tours of duty.

Family affair

The Shaffers got involved in 4-H 19 years ago when their children joined a club. Besides helping his wife sponsor the group that meets regularly in their 24th Street home, Larry Shaffer, and ICI employee, serves on the board of directors of the Delaware 4-H Foundation. Their sons, Denis and Tim, too old now to be members, appear to be continuing the family tradition of volunteerism. Denis, who works as a technician at ICI while studying for an associate degree in toxicology at the University of Delaware, used a week of his vacation last summer to counsel at state 4-H camp. His younger brother Tim - a professional photographer who learned his skills in 4-H - donates time regularly to a club program at the Mary Campbell Center for handicapped children in Wilmington.

All over Delaware, people like the Shaffers are busy organizing clubs, teaching special project skills, coordinating transportation and community service activities and otherwise contributing to local efforts of 4-H, the world's largest youth organization.

"You can have all the kids you want," says area 4-H agent Joy Gooden, one of a handful of agents employed by the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service, "but unless you have the volunteers, you can't have a 4-H program."

Long-time volunteers Sam and Myrtle Dixon (on right) have made 4-H a family affair. Shown here with their children and grandchildren — all involved in 4-H as either members of leaders — Kenton couple lead dairy and poultry projects for local club.

Members of Stump Corner (Townsend) 4-H club learn how to use copy stand during session with volunteer project leader Jerry Goldsberry, a free-lance photographer and B & O Railroad employee.

U. of D. Senior Dawn Thomas, a student nutrition intern, volunteers for 4-H work when schedule permits. Here she helps member of club at Mary Campbell Center build a bird feeder.

515 adults serve

In 1982, Gooden says, 515 adults worked with Delaware 4-H on a voluntary basis. In addition, 160 teenagers donated their time as junior leaders. Altogether, these 675 individuals reached nearly 9,200 young people between the ages of nine and 19 meeting in 223 traditional community 4-H clubs, special interest groups and school enrichment programs.

These volunteers give generously of their time and talents. One recent national study estimated that each volunteer 4-H leader in the country gives an average of 220 hours a year and drives 400 miles in support of 4-H. But participation levels vary. Volunteers in Michigan, for instance, donate about 320 hours a year, according to another study.

"Not everyone can give the same amount of time," says Gooden. "Even eight hours a year is valuable. There's a niche for almost any kind of person as a volunteer."

The price tag

Putting a price tag on such service is difficult. Even at an hourly rate of $3.75, donated time is worth over $750 a person, based on the national 220 hour estimate. Yet the skills most of these people bring to 4-H command much more than the minimum wage on today's job market.

What kind of people get involved in 4-H service? The list is extensive. It includes homemakers and farmers - the traditional support base for this internationally known youth program which has its roots in the American farm. Today, the program serves youth in all walks of life - city, country, suburbs. Its leaders reflect this diversity.

There are teachers, school aides, secretaries, policemen, owners of small businesses, retirees, a nurse, a construction worker, plumber, medical technician, florist, photographer, accountant, carpenter, river pilots, a Southern States field rep, Chrysler and Getty workers, someone who works for the B & O railroad and someone else who works for DP & L. The ranks of volunteers also include many people employed by the state's three major chemical companies — ICI, Hercules and DuPont.

Volunteer Ken Horeis of Felton, in hat, coaches young 4-H'er on fine points of sheep judging during spring training session. In background is supervisor of U. of D. livestock operations, Bill Green.

Personal satisfaction

Dick Klair, a New Castle County livestock leader and member of the state 4-H Livestock Advisory Committee, works for the Diamond State Telephone Company. He started donating his time when his youngsters - all 4-H members - got interested in raising livestock for club projects. On the family's 5¾-acre country lot near Hockessin, son Mark (now 21 and helping his girl friend sponsor a club) had a herd of feeder pigs at one time. Now, Klair's older daughter Martha has her own flock of sheep, while younger daughter Debbie is talking about raising beef cattle for a special project. She and her father recently attended the week-

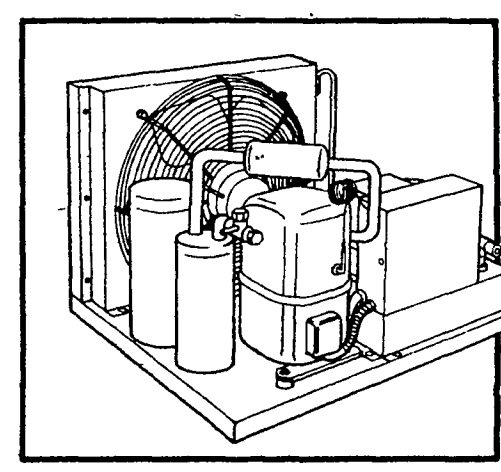
A hot and cold idea from Surge that can cut your milk room energy costs.

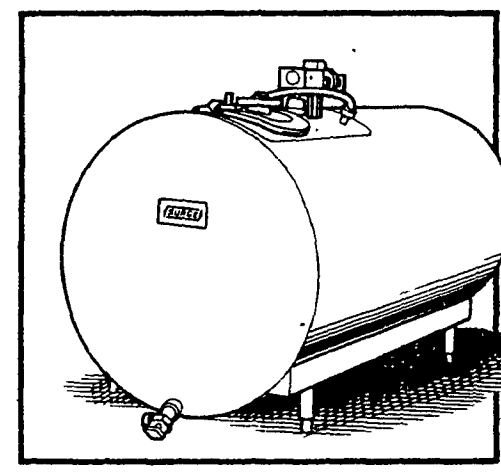
The new Surge W/A Condenser uses an exclusive combination of water and air cooling to save energy without wasting valuable hot water.



The Hot Idea.

A milk cooling system generates a lot of heat. This is a usable form of energy. Unfortunately, most air-cooled condensers waste it.

The Cold Idea.



Cold well water is much better than air for cooling a condenser. However, water cooled condensers often waste valuable hot water.

Water and air can reduce the cost of cooling your milk by as much as 20%. And the free hot water produced can cut your water heating bill by up to 80%. When you have enough hot water, air cooling takes over so you won't waste any.

Only Surge offers you this efficient, no-waste condenser.

The ARC® (Automatic Response Cooling) Tank saves you even more energy by activating your compressor only when you need it. ARC saves you as much as 20% in cooling costs over earlier models. Available in 500 to 3,000 gal sizes.

We can make your cows worth more.

long 4-H and FFA Beef Forum at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, Va. Earlier this year, Klair took a week off to accompany the Delaware 4-H livestock judging team which competed in the National 4-H livestock judging contest in Louisville, Ky.

Why does he invest so much of his time in these efforts? "For one thing," says Klair, "I get personal satisfaction out of keeping a livestock program going in Delaware. The more I'm involved, the more interest I have, the more ideas I get. It's like a big rolling snowball," he says, talking about the excitement he feels, acquiring more information and sharing it with the kids.

He and other members of the livestock advisory committee often put in 20 hours in a single weekend helping young people with projects, and coaching judging teams. His wife Barbara, a former 4-H'er, also is very active in 4-H.

In Delaware and other states, 4-H programs are operated almost exclusively by volunteer leaders, starting with the organizational leader. People like Earl and Jane Everline, a Harrington couple, or Ken and Molly Horeis of Felton, started with a small nucleus of six or eight members meeting in their homes and watched the groups gradually grow. The Everline's club, the Harrington Sunshines, is a fairly typical one. It has about 26 members ranging in ages from nine to 19, 10 leaders (including the Everline's son Mike, a former 4-H'er) and five junior leaders. The club's yearly calendar lists 55 club and county activities its members can participate in, besides their own special projects. The list is impressive, ranging from public service activities such as UNICEF, a bank cleanup, a flower bed for the town library, and a hospital fair, to special holiday events, project tours and training, demonstrations, a bus trip, a picnic, bike rodeo, dog show, field crops event, fashion revue, photo contest, public speaking event, and achievement banquet.

Gooden says 4-H is often a family affair. More than half the club leaders in the state are parents of members. But it's not unusual for some to remain active long after their own kids have grown. That's what happened to Jay and John Hukill of Lewes. They got involved through a 4-H sheep project their son Jim started, and at one time had a flock of 20 or 25 animals. Through this interest, the couple became active with sheep events at the Delaware State Fair.

Help other kids

John Hukill, a Delaware river pilot, is assistant superintendent of the sheep barn at the fair and for several years has organized and run the 4-H and FFA feeder lamb competition there.

He and his wife are also resource leaders for a local club, which often meets at their house. "I was so thrilled with the things 4-H did for my children, I wanted to give other kids the same opportunities," says Jay. "I think it's a tremendous program. That's why I continue even though my own kids are grown." Currently she is president of the Sussex County 4-H Leaders Association.

Their son Jim, now an apprentice river pilot, was a national 4-H winner in leadership, based on the sheep project that started it all.

"I have a 10-year-old niece in 4-H now," says Jay. "I can hardly wait for my graddaughter (who's three) to get old enough to join. I love to see the children succeed and excel. That's one of the things about 4-H—there are so many things the kids can do. You see a new child at a meeting and right away you think, I bet they-d like that project."

Do it for kids

With all the time and effort involved in supporting any successful youth program, why do people like the Hukills, Shaffers, Horeises, Everlines and Klairs give so generously of themselves?

"I think almost any 4-H volunteer will tell you the same thing," says Jay Hukill. "We do it because of the kids."

According to area agent Gooden, the thrust today in 4-H nationally is to involve more and more youth without increasing professional staff size. The success of this effort depends heavily on volunteers. "These people are the backbone of the 4-H program," she says. Because of volunteers, in Delaware only seven paid professionals are able to reach more than 9,000 young people, helping them develop social and technical skills which will enable them to become more satisfied productive adults with a strong sense of community responsibility.

The week of April 17 to 23 is National Volunteer Week – an appropriate time to salute the hundreds of volunteers who serve 4-H in Delaware.

Lamb Facts

Raw wool may go through more than seventy processing steps to assure the consumer the highest quality fabrics. Quality-testing fabrics are awarded the WOOLMARK.

xxx

There is no mystique about lamb. It is easy to cook by using the same methods for preparing any of the red meats. Lamb should be roasted at 325°F. All protein foods toughen or shrink when cooked at sustained high heat.

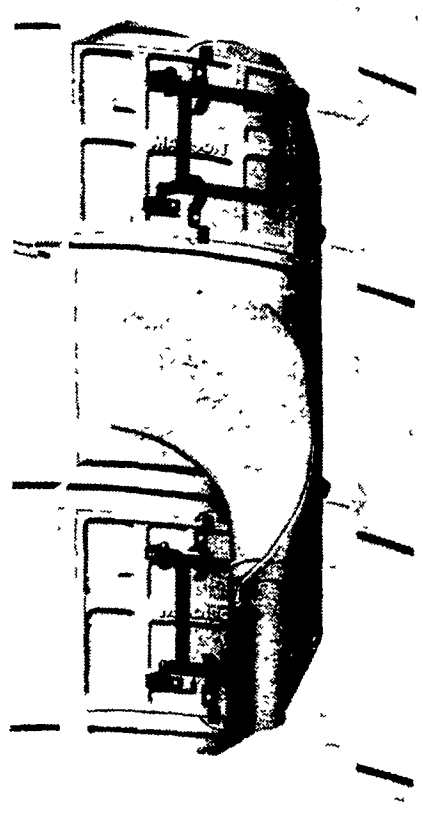
NEW MADISON® SILO FEATURES MAKE FORAGE FARMING EASIER FOR YOU!

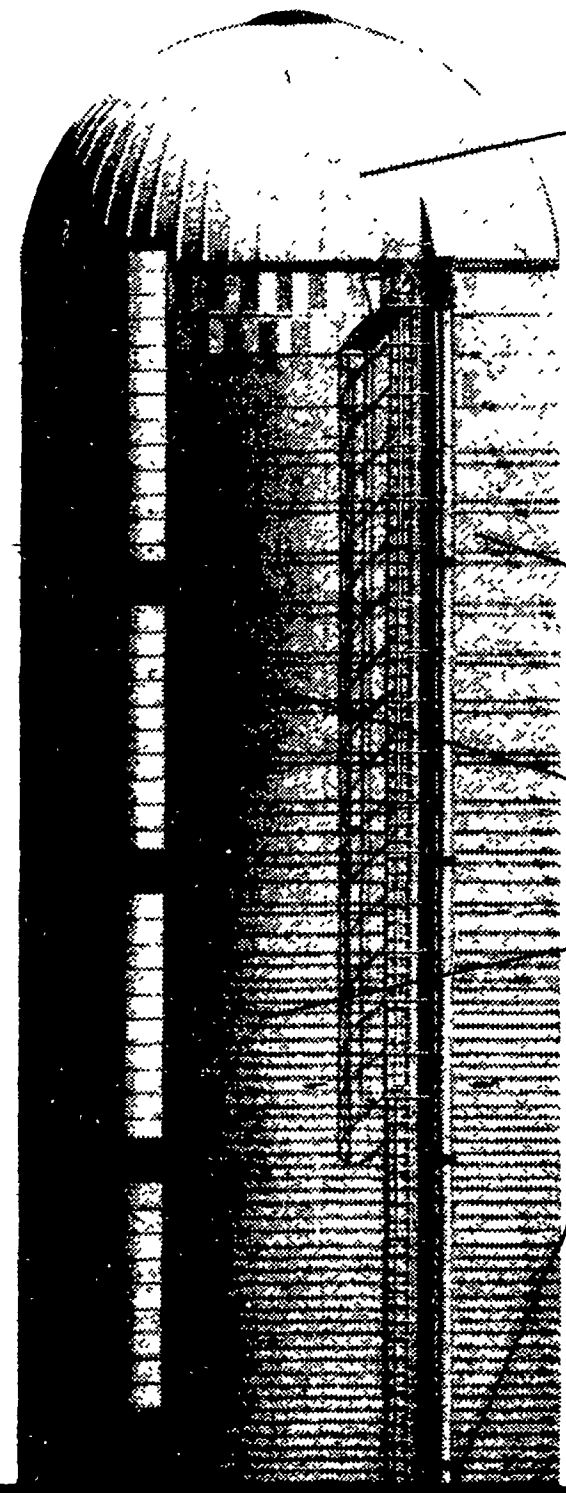
New larger, curved, one-piece door assembly — Madison's new one-piece door assembly provides greater strength so your new silo doors will last longer and cause fewer problems. Because the door is curved, your unloader will operate more freely and efficiently. Chipper wheels aren't obstructed as they are with the old fashioned flat doors.

This exclusive new Madison door is larger so access is easier, and changing the discharge chute can be accomplished more efficiently. You'll love it!



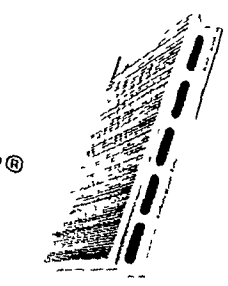
The new, exclusive, permanent Zipchute™ — Unique, simple, the best answer yet for any silo. Here's how it works.
1 Unzip the flexible tube to below the next door opening.
2 Move the hood to the new door opening.
3 Zip the Zipchute up around the base of the hood.

That's all there is to it! Nothing could be simpler — or more trouble free.



The best roof in the industry. Aluminized or optional white color dome. Its unique heavy-gauge steel construction stands up to wind, rust and corrosion (26 Ga Sheets & 24 Ga Rafters) Roofladder Turnbuckle & Cable.

The secret is the Vibra-Cor® Stave.



The famous Madison Vibra-Cor® stave. Exclusive truss-beam design provides up to twice the lateral strength of other silo staves. Carefully blended mix of cement, aggregate and minimum moisture is formed on the electronically controlled Vibrapac machine, then steam-cured at 160° for 20 hours. Result: The thickest, strongest stave ever developed.

Madison "full measure" hooping and "hoop tension" program help assure complete dependability for years! The hoop tension program provides complete tightening and testing after your new Madison is built — an important Madison plus!

One-hundred percent interior finish. Every inch of your new Madison's interior is carefully coated with our own carefully formulated finish. Unique Vibra-Cor® serrated staves provide best possible bonding. Result: More durability, reduced shrinkage and better workability.

The Madison foundation. None better! Madison crews know their business and they know that only with a proper foundation will everything else come up to their tough standards. From digging to pouring, hundreds of by-the-book steps are taken to get your new Madison off on the right footings.

Your Madison dealer will help you custom design one silo or a complete silo system to fit your needs and budget. See him for details and prices on all Madison accessories. Also, ask him for a tour of local Madison installations. See for yourself, how Madison structures can work for you.

Sugar rule change cited

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed a rule that would permit U.S. refiners to import sugar free of existing quotas for re-export in refined form.

Acting Under Secretary of Agriculture Alan T. Tracy said the proposal would permit U.S. refiners to use excess capacity by importing raw sugar to produce refined sugar that would be competitive on the world market.

As a result of the sugar price support program enacted by Congress in 1981, U.S. producer prices are supported at 17 cents per pound and imports are controlled by quotas. The world price is about 7 cents.

Tracy said the price of sugar imported under quota largely reflects the U.S. market stabilization price of 20.73 cents per pound, making U.S. refined sugar noncompetitive on the world market.

Under the proposed rule licenses will be issued for the entry of sugar into the U.S., exempt from quota, then exported in refined form. Licenses may be issued only to a refiner of sugar and are not assignable unless specifically authorized. However, the refiner may employ an agent to import or export sugar on behalf of the refiner. There is a 25,000 short ton limit per applicant.

To guarantee that sugar imported under a license is used only for the purposes intended, the refiner must post a bond to cover all entries under a license.

Comments and suggestions should be sent to the Chief, Sugar Group, Horticultural and Tropical Products Division, Foreign Agricultural Service, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250. Comments must be received by May 9.

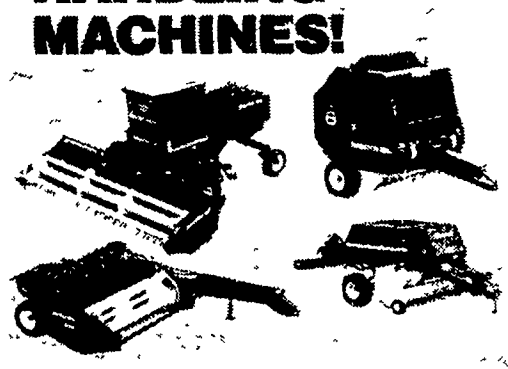
If you still think Hesston just sells hay and forage equipment...

24 TRACTOR MODELS!
45-162 PTO HP

29 HAY HANDLING MACHINES!



It's no surprise that we're considered the hay experts. That was our original claim to fame. But look how far we've come since that first windrower!

The Hesston hay line now offers self-propelled and pull-type windrowers and mower-conditioners, rakes, round balers, revolutionary center-line square balers (14 x 18 in. or 4 x 8 ft. sizes) and stackers!

Now, the Hesston name has moved "up front" on a full range of fuel-efficient, diesel-powered tractors...all available with 2- or 4-wheel drive. Built by Fiat, they've been proven reliable around the world. In fact, Fiat tractors are Europe's top sellers!

There are even more surprises in Hesston tillage tools. Whatever your need...primary or secondary tillage, minimum tillage, seedbed preparation, chemical incorporation ...Hesston can handle it!

8 TILLAGE TOOLS, OVER 70 SIZES!

14 FORAGE HARVESTING MACHINES!

The Hesston forage line can take your crop from field to silo. There are pull-type and SP harvesters, wagons and blowers...to make your whole system Hesston.

Your Hesston dealer can tell you more. See him soon. You're in for a major surprise!

HESSTON

The PRIME LINE

Plenty of room in NE for livestock, but

HARRISBURG — They call it the populus Northeast - a block of 13 states starting with Virginia and West Virginia, and extending northward to Maine. Within this region resides one-third of the nation's people.

Also inhabiting this region are over 10 million head of beef and dairy cattle, pigs, sheep, and horses. They are part of an agricultural livestock enterprise that does a $5 billion a year business and has an overall $35 billion impact on the region's economy.

There are enough farm animals to put a double line head to tail on all the interstate highways in the northeastern states.

Lancaster County has the most farm animals per square mile in the nation.

Despite these numbers, the northeast imports most of its red meat. In Pennsylvania, approximately 80 percent of beef is imported, while only 20 percent is grown here. A decline in the amount of farmland and increasing transportation costs are causing agricultural leaders to examine the situation.

Presently, over 1.8 million acres in Pennsylvania are being used for livestock pasture but almost as much more acreage is available. Officials of the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) note that this additional acreage is either underused or idle and can be converted to forage production for livestock. With ample water, from 35 to 50 inches annual rainfall, the potential for production in the northeast is unexcelled.

Farmers agree that by developing processing and marketing systems in this part of the country, meat, wool, and dairy products could be grown and marketed locally, lowering transportation and energy needs.

"However, it appears that we need to take better care of some of our existing pasture before we push too much for more livestock," said James Olson, State Conservationist for Pennsylvania. "We could increase livestock numbers by 50 percent if the present pastures were better managed."

Soil conservationists identified some areas of concern. The 11 million acres of pasture in the northeast are now losing 34.4 million tons of soil annually. Over 2 million acres are eroding at more than 5 tons per acre each year. Soil conservationists consider this rate to be land depleting over the long run.

Another concern was that farmers are giving pastures less care now than in the past. In 1967, 604,000 acres of Pennsylvania pasture were managed properly. By 1977, this acreage had declined to 449,000 acres. "Pastures are often the most mismanaged land on farms," said Olson.

SCS conservationists are also concerned about the disposal of animal waste. Some acreas have surface and underground water pollution from livestock waste. Farmers are becoming more aware of the problem and increasing efforts to correct it.

Another possible problem in the crowded northeast is that cattle and people do not mix well due to odors, noise, and other conflicts. Olson pointed out that there are many acres of land in the northeast that are not near any urban area even in populated states like Virginia, New York, and Pennsylvania.

A Soil Conservation Service task force is evaluating this situation. They report that even though present economic conditions may be somewhat limited for livestock expansion, the long-range outlook is promising. "It should be," Olson said. "The northeast has the needed resources—plenty of land, water, and people."

USDA seeks retirees for Peace Corps

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block and Loret Miller Ruppe, director of the Peace Corps, today announced a program to encourage retiring USDA employees with special skills to consider service as volunteers in the Peace Corps.

Under the program, USDA will send letters to some 3,000 former emplolyees with skills in such areas as crop production, plant protection, animal husbandry, range management, the development, the cooperatives, the application of appropriate technology, soil and water conservation, forestry and agricultural education.

In the future, USDA employees will be contacted as their retirement approaches, Block said.

The Peace Corps now has more than 5,200 volunteers serving in over 60 countries, Ruppe said, with about 3,000 replacements needed each year. Retired USDA volunteers with specialized agricultural skills could help meet this need, especially for the critical skills related to food production, he said.

USDA already is involved in international agricultural development and assistance through its Office of International Cooperation and Development. The new cooperative agreement between USDA and the Peace Corps will help both organizations better carry out their international responsibilities, Block said.

The Peace Corps pays travel, medical and living expenses of volunteers during their service. Volunteers also receive stipends of $175 per month which are available when their service is completed.

Technical training, instruction in the language of the country to which they are assigned and an introduction to the culture and life of that country are all provided to volunteers before departure.

Volunteers generally serve for a 2-year period, but they can extend their service for another year or longer. Arrangements can be made for a husband and wife to serve together, Ruppe said.

More information on volunteer opportunities is available from the nearest Peace Corps office, or by calling, toll free, (800) 424-8580, extension 93, or by writing to the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20523.

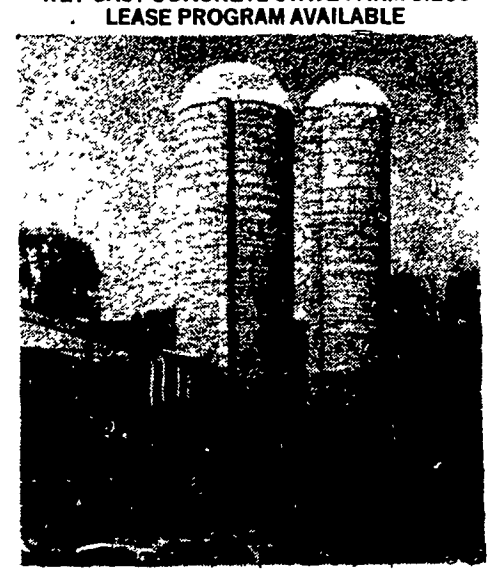
MANUFACTURER & BUILDER OF QUALITY
WET-CAST CONCRETE STAVE FARM SILOS
LEASE PROGRAM AVAILABLE



5 YEAR SILO DEPRECIATION

The Economic Tax Recovery Act of 1981 makes it more advantageous than ever to buy a new concrete tower silo this year! Now you can completely depreciate the structure in only 5 years! Not over 12 or 25 years as in the past.

Faster depreciation means Uncle Sam takes less of your hard-earned profit. And a lower tax bite means more money in your pocket.

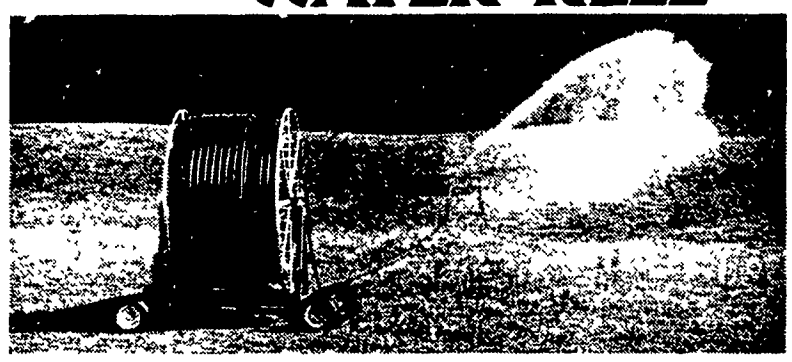
AG-RAIN® WATER-REEL



The reel irrigator with so many advantages all rolled under one name.

- Radial Inflow Turbine Drive - originated and patented by Ag-Rain It's the most efficient turbine drive on the market - it saves energy Unit is totally gear driven - reel has roller cog drive - no inefficient V-belts
- Speed Compensator - maintains uniform travel speed - assures uniform watering
- Tachometer Speed Setting - convenient, direct read-out of ground speed Set and forget
- No Wasted Water - all the water goes through the gun sprinkler - none is dumped on the ground
- Reel Swivels - easily on ball bearings irrigates up to a half mile from one position
- Dwell Timer - delays start of travel - results in uniform end of field watering
- Four Models to choose from - 4½ inch x 900 feet, 4⅛ inch x 1150 feet, 3¾ inch x 1250 feet, or 3 inch x 880 feet

SPEED UP FEEDING CHORES WITH HENKE

HENKE

Henke Trailer-mounted Kwikmixer

Put an end to slow, tedious feeding time with Henke's Kwikmixer. Three rugged augers thoroughly blend most rations in just 3 to 6 minutes. The Kwikmixer gives a uniform mix with a minimum power requirement. It's built to handle a wide variety of ingredients including pellets, grain, silage, hay and liquid supplements for total ration requirements. And it's constructed tough with extra heavy bearings for increased durability.

JOHN DEERE 1710A MULCH TILLER

11 Ft., 22" Disk Blades w/adjustable gang angle, 9 spring reset, high clearance chisel standards, tandem wheels $6150

John Deere's Mulch Tiller has adjustable disk gangs for aggressive conservation tillage.

Wrap your fields in a moisture-absorbing, soil-protecting mulch by using a John Deere 1710A Mulch Tiller this fall. The 1710A is different from competitive machines... it uses true disk blades that start the slicing and mixing action. You determine disk aggressiveness; set gang angle at 9 or 14 degrees. Three bars of chisels follow the disks and complete the soil-and-trash mixing action.

YOU CAN DEPEND ON A KNIGHT

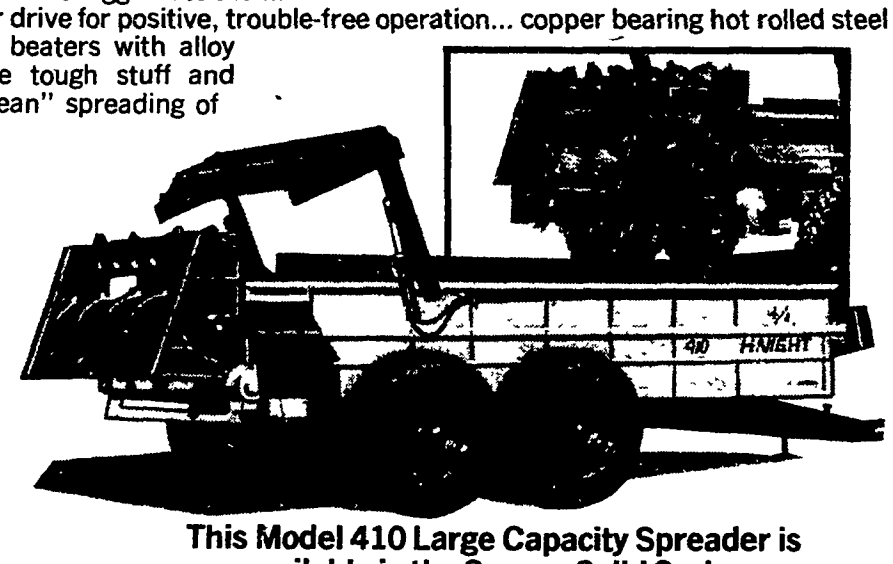
RUGGED • EFFICIENT • DEPENDABLE

Designed, built and serviced by people with many years of hands-on farm experience, Knight Spreaders are made to solve your spreading problems...not aggravate them.

Features like our rugged worm gear drive for positive, trouble-free operation... copper bearing hot rolled steel box for corrosion resistance...auger beaters with alloy steel "ripper" teeth to handle the tough stuff and optional hydro-fluid end-gate for "clean" spreading of sloppy manure... are just a few of the reasons why Knight Spreaders are the choice of successful dairymen and feeders. And for those operations requiring a self-propelled unit, large capacity Knight Spreaders can also be truck mounted.

Available in models with Bushel Capacities of 180, 252, 335, 400, 500 and 600.

Note special LOWER SPINNER BEATER for fine spreading! Rear beater projection shown.



This Model 410 Large Capacity Spreader is available in the Souper Solid Series

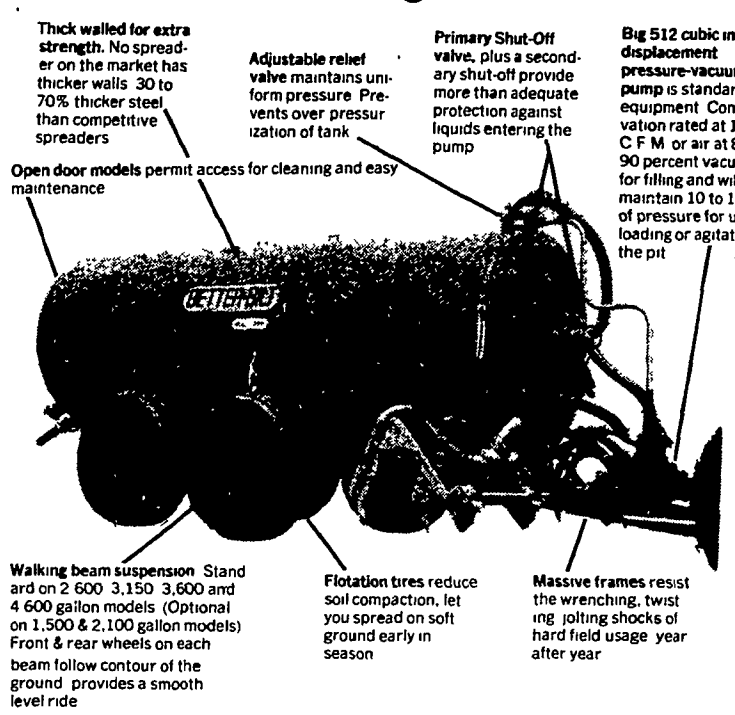
Outstanding Features



Thick walled for extra strength. No spreader on the market has thicker walls 30 to 70% thicker steel than competitive spreaders
Adjustable relief valve maintains uniform pressure Prevents over pressurization of tank
Primary Shut-Off valve, plus a secondary shut-off provide more than adequate protection against liquids entering the pump
Big 512 cubic inch displacement pressure-vacuum pump is standard equipment Conservation rated at 135 C F M or air at 85 to 90 percent vacuum for filling and will maintain 10 to 15 lbs of pressure for unloading or agitation in the pit
Open door models permit access for cleaning and easy maintenance
Walking beam suspension Standard on 2 600 3,150 3,600 and 4 600 gallon models (Optional on 1,500 & 2,100 gallon models) Front & rear wheels on each beam follow contour of the ground provides a smooth level ride
Flotation tires reduce soil compaction, let you spread on soft ground early in season
Massive frames resist the wrenching, twisting jolting shocks of hard field usage year after year

Sizes - 800 gal. thru 4600 gal.
Both vacuum & augermatic spreaders for truck mount or trailer type

1 - 1974 Ford LT 9000 tandem axle tk tractor with PT 270 Cummins engine, 6 speed Fuller trans., power steering, air slide 5th wheel, good 10.00x20 tires.

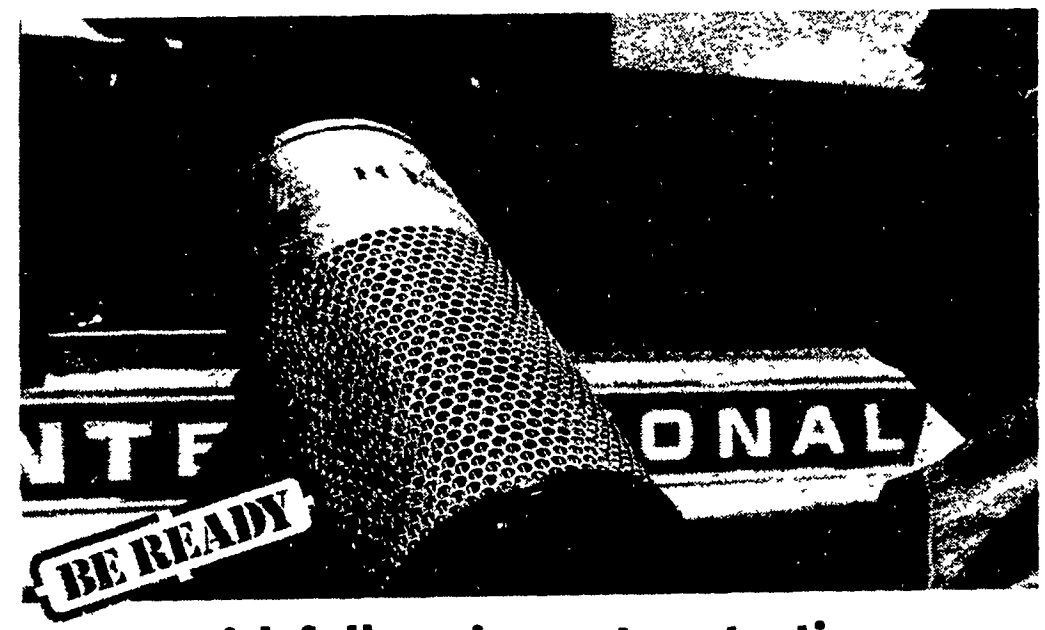
IH SUPER SAVING TIME

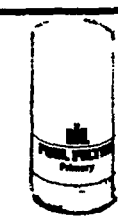


...with full equipment protection.

Air cleaner elements that fit precisely

When your air cleaner clogs, exhaust temperatures rise and efficiency plummets.

Fuel filter elements prevent costly damage



When a fuel filter fails, your diesel engine misbehaves. If you get misfiring and loss of power, it's probably time to change your fuel filter.

Hydraulic filters to keep your system working

Don't neglect your hydraulic system. Even tiny particles that slip by an exhausted filter can mean big trouble.

Oil filters to protect your investment

Change the lube filters regularly to be sure your engine will operate at peak efficiency.

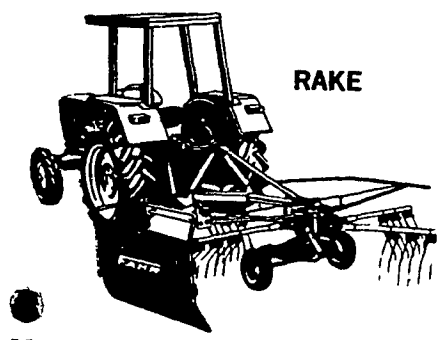
DEUTZ-FAHR...THE GENTLE POWER IN THE HAYFIELD.



RAKE

More leaves — less tangle.

The circular raking pattern of the Deutz-Fahr Rotary Windrow Rake gives you fluffy, tangle-fr ⇒ windrows that are easy to pick up Gentle handling saves leaves and stems for higher protein content in your hay

Stop in soon and check out the new Deutz-Fahr Rotary Windrow Rake See why Deutz-Fahr is the gentle power in the hayfield

Touches hay only once!

600,000 SOLD WORLDWIDE HAYMAKER

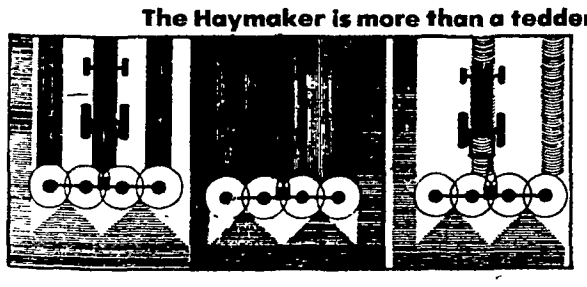
The hay's down and it rained.

The rains may soak your cut hay, but the Deutz-Fahr Centipede Haymaker can save your crop It lifts, turns, fluffs, spreads and flexes the stems to release moisture fast You get fast air-drying, save more nutrients and maintain hay quality

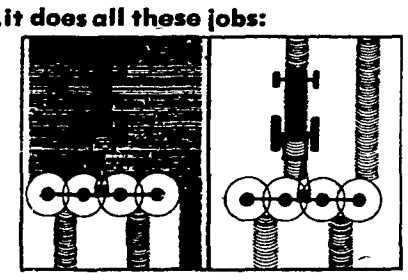
Two models - 9' and 17 width
Some farmers also use it as a rake.

DEUTZ FAHR

The Haymaker is more than a tedder...it does all these jobs:



Scattering | Tedding | Spreading windrows



Making windrows (with swath forming gear) | Turning windrows

Looking for lower operating costs and less downtime? You'll want our name and numbers.

20% better fuel economy.
Deutz AirDiesels are more fuel-efficient by design Advanced combustion technology, direct fuel injection, and fast warm-up allow Deutz engines to do more work with less fuel.

40% less downtime.
AirDiesels have no liquid-cooling system That means 40% better reliability No water pump failure, no leaky radiator, no liquid in the engine oil Ever 150,000 AirDiesels at work.

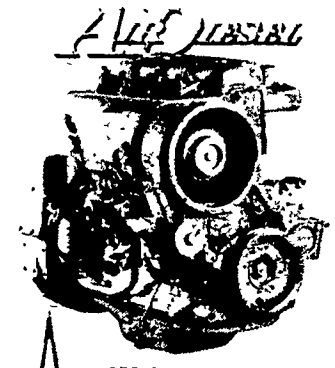
We've got a complete selection of engines from 8 to 500 hp Powering welders, compressors, pumps, gensets and more. Whatever the application whatever the environment, there's a Deutz AirDiesel to do the job for you They are premium quality engines that deliver low life cycle cost

Call us today for more information. Put our numbers to work on your bottom line



We've got the numbers.

KHD DEUTZ

We have been distributing Deutz Diesels since 1955.

DURING THE PAST 4 YEARS WE HAVE SOLD CLOSE TO 1000 DEUTZ DIESELS

During 1982 we sold over 1/3 million dollars worth of Deutz parts and performed 1382 service jobs.

With Each Deutz Engine We Also Deliver:

★ EXPERIENCE - Accumulated the hard way, our customers problems are our problems.
Our experienced personnel design each sale for customer satisfaction and trouble-free service.
★ RELIABLE SERVICE by conscientious technicians.
★ SERVICE DEALER NETWORK.
★ HIGH VOLUME - lowest Deutz prices.
No other independent engine house in the region can match our expertise.

Shouldn't you be our customer or dealer?
It would be good for both of us!

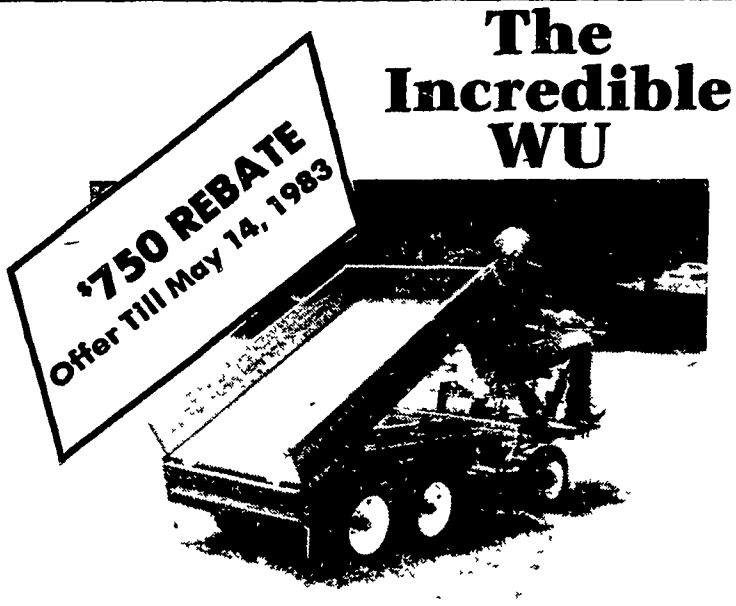
The Incredible WU



This fuel efficient vehicle will operate a normal 8 hour work day on approximately 2 gallons of gas. Capable of hauling a one ton payload with ease, the powercart goes where your pickup truck or large farm tractor can't. Four wheel drive and hydraulic dump bed are standard equipment.

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite. Below are some of the properties of Gunite:
1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration.

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite.

High-Tensile Fence System:

VERSATILE FENCING FOR PASTURES, FEEDLOTS, GRAIN FIELDS AND EVEN ORCHARDS

Using pressure-treated posts and smooth high-tensile wire, the adaptable Koppers HTF™ System can handle many agricultural problems. It can contain livestock or control predators, it can be electrified; it can be used as temporary fencing, it can be installed in 3- to 12-wire arrangements; it's even being used to guide the growth of vines and trees.

The system features Max-Ten® 200 wire from U S Steel Corporation strung on posts pressure-treated by Koppers Company. Together they provide long spans, minimal hide damage, extended service life and low maintenance.

NOTICE

The Flexible Aloe Vera - Aloe Aid Concentrate

Because of it being concentrated you can bend it to your own degree or your need of strength. Add distilled water as recommended, 1 qt. to 1.6 oz. concentrate and you'll have a more potent gel than regular brands. To make it more potent still add less water. Giving it straight, undiluted, to your animals can knock ailments that Aloe Aid gel diluted and regular brands would not sway.

Attend meeting with Sam Jenkins from Colorado, President of Aloe Aid, Inc., at Bird-in-Hand Restaurant, April 26, 7 P.M. and find out great benefits for saving farm animals from scours, etc.

Also learn about The Aloe Pearl - a proven concentrate capsule with lots of testimonies of reversing high blood pressure, skin allergies, reducing arithritic pains and increasing energy level Equals app. 1 oz. gel within a base of corn and safflower oil. .becoming a big seller

Farm Business News

Donald and Shirley Koons are honored by American Breeders Service.

ABS honors Donald Koons

DE FOREST, Wisc. — Donald L. Koons, of Waynesboro, was recently honored by his company, American Breeders Service, for outstanding achievement in 1982. He was selected as the top performer from among 215 ABS representatives in northeastern United States.

Koons started his career in the Artificial Insemination industry in 1950, with Atlantic Breeders and transferred to ABS in 1963. When introducing Koons for his award, Fred Buschner, ABS Sales Manager for that Region stated, "Don's dedication to the industry, plus the aid of his wife, Shirley, who is a very able partner in the business, has truly made him Mr. ABS in that area."

In recognition of his being named the outstanding Representative, Don and Shirley Koons participated in a company-sponsored three-day visit to ABS Headquarters, where a number of events were planned for them in and around Madison, Wisc.

Ford announces loader series

TROY, Mich. — Ford tractor dealers this spring are introducing a new five-model line of "Load Handler" compact loaders which offer a wider power range, excellent maneuverability and new operator conveniences.

The two larger models provide a substantial increase in load-handling capabilities with fast bucket raising and lowering times for operating efficiency. All five models include standard fuel-efficient diesel power, the instant response of four-wheel hydrostatic drive and the convenience of foot controls for the hydraulically operated buckets.

Ford's new CL 35 compact loader can be equipped with utility fork with grapple.

Models

The new Ford loaders will compete in Class II (700-to-975-pound lift) to Class V (over-1,750-pound lift). The new models and their classes are:

- The CL-25 (Class II) with an 800-pound lift rating and a 20-horsepower, three-cylinder diesel engine.
- The CL-35 (Class III) with a 1,000-pound lift rating and a 27.6 horsepower, three-cylinder diesel engine.
- The CL-45 (Class IV) with a 1,300-pound lift rating and a 33.9-horsepower, three-cylinder diesel engine.
- The CL-55 (Class IV) with a 1,700-pound lift rating and a 42.4-horsepower, four-cylinder diesel engine.
- The CL-65 (Class V) with a 2,000-pound lift rating and a 64-horsepower, four-cylinder diesel engine.

The CL-25 and CL-35 also are available with gasoline-powered engines on special order - and 18-horsepower, two-cylinder, air-cooled unit for the CL-25 and a 29-horsepower, four-cylinder, air-cooled engine for the Cl-35.

Powertrain

The new CL-25, CL-35 and CL-45 three-cylinder diesels are the same engines used on Ford's new 1000 Series farm tractors.

The diesel engines are teamed with four-wheel-drive hydrostatic transmissions controlled by two convenient hand levers which permit easy control for forward, reverse and skid-steer turning. All models can turn completely around in their own length for confined space maneuvering.

Features

Ford's 15-gallon-per-minute (gpm), 2,000-pounds-per-square-inch (psi) hydraulic system is standard on all but the CL-25, which has a 6.8-gpm, 2,000-psi system standard.

Twin foot pedals provide fast, convenient control of the loader bucket or optional forks. The lift pedal also includes a float position for fast, easy cleaning of cement or flat surfaces. A smaller control pedal on all but the CL-25 governs auxiliary hydraulic power to attachments such as a post-hole digger. The auxiliary hydraulic control system is optional on the CL-25.

All models come fully equipped, except for optional buckets or forks.

A rollbar with overhead protection, a seat bar and a seat belt are standard safety items. For operator protection and general safety, all loader and steering controls are covered or locked when the seat bar is swung upwards during entry or exit.

For ease and safety of servicing, loader lift arm locks are provided on all models.

A deluxe seat with fore-and-aft adjustment, front and rear lights (optional on CL-25), a belly pan, a large tool box, a key ignition, a safety-start interlock and an overhead instrument panel are all standard. Instrumentation includes an ammeter, transmission oil-temperature gauge and an hourmeter.

A variety of options are available, including dirt, fertilizer, grain and snow buckets, utility forks with and without grapples, flotation tires, a steel cab enclosure and a horn-and backup alarm.

Dealer-installed accessories include a hydrostatic drive heater and an engine block heater.

Ewell honors safety records

BLUE BALL — The Annual Safety Awards Dinner of John S. Ewell, Inc. and Ewell Service Company was held Tuesday, April 12, in the Blue Ball Fire Hall.

A family-style turkey dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary to 117 employees and guests. There were 30 safe driver awards and five safe maintenance worker awards. This marked the first recognition of maintenance personnel for a safe work record.

Holders of exemplary driver records for safety are David Frey, 30 years; John B. Getz, 30 years; and George Houck, 25 years.

Guests were Frank Shimer of Engle-Hambright-Davies; E.A. Wright of Wright Associates; Lt. Szupinka of Troop "J" Lancaster State Police; Chief Gary Strock, East Earl Township Police; Gene Meenan and Charles Gehringer of Matlack, Inc., Lansdowne, of which Ewell is Terminal #12.

In addition to bulk tank milk and dairy product and refrigerated van service, the Ewell firm moves 21,402,476 pounds of raw milk from 400 producers to market each month. Bulk tank petroleum and chemicals is moved thru the Matlack, Inc. Division.

Award watches were presented to retirees, Lawrence Fox, 36 years; John B. Getz, 42 years; Earl Baxter, 22 years and S.O. Zimmerman, 17 years. Assisting with the presentation of safety awards were Jack Rutter and Gene Flory, dispatchers. A motion picture "Nothing But A Winner" was shown. Michael G. Baley, Operations Manager, introduced the award winners and retiring employees and spoke on behalf of the Company. S.O. Zimmerman was master of ceremonies.

NE Pa. Tractor Pullers

Does lack of sulfur cause domino effect?

LANCASTER — It has been reported that soil sulfur deficiencies, now common on farms across the country, can curb yield, quality and protein content of field crops and pastures.

Now, if recent research at the University of California (Davis) is any indication, sulfur-deficient soils also can suppress livestock performance and prevent animals from using feed efficiently.

What do soil fertility levels have to do with animals performance? Plenty, if crops produced on that acreage are fed to livestock, says Milt Jones, coordinator of the study.

"The whole situation becomes a problem that ripples through an entire livestock operation," he says. "It creates a domino effect. If your soils are short on sulfur, then your livestock may be, too."

Like crops, animals need to have adequate sulfur in their diets. The nutrient plays a major role in starch and cellulose digestion, urea utilization, protein synthesis and microbial gas production. According to Jones, fertilizing with sulfur appears to be the best way to avoid sulfur deficiency in both crops and animals.

In the study, subclover and ryegrass fields that received an average of 40 lbs. sulfur per acre, in addition to recommended rates of N, P, and K, outyielded fields that received no sulfur. Subclover grown with sulfur averaged 4,250 lbs/acre. The check averaged 2,700 lbs/acre. On ryegrass, sulfur upped yields from 5,890 lbs/acre to 7,450 lbs/acre.

Fertilizing pastures with sulfur also improved the animals' average daily weight gain. Lambs fed pellets made from sulfur-fertilized clover gained 0.41 lbs/day over a 57-day period, significantly more than the 0.31 lbs/day gained with low-sulfur feed. Lambs receiving sulfur-fertilized ryegrass fodder gained 0.19 lbs/day, more than twice the 0.07 lbs/day gained with low-sulfur pellets.

Feed efficiency, or pounds feed consumed per pound animal weight gained, was also affected by pasture fertilization. Lambs fed clover grown with sulfur consumed nine pounds feed for each pound weight gained. With low-sulfur feed, 11 pounds were required.

Similarily, with ryegrass fodder, feed efficiency fell from 19 pounds feed per pound gained to 48 lbs/lb gain. In other words, 2.5 times as much low-sulfur fodder was required to produce the same weight gain as a given amount of sulfur-fertilized feed.

"Left uncorrected, sulfur shortages produce forage yields almost less than half of what they should be and substantially increase a producer's feed costs," Jones says.

"Crop and animal quality also suffer with insufficient levels of sulfur. The percentage clover in sulfur-poor fields can be as low as 10 to 20 percent, instead of an optimum 60 to 70 percent. This greatly reduces forage protein levels and ultimately, the animals' weight gain.

Sulfur alone cannot solve all of a livestock producer's problems, cautions Sam Tisdale, president of The Sulphur Institute, Washington, D.C. "But as more cases of sulfur deficiencies are reported, farmers should make an extra effort to monitor crop and ruminant levels of this vital nutrient."

Dietary supplments can be used to fill the sulfur gap. However, research has shown fertilization to be a superior method of maintaining ruminant levels – at least as far as dry-matter intake is concerned.

Jones suggests livestock producers consider a leaf analysis to assay the sulfur status of forage. (Alfalfa and subclover leaves at flowering should be at least 0.20 percent sulfur). These results combined with crop and field history, will help develop a sound pasture fertility program.

Ram Buyer's Guide available

SHOREHAM, Vt. — The second annual Ram's Buyer's Guide to Performance Tested Rams is now available from Sheep Production Services, publishers of Sheep Production magazine.

This expanded edition includes a listing of progressive sheep producers who are performance testing rams on central testing programs or have progeny available from tested rams.

In addition, to the breeder's listing and advertisments, an editorial section is included which examines performance testing programs in the U.S., explains data collected and provided by the testing progrms, and gives an overview on how performance testing can be utilized to facilitate genetic improvement of sheep for commercially valuable traits.

This publication, the only one of its kind available in the sheep industry, is intended as a link between breeders of purebred sheep and the commercial industry which has an increasing need for genetically improved sheep for commercial production.

A limited number of copies of the 1983 Ram's Buyer's Guide are available free from: Ram's Buyer's Guide, Sheep Production Services, P.O. Box 185, Shoreham, VT 05770.

Direct seeded legumes cited for PIK acres

LANCASTER — If PIK plans call for seeding alfalfa, clover, or other small-seeded legumes on set-aside acres this year, don't let weeds threaten participation or increase their own numbers for 1984.

PIK program guidelines require that weeds be controlled, warns Dave Martin, director of marketing for Stauffer Chemical Company. What's more, he adds, good weed control is economical and will help you get maximum benefits from the cover crop. Neglecting weed control will only increase weed pressure and make control more difficult in the future.

Legumes, especially clover and alfalfa, are proving to be popular choices for set-aside ground. They can fix over 100 pounds of low-cost nitrogen per acre while meeting requirements for ground cover to prevent erosion. Their deep roots improve soil tilth, drainage and organic content. And grazing may be permitted on set-aside acres after Sept. 1.

Direct Seeding Preferred

A strong first-year stand will fix more nitrogen and provide better grazing than a stand that develops slowly. The way to promote fast, vigorous growth is to seed the legume with a preplant herbicide instead of with a nurse crop, Martin says.

This technique, called clear seeding or direct seeding, offers several advantages.

"The most common nurse crop with alfalfa or clover is oats," Martin says. "The oats germinate and grow very quickly, keeping weeds in check.

"However, the oats also inhibit early growth of the alfalfa," he adds. "And farmers aren't allowed to harvest grain from set-aside acreage, meaning that oats would have to be clipped to prevent the grain from maturing."

When the oats are clipped, Martin says, clippings could form a thatch that would continue to interfere with legume growth. Or, if the oat straw could be taken off the field, the sudden supply of sunlight to the soil could stimulate a flush of grassy weed growth.

"Normally, when the oats are harvested and straw is removed, annual grasses tend to come on," he says. "If grass pressure is severe, the grasses may be able to overwhelm the young alfalfa or clover seedlings."

Better Weed Control

In contrast with these problems, direct seeded legumes get off to a fast start while a herbicide prevents competition from weeds. Once the cover crop establishes a strong, thick stand, weeds can't compete.

"Direct seeding will give you a better stand of clover or alfalfa while at the same time providing better control of grassy weeds," Martin says.

Direct seeding isn't expensive, either, according to Martin. The cost of Stauffer's Eptam herbicide in the system, at a rate of 4 pints per acre, is roughly equal to the price of certified oat seed, he says. Check a local dealer for specific comparisons. Eptam 7E is commonly used in direct seeding at rates of 3-1/2 to 4-1/2 pints per acre.

"At thse rates, Eptam cleans up annual grasses such as foxtails and fall panicum, and also controls some broadleaf weeds and perennials," Martin says. "Black nightshade, pigweed, and nutsedge are on the label, as well as many other problem weeds."

Black nightshade control could be especially important to farmers who may eventually follow this year's cover crop with soybeans, he stresses.

Direst seeding with Eptam is practical anytime alfalfa or clover can be planted, spring or fall. It may not be advisable on slopes over five or six percent, though, according to Martin.

The product can be applied as a spray or granules and incorporated with a disk, field cultivator or power-driven tiller as the ground is worked for planting.

Another option is to spread dry-bulk fertilizer impregnated with the herbicide, combining two applications into one, and then incorporate.

Eptam is labeled for use on alfalfa and all clovers except white Dutch clover. It may also be used to establish birdsfoot trefoil or lespedeza.

2 bulls go to Sire Power

TUNKHANNOCK — Two young Holstein bulls - one from Pennsylvania and the other from Maryland - have been chosen by Sire Power, Inc. to enter the GOLD Sire Development Program.

The Pa. bull, Eber-Pep-L-Lea EDITOR 1880259 was bred by J. Lloyd Ebersole, Tunkhannock; and Robert and Jane Pepple, Oxford.

The Maryland bull, Glen-Toctin SATURN-ET 1886594, was bred by Allen Brothers, Jefferson, Md.

Both are now located at Sire Power headquarters where they will undergo an intensive preventative herd health program before joining 60 other bulls being sampled this year.

Eber-Pep-L-Lea EDITOR is sired by Butterday Burke Admiral, GP82 a genetically superior bull with PD +1257m +.07% +56f, Rpty. 99%; PDT +.56, Rpty. 90%.

His dam is Mil-May Kingpin Elevation Erma, VG (88). She was specially selected because of her outstanding type and production with a top record at 3-10 of 23,030m, 882f, and a cow index of +1311. She is sired by Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation.

Glen-Toctin SATURN-ET is sired by Straight-Pine Elevation Pete, EX90 a genetically superior bull with PD +1927m, −.12%, 50f, Rpty. 99%; PDT +1.90, Rpty. 99%.

His dam is Glen-Toctin Kingpin Sandra, VG88. She was specially selected because of her outstanding type and production with a top record at 4-4 of 25,975m, 929f, and a cow index of +1135. She is sired by Whirlhill Kingpin.

Feeder calf booklet offered

ST. PAUL, MN. — Nearly 2 percent of all feeder calves die after their arrival in the feedlot. In addition to that death loss, shrink, sickness, treatment costs and poor feed utilization account for a total loss of $20 to $30 for every animal entering the feedlot. Reducing this tremendous loss is the subject of a new pamphlet published by the Livestock Conservation Institute.

"Health and Handling of Feeder Calves" covers such topics as: preconditioning; processing prior to movement; handling cattle at auctions, markets and the feedlot; what to look for before ordering cattle; and processing new arrivals at the feedlot.

It also includes diagrams and suggestions for pen and chute designs suitable for both large and small feedlot operations. These include ideas for receiving areas, hospital pens, work areas and squeeze chutes.

The pamphlet was co-authored by John Herrick, formerly with Iowa State University and Temple Grandin, Grandin Livestock Systems. Herrick has been involved with preconditioning and calf processing programs for many years and is chairman of LCI's Feeder Cattle Health committee. Grandin is a livestock consultant and has designed many handling facilities for large and small feedlots as well as packing plants. She is chairman of LCI's Livestock Handling committee.

A single copy of the pamphlet can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Livestock Conservation Institute, Dept. FCH, 239 Livestock Exchange Building, South St. Paul, MN 55075. Prices for quantity orders are available on request.

Livestock Conservation Institute is a non-profit organization dedicated to reducing livestock losses caused by poor handling, parasites and diseases.

Is residual lime pushing up soil pH?

NEWARK, Del. — Several Delaware farmers have experienced a dramatic rise in soil pH in some fields this year. In some cases the pH has shot up to 6.5 or higher despite continual monitoring by soil tests. These high values are likely to lead to micronutrient deficiencies, particularly of manganese, on grain crops.

University of Delaware soil scientist Leo Cotnoir and research associate David Parker of the university's soil testing laboratory say this phenomenon could be the result of large build-ups of residual, unreacted lime from previous applications. Lime reacts very slowly when soil is dry, they say. Both the 1980 and 1981 growing seasons were quite dry and soil pH values likely did not rise appreciably during those years despite applications of limestone.

"If a grower repeatedly applied lime during 1980-81 in an attempt to raise soil pH," they say, "a large build-up of unreacted lime could have occurred. This residual lime would then have reacted during the more favorable moisture conditions of 1982, leading to a rapid rise in soil pH."

Though more research is needed, they say it is likely that soil pH values may be misleading when samples are taken in early fall of a dry year. The values - abnormally low then-may rise to their normal level after several soaking rains.

Because lime reacts slowly in soil, the scientists say some credit should always be given for applications made within 18 months prior to sampling. The Delaware laboratory's new soil test recommendations take this into account when growers provide information concerning most recent lime applications.

Cotnoir and Parket offer the following advice to farmers who have sandy soils which are prone to manganese deficiency:

* When obtaining soil tests, be sure to indicate when, and how much, lime has been applied recently.
* Be more cautious with lime following dry years. For example, if a field is limed in March and an October soil test shows no rise in pH, it's best to wait and resample the following March before deciding to lime again.
* After harvest in the fall, try to wait until two or three soaking rains have occurred before collecting soil samples.

On loamy sands, when soil test recommendations call for 1,000 pounds of lime per acre, growers sometimes apply a full ton because it's cheaper. This practice may contribute to higher than desirable pH levels. Instead, Parker and Cotnoir suggest either applying no lime at all, or paying a small premium for the lower rate and putting on 1,000 pounds per acre as recommended.

Ace to address Goat Club

LANCASTER — Donald Ace, Penn State Extension Dairy Specialist, will discuss antibiotic residues in milk, at the April 26 meeting of the Dutch County Dairy Goat Club, at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm and Home Center basement.

Ace's talk will center on the problems of inaccurate antibiotic testing and its effect on milk production. Ace will also discuss the milk situation as it applies to goat owners and answer questions on feeding and general management.

The Goat Field Day is slated for July 16 at Jacob Fisher's, R1 Manheim, from 1-4:00 p.m.

"It's in the Bag" is more than a catch-word on the Flynn farm. The Flynn brothers, Gene, Tom and Adrian, use a two-ply plastic bagging system, called the Ag-Bag, to store haylage and silage.

Advantages of the bag system. Several plus factors are cited for this bagging system. It is effective, economical and helps the dairyman get maximum utilization from forage crops. Mix rations as you feed.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

After Reviewing Analysis

After a person has done an analysis and studied the results, the next question is where do I go from here? Unfortunately, management changes take time to show up in profit results. In some cases, refinancing may take a temporary relief possible. However refinancing is not the long-term answer. Let's look at some positive steps to recovery.

Soil Test

The first step may be refinancing or debt restructure. This can help the farmer get a little breathing room. If the family will then use this breathing room to enact some necessary management changes, the farm may prosper. Let's look at some changes:

1. Soil test - put priorities on fields according to soil test results, soil type and crop. Use soil test results to do Priority I fields. How many dollars are now left in the fertilizer kitty? Go to Lime and Nitrogen on Priority II corn fields and Nitrogen on grass or mostly grass hay fields (if it looks like less than 30 percent alfalfa treat as a grass field). Use potash and lime only on Priority II alfalfa fields. If you still have dollars left start on Priority III fields using first lime then a balanced fertilizer. Be sure to leave enough money to get good pest control.

Feed Changes

2. Feeding dairy cows - feed is the biggest cost of producing milk. It is the main cost waste area. A number one priority is to produce high quality hay and haylage. No amount of protein supplement can take the place of high quality hay or haylage as an economical source of feed. In fact this was probably the one factor that was of most importance when we looked at the question of why do some dairymen make $1000 profit per cow and others only $100 (this is bottom line profit not DHIA return over feed cost).

Second is to balance energy, protein, minerals, and vitamins which means forage tests.

Third is how often do we feed the cows? Most of the top money makers feed forage at least 6 times per day with grain from 2 to 3 times depending on whether they have a stall barn or free stall barn. Their idea is that cows eat more if the feed is fresh and in smaller quantities. Cows should be fed according to appetite and needs. Unused feed in the manger or feed bunk should not be left there when you put in the next feed. It is especially vital to clean out mangers and bunks in warm weather. One really good money manager fed forage 8 times per day and grain 3 times. His feed efficiency and return per cow was great. Some people may not want to put the time into feeding that he did but most people would not turn down his profit.

Fourth is how do you feed the cows. In a stall barn it is fairly easy to feed cows as individuals. If you were trying to maximize the use of your feed dollar try this: Use a basic protein ration based on a 40 lb. cow. Then top dress (is necessary) the higher producing cows with soybean meal. Feed grain to cows up to 120 days after freshening according to their appetite (watch your cows closely). Then, using forage test and feed program results, cheat the cows beyond 120 days. Cut to a level 20% below the recommended amount listed on your sheet. If you do this be sure to offer more forage to make up their dry matter needs. If you have poor quality forage or can't stand to cut them, at least cut them to the recommended amount to feed. No cheating just because she is a pet.

Adopt Cull Plan

What about a free stall barn with group feeding? Use a total mixed ration plus a magnet feeder (if your forage is less than great). Only first calf heifers and top producers would have access to the extra feed. If you lack bunk space (minimum 2 feet per cow), split your herd and give first calf heifers and cows fresh under 120 days free access first then open it up to the rest of the cows.

Fifth is why breed a cow that should be culled. Decide on a production level for culling each age group. If a cow is not predicted to hit or exceed that level when she is due to be bred, don't breed her. She will produce a little more milk, you won't waster the breeding charge, and you won't be tempted to keep her for one more lactation.

Franklin okays 400 acres

CHAMBERSBURG — Over 400 acres in the county were approved for conservation planning assistance at the April meeting of the Franklin County Conservation District Board of Directors. Those landowners requesting assistance are Bender Brothers, Letterkenny Township; Barbara Nye, Fannett Township; and Joseph Long, Montgomery Township.

Entries in the Conservation District's Annual Poster Contest will be judged at the May meeting. All entrants must be in the District office by Tuesday.

John Akers, District Conservationist with the USDA Soil Conservation Service, gave a report of his office's monthly happenings.

Tentative plans are being made to visit the Baumgardner's Oil Recycling Plant near Shippensburg for the Annual Tour. The tour is scheduled to be held around the middle of June. More details will be available after the May meeting.

Erosion hurts

How much is soil erosion hurting America's farm productivity? The signs are everywhere that soil erosion is taking a heavy toll and predictions abound that someday we will reach a time when our weakened acres will no longer feed our people. So far a lot of the predictions about soil losses are strictly guesses. At best they're estimates. But now the Department of Agriculture is putting the computer to work, hoping to find some answers about soil erosion.

The Agriculture Department experts figure well over five million tons of topsoil are eroded each year. And much of that comes from farms. Enough soil washes down the Mississippi River each year, they say, to build an island a mile long, a quarter mile wide and 200 feet high. These are astonishing figures, but what do they really mean in terms of our total food production system? That's where the computer gets involved.

A new computerized analysis created by a team of Department of Agriculture scientists is working to put fragmented pieces of a puzzle together so they can forecast how soil erosion may affect the land's ability to grow food and fiber in the years ahead — maybe even centuries in the future. The project is called "EPIC." That stands for Erosion-Productivity Impact Calculator. When it's all done, EPIC will bring together that researchers know about hydrology, erosion and sedimentation, livestock grazing, nutrient cycling, crop growth, tillage, soil properties, climate, pesticides, insects, diseases, economics, and any other information. Once all that is fed into a computer it may be a lot easier to make meaningful guesses.

Nearing pay off

After years of painstaking data gathering, the EPIC team thinks the work may be about ready to pay off. "Once EPIC establishes the relationship between erosion and productivity, we will be better able to put a dollar value on the loss of U.S. soil," according to terry B. Kenny, Jr., administrator of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. He says, "We also will be able to select management strategies to maximize long-term crop production."

EPIC will provide information on the current status of soil and water resources in this country. That's part of the requirement by the Soil and Water Conservation Act of 1977. Beyond that, the effort should help in the department's effort to determine why soil productivity has leveled off in recent years.

Alarming data

Data generated by the EPIC project could be quite alarming, because no doubt the amount of soil erosion in this country is staggering. It's gone on for centuries and it's generally felt in agricultural circles that not nearly enough is being done to stop it. And that's frightening when you really think about it. After all, only a few inches of topsoil separate all of us from our bountiful food supply and total starvation. And already the EPIC researchers are saying that in some areas where erosion rates are high and subsoils poor, crop yields have been reduced by as much as 40 percent in only 50 years. Combine that with the projection of a U.S. population well over 300 million in another 50 years, and you start to realize the magnitude of the soil loss problem.

It's not just dirty streams and pesticide runoff. It's a lot more than environmental issue made popular by the current nature movement. There is no question that without good soil, crop production suffers. Granted, fertilizers have eased the situations and have allowed us to produce more food than we really need, but how long can that continue? Technology has not really reached the point where our food supply can be grown in test tubes. Productive soil is still the basis for productive agriculture.

Affects yield

Looking closer at the problem, there is usually a relationship between erosion control, soil building efforts, and improved crop yields. Those farmers who are on top of erosion problems in general seem to be the ones who grow soil-enriching cover crops, and add humus-building manure. They worry about the soil's feel, its ability to hold water, and its natural crop-producing characteristics. On the other hand, those farmers with little concern about erosion and soil building techniques are often plaqued with seemingly unavoidable problems that result in low yields and unprofitable farming.

Historically, farmers in some parts of the country wore out farms through bad cultural practices and simply abandoned them to move on to virgin ground. During a time when land was cheap and plentiful, an uncaring and uninformed farmer could wear out several farms in a lifetime. Of course, that changed with the end of homesteading and other cheap land policies. Farmers went back and reclaimed those wornout places. Many were improved and built up to become productive units once again. But now there's an increasing national concern that modern farming techniques and an economic squeeze that is causing farmers to take all they can and put back as little as possible is getting them into trouble again.

Maybe the EPIC project will show graphically and unquestionably that we are losing our topsoil at an unacceptable rate. And just maybe that will be the beginning of a national effort, with a high level of public concern and government funding to help financially strapped farmers save and rebuild the land before it's too late.

Hog hedging leaflet offered

LANCASTER — To help farmers determine their costs of fattening hogs, Trade Tech Management, Inc. has published a leaflet entitled "Tractors, Combines and Commodities Hedges — Tools of Successful Farming." The leaflet also suggests when a hedge should be placed in the futures market to protect profit.

In this leaflet, the registered commodities advisors list a few cost figures from their own hogs produced on local farms last year. In addition, a graph shows when they placed their commodities hedge and the profit margin locked in. Trade Tech's president, David K. Sauder, believes farmers need to use the commodities hedge as a necessary tool in these times of excessive price fluctuations.

To obtain this free leaflet, farmers may call (717) 898-0139. Or they may write to Trade Tech Management, Inc., 1020 Stony Battery Road, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Cumberland Valley FFA cites top members

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG — The members of the Cumberland Valley Future Farmers of America celebrated their 29th anniversary parent-member banquet recently at the Cumberland Valley High School.

This was an evening of fine food, fellowship for members, guests and parents, as well as presentation of chapter awards to the patiently waiting chapter members.

Receiving some of the top awards for the evening was Chris Hopple, Tim Armstrong and Ray Yost, the 1982 Star Greenhands of the CV Chapter.

Steve Paulus was presented an outstanding award, the 1982 Chapter Star Farmer. Paulus was also recognized during the evening as a 1983 Keystone Farmer Degree Recipient. This award winner is the Chapter's current president.

The 1982 Chapter Star Agribusinessman Award was presented to Frank Shoop, who was also the recipient of the 1983 Keystone Farmer Degree.

Winners of the 1982-83 FFA Foundation Chapter Awards were Steve Paulus, Dairy Production; Chris Hopple, Diversified Livestock Production; David Shultz, Beef Production; Eric Nace, Sheep Production; Steve Foreman, Crop Production; Randy O'Boyle, Fruit and Vegetable Production;

Wendy Bretz won nursery operations; Mike Brymesser, Forest Management; Mike Zarker, Home and Farmstead Improvement; Jeff Shughart, Soil and Water Management; Dave Capp, Agriculture Mechanics; Frank Shoop, both Agriculture Electrification and Agriculture Sales and/or Service;

Wendy Bretz was also a winner in Public Speaking; Dave Fureman, Outdoor Recreation; Tim Armstrong, Placement in Agriculture Production and Jim Bivens, Agricultural Processing.

The Cumberland Valley Chapter had a strong delegation enter their project books in the 1983 State Project Book Contest. Winning a 2nd Gold Medal in the One Enterprise Book was Tim Armstrong, as well as Dave Fureman who was awarded a one enterprise 3rd Gold placing. Randy Yost won 5th place gold medal in the two enterprise category, while Vicki Basehore and Ray Yost won bronze medals.

Winning in the three enterprise category of project books was Jeff Shughart winning a gold medal and Chris Hopple received a silver. Steve Paulus captured the four enterprise category with a silver award.

Walter Loy of the Farm Credit Association presented the Special Awards in the State Project Book Contest. Winning these special awards were Jeff Shurghart, the recipient of the Regional Farm Credit Award, and Randy Yost, the winner of the Cumberland County Farm Credit Award.

This chapter also had quite a list of 1983 Area Farmer Degree Recipients. These area degree farmers are Brad Findley, Steve Foreman, Dave Fureman, Eric Nace, Ed Meyer, Jim Bivens, Tracy Brackbill, Steve Paulus, Jeff Shughart and Chris Hopple.

Each year, the Cumberland Valley High School presents scholarship awards to the chapter members who have retained a high scholastic average in all their high school courses. This year the winners of the Scholarship Award is Jim Biven, Brad Findley and Ron Fetrow. The High School also presents a leadership award to the FFA student displaying outstanding leadership qualities in all areas of high school and extra curricular activities. This year's leadership award winner was Steve Paulus.

Each year, the Cumberland Valley Chapter inducts into their organization honorary members, who are people who will be a source of guidance for the members. This year the honorary members are Larry Wert, Petermans Farm Equipment; John Hulse, Hulse Assoc.; Joseph Correal, Attendance Officer of Cumberland Valley High School and Robert Brobak, Assistant Principal of Cumberland Valley High School.

Winners of several contests during the past year were Dean Lehman, placing first in the 1982 Chapter Creed Speaking Contest. He also won the top placing in the Greenhand Division. The 1982 Chapter Tractor Driving Contest was won by Rodney Potteiger, as well as the 1982 County Tractor Driving Contest. In the 1982 Small Engines Contest, Dave Capp and Jim Bivens captured the first-place award.

Lower Dauphin FFA holds annual awards banquet

HUMMELSTOWN — The Twenty-Third Annual Parent-Member Banquet of the Lower Dauphin Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held on Tuesday, April 12, in the Senior High School Cafeteria with 265 members and guests present. The banquet was called to order with President Duane Herr serving as toastmaster.

Freshman Joe Halbleib, opened the Awards Ceremonies with the presentation of the FFA Creed. Mrs. Cynthia Shaffer, Chapter Advisor, presented the Star Greenhand Award to Frank Gilbert. Gilbert is on the Parliamentary Procedure team and participated in the county FFA Question Bee.

John Haldeman, a senior Keystone Degree winner, was awarded the Star Chapter Farmer Award. He serves as Chapter Vice President, won a gold medal in the state public speaking contest, won the chapter tractor driving contest, was in the state chorus, and has corn as his project this year.

Duane Herr, chapter president, was awarded the Star Agribusinessman Award. He also serves as president of the CDP Area FFA, won a gold medal in the state salesmanship contest, participated in livestock judging and has been chairman of the parliamentary procedure team for the past three years. He is employed at the Agway Store in Hanoverdale. He also won the High Salesman Award for selling the most Agway Seeds.

It was also announced in the awards program that two Lebanon County FFA'ers were state proficiency winners, including Dave Ludwig, of Cedar Crest, in fruit and vegetable production; and Darrell Balmer, Annville-Cleona, in placement in ag production.

Dana Lape, of Cedar Crest, also finished third in the state in poultry production proficiency.

Lebanon County FFA Degrees went to:

Annville-Cleona – John Long, Todd Fies, Andrew Baer, Brian Hartman, Tom Inman, Karl Brandt, Steve Reigel.

Cedar Crest – David Groff, Ann Lansberry, Daniel Groff, Gary Krall and Dwayne Gish.

Elso – Norma Kurtz.

Lebanon County Vo-Tech – Melanie Dabich, Tom Kintzer, Ellen Hanson and Warren Katzaman.

Northern Lebanon – Marlin Deaven, Russell S. Wolf Jr., Nelson Bomgardner and Heather Hernley.

Honorary Lebanon County Degrees went to Dale Maulfair, sponored by Northern Lebanon; Kenneth Sellers, Annville-Cleona; Richard Kreider, Cedar Crest; John H. Gettle Sr., Elco; Harvey Smith, Lebanon Vo-Tech and Dick Anglestein, County-at-Large.

County project book winners were honored by Wengers Farm Machinery.

Greetings from the State FFA Association were delivered by Deborah Lee Miller, State Reporter.

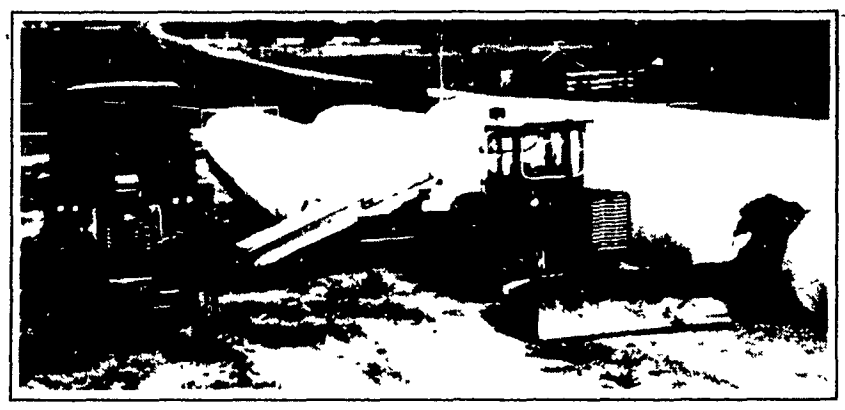
Also honored by the Lebanon County FFA'ers was Newton Bair, retired county extension agent. He received some golf balls and "lessons" for the game.

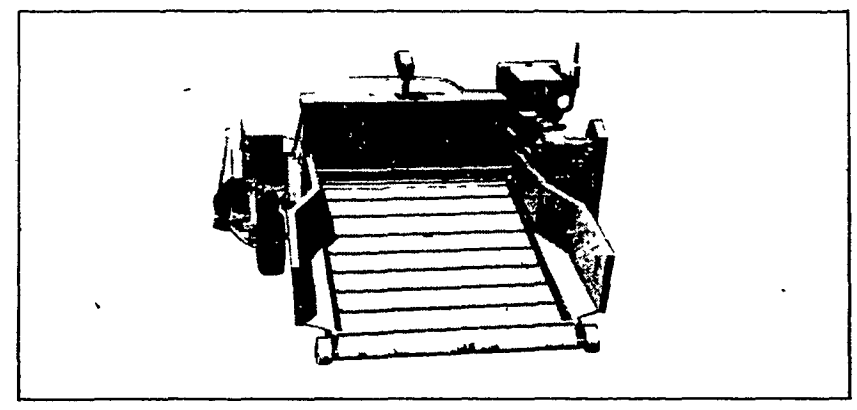
Two State FFA proficiency winners from Lebanon County are Darrell Balmer, left, Annville-Cleona, placement in ag production; and Dave Ludwig, Cedar Crest, fruit and/or vegetable production.

MORE FOR LESS.

The Storage System for the future. Here Now!

THE AG-BAG SYSTEM





MORE FEED. MORE STORAGE. MORE HIGH QUALITY TDN & PROTEIN.

Select from three models of AG-BAG Machines. Motorized, Hydraulic, and Gear-Driven. AG-BAG lets you match the machine to your job. Big or small. Whether you're DAIRY or BEEF AG-BAG will store More For Less. The AG-BAG System. Air-tight storage with more versatility than any other system. Just look at these AG-BAG ADVANTAGES:

1. UNLIMITED oxygen-limiting storage
2. Storage for ALL forages & grain
3. Transportable
4. Easy to use and little maintenance
5. NO dangerous silo gases
6. Silo fires WON'T occur
7. Higher moisture forage
8. NO unloader to break down
9. Extra income and potential from custom bagging
10. THE Forage System for the 80's

JUST LISTEN TO WHAT THESE AG-BAG BELIEVERS HAVE TO SAY:

Kenneth Popham of Floresville, Texas

Kenneth runs a 465 cow Dairy and said this about AG-BAG: "At today's interest rates you can't afford any other type of storage... Even with the yearly cost of bags it's still inexpensive storage... a whole lot cheaper than building barns and hiring help. I put up 13 bags last year and after seeing the results, I'll put up 25 bags this year. The bags are a good thing"

Don Carter of Parkdale, Oregon

"The best move I ever made"... says Don Carter in reference to his switch to bagging silage on his dairy near Parkdale, Oregon.

"I get 18% more feed from the same acreage and the feed lasts three times as long. I used to clean my bunks after three days, now I only need to clean them after 10 days."

Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

"In addition to everything else, it's a management tool"... says rancher, Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska.

Roland farms 350 acres west of Blair, Nebraska, and fattens about 650 cattle from 600 lbs. to finish.

"By labeling every bag as to date and kind of feed, I can mix my feeds and eliminate the guess work in making a ration. I feed alfalfa silage, corn silage and ground ear corn stored exclusively in the bags, purchasing only my minerals and vitamin supplements."

"The AG-BAG system has enabled me to increase carrying capacity per acre at a reduced cost of gain."

Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan

"At least 30% more feed... I can guarantee at least that"... says rancher, Bert Anderson, of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

"I've been able to cut my grain feeding costs in half since converting to the bagging. It's just like feeding grass. I've also eliminated the need for a liquid supplement that we always fed before going to the AG-BAG System..."

HERE'S WHAT THE AG-BAG SYSTEM CAN DO FOR YOU
1 BAG	150 TONS
6 BAGS	900 TONS
12 BAGS	1,800 TONS
24 BAGS	3,600 TONS
48 BAGS	7,200 TONS

were presented to the following members by Roy Maurer, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Lower Dauphin: Richard Barnhart, Ag Mechanics; Dave Marshall, Ag Processing; Duane Herr, Ag Sales and/or Service; Brian Hoerner, Beef Production; John Haldeman, Crop Production; Tom Baker, Dairy Production; Jim Crist, Diversified Livestock; Joe Walker, Fish and Wildlife Management; Ed Barrick, Floriculture; Dale Fisher, Fruit and/or Vegetable production; Dwayne Leinginger, Home and Farmstead Improvement; Lydee Cassel, Horse Production; Rodney Stuber, Placement in Ag Production; Dale Fisher, Poultry Production; Jim Landvater, Soil and Water Management; Ed Huntzberger, Swine Production; John Haldeman, Public Speaking; and Craig Cassel, Extemperanous Public Speaking.

Jeff Eisenbise, President of the Lower Dauphin Young Farmers, presented the Dekalb Award to Duane Herr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, of R1 Hershey.

Dale Fisher, recipient of the Citizenship Award, is also a senior. Dale served as chairman of the earnings, savings, and investment committee, was on the livestock judging team, and won his Keystone Degree this year. John Frankford, Intermediate Principal, presented this award.

Mr. Osevala, Senior High Principal, presented scholarship awards to Jay Fleck, Cindy Baker, Kathy Hughes, Ed Huntzberger, John Haldeman, Dale Fisher, Richard Barnhart, and Shawn Powell. These members made the honor roll at Lower Dauphin 2 out 3 marking periods this year.

Henry Hoerner, Superintendent of Schools, presented the retiring officers plaques to John Haldeman, graduating vice president and Duane Herr, graduating president.

John Haldeman, Chairman of the Supervised Occupational Experience Committee, presented project book awards for the county and state contests. Blue ribbon county award winners were Dwayne Leininger, Brian Hoerner, Tom Baker, Ed Huntzberger, Dave Marshall, Jim Landvater, Jim Crist, Duane Herr, and John Haldeman. State Project book awards went to Dean Zeager who won a gold medal, Dwayne Leininger and Brian Hoerner who won silver medals, and Ed Huntzberger and Dave Marshall who won Bronze medals.

Deb Miller, State FFA Reporter, and Glenn Wenger, State FFA Alumni President, served as the keynote speakers for the evening. A slide series of the Work Experience Abroad Program in Switzerland was presented by participant Tammy Yost, as well as a slide show to highlight 1982-83 Chapter activities.

Observation is vital in managing young pigs

NEWARK, Del. — Pigs can weigh 45 to 50 pounds in nine weeks if the environment — including nutrition — is right. Reaching this production goal calls for skillful nursery management, says University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Richard Fowler.

"Pigs perform best when their diet is well balanced and fresh," he says. "If you're not satisfied with the performance of your animals, examine your feeding program." The protein level for four-week-old weaned pigs should be 16-18 percent. A lower level is adequate if the amino acid lycine is present in amount equal to 1 percent of the diet.

Complex started diets produce better results than simple ones, Fowler says. Be sure, through, that the results are cost effective. Sugar, milk products and other animal protein sources increase palatability. But does the improved performance offset the higher diet cost?

Floor important

When milk products absorb ammonia odors they lose their palatability. So don't mix and store more than a seven- to 10-day supply of diet with milk in it, he advises. Keep it in an odor-free outside area and feed only as much as pigs will eat in a day.

The type of floor in a nursery also strongly influences performance. "Pigs in clean straw are comfortable and bloomy," says the specialist. "Concrete is popular with producers because it's easy to clean, but it's uncomfortable without bedding."

Slatted floors and wire decks give higher performance than solid concrete. Fowler suggests growers who plan to renovate consider installing wire or other slatted material for the floor. Also elevate the floor as much as practical. Raised floors are warmer and keep pigs out of their manure.

Watch ventilation

Ventilation is a real challenge in a swine nursery. Too much causes drafts and respiratory problems. Too little allows ammonia build-up. During cold weather, move air at the rate of 2-3 cubic feet a minute (cfm) per pig. In mild weather increase the rate to 10-15 chm per pig. In hot weather, boost it to 25-35 cfm per pig.

Common mistakes include overventilating a partially filled house, and adding pigs to a nursery without increasing ventilation. Nursery temperature depends on pig size, says Fowler. Twelve-to 15-pound pigs requre 85-degree F temperatures. Those weighing 40 pounds need an environmental temperature of 75 degrees F. "Check temperatures at pig level, not your own eye level," he advises. Also check for floor drafts. Poor dunging habits are often related to improper ventilation.

Floor space also determines performance in the nursery. If the floor is entirely slatted, allow 1.6 square feet per pig up to 25 pounds and 2.0 square feet up to 40 pounds. With partial slats or solid floors, provide approximately 1.5 and two times additional space, respectively.

Keep groups small

Keep pen groups small—20 pigs or less, the specialist advises. Litter-size groups are best until animals weigh 40 pounds. Provde one feeder space for every two to three pigs in the nursery. Pigs eat as a group while nursing the sow. They continue this behavior after weaning, so adequate space improves performance.

Use nipple waterers and provde one for every 10 to 15 pigs. Avoid nipples larger than 3/8-inch. Place them low enough for the smallest pigs to reach.

Let the waterer drip for the first few hours pigs are in the pen so they all find the drinking place. Bowl waterers are undesirable because they collect manure and add to health problems, Fowler says. Provide a separate system so individual pens can be medicated at any time.

"Manage the nursery so all the pigs go in and out on the same day," he advises. "This system gives better performance than any other. Many nursery units aren't set up this way. If you're considering renovation, plan changes that will allow for this type of management."

Finally, OBSERVE, OBSERVE, OBSERVE. Visit the nursery frequently. That ounce of prevention IS worth a pound of cure when you're growing young pigs.

Events scheduled for mushroom growers

The 26th Mushroom Industry Short Course will be held June 13-15 at Penn State. The registration fee will be $50.00 to Pennsylvanians, $58.00 to out-of-staters.

The course will cover issues of economic concern to mushroom growers including, finance management, the utilization of computers in agriculture, the pros and cons of marketing orders and the current marketing order proposal.

Subjects of scientific nature will also be covered during the three-day event including, mushroom viruses and their detection, integrated pest management and the use of hardwood leaves for compost.

Also of concern to mushroom growers will be the Mushroom Industry Meeting to be held May 4, 7:30 p.m., at the Italian American Club Hall, Kennett Square.

Dr. James Sinden of the Mushroom Industry will be the guest speaker. The meeting will be co-sponsored by the American Mushroom Institute and the Chester County Cooperative Extension Office.

Ground pork standards proposed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture is proposing to define the ingredients acceptable in pork products - such as ground and chopped pork and pork burgers and patties - to ensure their quality and consistency.

The proposed ground pork standard, similar to the present ground beef standard, was developed in response to a petition from the National Pork Producers Council, according to Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service. The council requested the standard to assure consumers high-quality, consistent ground pork products without excessive fat.

Under the proposed pork rule, products labeled "ground" or "chopped" pork would consist mainly of chopped fresh or frozen pork mixed with pork fat and seasonings.

"Their pork fat content would be limited to 30 percent, and no ground pork product could contain added water, binders, extenders or phosphates," Houston said. The addition of mechanically separated - de-boned - pork also would be prohibited.

The proposal sets the ingredients for pork patties as chopped fresh or frozen pork mixed with pork fat and seasonings. Pork patties could also contain binders or extenders, mechanically separated pork used according to USDA regulation, and partially defatted pork fatty tissue. Water may be used in the mixture but only in amounts that preserve the product's basic "meat pattie" character.

Finally, the proposal defines "pork" exclusively as swine meat from skeletal muscle tissue, the diaphragm or esophagus. Swine heart or tongue meat would not be considered "pork."

"We're taking this opportunity to update our definition of beef as well," Houston said, "to bring the official regulations in line with agency policy. In the proposed definition, 'beef,' like pork, can only be derived from skeletal muscle."

None of the new standards - for ground pork, pork patties or ground beef - represents a departure from current industry or government practice, Houston said.

"The proposed amendment to the beef products regulations merely clarifies the time - honored use of the word 'beef,' and most ground pork producers already observe pork definition," he said.

The Federal Meat Inspection Act provides that USDA may prescribe definitions and standards for meat and meat food products when such action is necessary to ensure product quality and protect the consumer.

Comments, which should be identified as responses to Docket Number 82-012P, will be accepted, in duplicate by June 13, by Annie Johnson, FSIS Hearing Clerk, Rm. 2637-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Beekeeper directory offered in Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — A directory listing 62 beekeepers in 18 of Maryland's counties who are interested in renting their bee colonies to farmers, orchardists, etc., is now available from the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

I. Barton Smith Jr., Supervisor of Apiary Inspection for MDA, has compiled the directory after surveying beekeepers. The service was started several years ago by Smith's office after receiving numerous calls from both beekeepers and growers interested in renting bees.

To secure a copy of the directory, please send a number 10, business size, stamped and addressed envelope to: "Bee Directory", C/O I. Barton Smith, Jr., Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Copies may also be secured from the county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service.

For years, apple, peach, and other fruit growers have kept, or rented, bee colonies to insure pollination of their trees. Increasingly, vegetable growers have turned to placement of bee colonies near their fields as a means of insuring good yields.

The directory lists beekeepers by county with addresses and telephone numbers and lists the areas of the state the beekeepers are willing to serve.

Is time ripe for no-till vegetables?

NEWARK, Del. — No-till or minimum tillage has been the innovative production practice of the seventies for corn, soybeans and even small grains. How about no-till vegetables?

"We may be ready for no-tillage — especially for some processing crops like sweet corn, lima beans, snap beans and peas," says University of Delaware extension vegetable specialist Ed Kee. These crops have some similarities to corn and soybeans and there are labeled herbicides that will permit minimum tillage culture on them. But he cautions vegetable growers about moving ahead too ambitiously with no-tillage until the technology has been perfected.

"There's no question that we need to look at no-till in vegetables, if only from the standpoint of wind and soil erosion," Kee says. "Anyone who's seen our wind-blown fields in early spring no doubt will agree." There are other potential benefits in machinery and fuel savings, the build-up of organic matter and soil moisture conservation.

No fixed recipe

It would be nice to lay out a program or "recipe" for no-till vegetables, the specialist says, but the technology hasn't reached that stage yet. Right now he advises interested growers to try no-till on a trial basis on small acreage.

There are several reasons to be cautious. Many vegetables and some varieties lack the seedling vigor of agronomic crops. It may not be possible to sow them early or to plant them in thick stubble or mulch. A sweet corn variety like Silver Queen, for example, has enough trouble getting started in early April in conventional ground, let alone in no-till soil which requires the seedling vigor of something like NK 199 to get out of the ground and going.

Switching to no-till isn't an overnight decision either, says Kee. It's necessary to plan a year in advance for no-till, leaving residue from the last crop or establishing a cover to create the proper environment for a no-till planting. Fields with perennial weed problems must be avoided, along with those which have been cut up by various equipment operations or which have serious nutritional deficiencies.

After selecting the crop, variety and field for no-till vegetable production, the next consideration is the planter. This must be able to put the seeds where they're supposed to go — in the soil at the proper depth and not on top of a mulch. It must also space them accurately. Proper planter calibration and driving speed are critical when planting no-till. It is often necessary to slow down to get the right populations.

"Peas are a special case because they're planted with a drill at rates of 250 to 275 pounds of seed per acre," Kee says. "That's a lot of seed to flow through tubes and openers. Some of the new no-till drills can't handle that load as they're set up and would need to be modified. Compounding this problem is the tendancy of peas to bridge due to their wrinkled skins, thus jamming seed flow during planting."

Weed control programs for no-till vegetables depend on the availability of effective herbicides. The specialist advises growers to read labels carefully for rates and additional information.

Herbicide plan

An herbicide program for sweet corn is fairly straightforward. Paraquat/Gramoxone (1-2 pt./A) + Dual (1½ - 2 pt./A) + atrazine (1.2 - 2.4 lb./A of 80WP) or Round up (1-2 qt./A) + Dual (1½ pt./A) + atrazine (1.2-2.4 lb./A of 80WP). The roundup mixture will aid where existing vegetation includes dense, well established annual or perennial weeds, though it's better to avoid these situations.

Roundup is the only material presently labeled for control of existing weeds in no-till snap beans, lima beans or peas, Kee says. Paraquat/Gramoxone is not cleared for these crops. A combination of Roundup (1½ qt. - 2 qt./A) and Dual (1¼ - 1½ pt./A) may be a possibility. "It is possible to add Dinitro to the mixture to increase broadleaf weed control, but there have been cases of injury from Dinitro in a no-till situation. This is a part of production that needs more research and experience," he says.

Peas often are planted without herbicides, especially in early spring. Dinitro will provide some weed burndown plus residual control on them. Paraquat/Gramoxone is not labeled for this crop. "From experience we know that Dinitro and Paraquat/Gramoxone are not compatible and will gel up in a tank," he says.

Beyond these considerations, there are other questions to be answered before no-till can be adopted for vegetables. Are there special disease and insect problems that would be aggravated under no-till? Are there harvest problems? What is the proper row spacing and population for vegetables in a no-till situation? "It's humbling to be faced with so many unknowns, but the challenge is there for all of us to discover how to become successful no-till vegetable growers," Kee says.

Md. urges horse vaccinations

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland horse owners are being urged to vaccinate their animals against equine encephatlitis ("horse sleeping sickness") which is often a serious problem in this region during warm weather when mosquito populations increase.

The disease is spread by mosquitoes. Late in the summer of 1982, a viral "build up" along the Maryland border was evident, according to Maryland Department of Agriculture Animal Health veterinarians.

Sickness and death occurred in several horses but a potential outbreak of the dread disease was blunted by 'last minute vaccination' and a killing frost which stopped mosquito activity.

Scientists anticipate a problem this summer from the viral disease that could lead to an outbreak of encephalitis in horses. While the area mosquito control programs carried out by MDA are helpful, such work is only one measure that can be used to prevent the loss of horses.

Protective vaccines for horses are also necessary. Usually "eastern encephalitis" kills its horse victims. The few survivors often show incoordination and impaired vision.

A specific treatment against the virus is not available, only supportive treatment and nursing care are useful.

Effective vaccines are available for horses and other equine species. Animals must be vaccinated annually to be adequately protected.

"It is best to vaccinate horses before mosquito numbers build up", advises Dr. John C. Shook, State Veterinarian, of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Shook says horse owners should contact their private veterinarian to have their horses vaccinated now. "If vaccination is delayed until sickness occurs, veterinarians are often too bogged down to carry out vaccinations trying to save sick horses. Supportive treatment can be expensive, yet not save the horses from death", Dr. Shook said.

Horses do not serve as a source of "eastern encephalitis" virus to humans. The virus is perpetuated by a bird-mosquito-bird cycle, with man and horses being "dead end" hosts.

N.J. Holstein calf sale on Friday

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — "An extraordinary group of calves," says Bill Teets, Lebanon, N.J., Holstein breeder and a co-chairman of the New Jersey State Calf and Bred Heifer Sale scheduled for Friday at 7 p.m.

There will be 60 calves and bred heifers in the sale. Pedigrees and individuality are the best yet for this annual event," reports Teets. He shares leadership for the sale with Frank Gibbs of Allamucy, N.J. Sale is held on the Warren County Fairgrounds, near Harmony.

This year's consignments boast 25 with from 20,000 to 31,000 lbs. of milk. Eighteen are "Very Good" in type classification.

Some very outstanding New Jersey cow families are represented. An example is Marlu Bell Athena, out of a dam with 31,150 lbs. of milk. She's by "Elevation" and out of an "Astronaut" daughter with 5 records over 800 lbs. of butterfat. Third dam is three times "Excellent" with over 140,000 lbs. milk lifetime.

Other great calves consigned are from herds including Richard Byma, Sussex; William Terhune, Andover; Huff 'n' Puff, Burlington County.

From local herds, there are consignments from Hunterdon Hills Holsteins, Rosemont; Windy Crest Holsteins, Califon; Four Oaks Farm, Somerville; Floyd Schwab, Ringoes; George Alles, Flemington.

The sale includes a number of young Holsteins from Eastern Pennsylvania. Keystone Farm, Easton, consigns a bred heifer with an excellent pedigree.

Sale is conducted by Backus Associates of Mexico, N.Y. Catalogs and information may be obtained by calling Frank Gibbs(201) 852-4164, or Wm. Teets, (201) 236-2189.

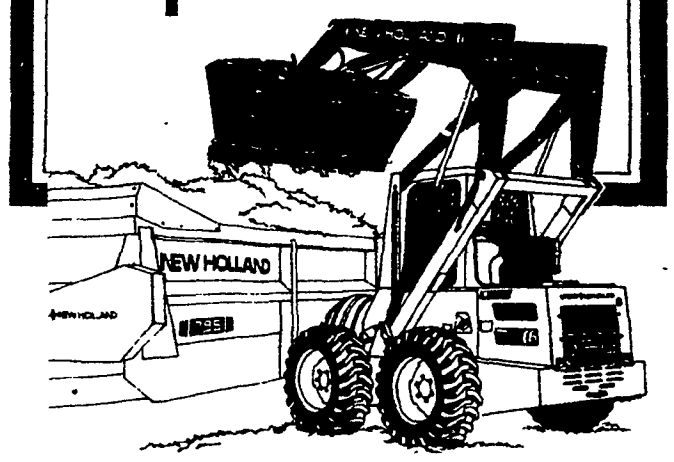
Meet Super Boom.



That's what you'll call a Sperry New Holland skid-steer loader after you run one. Super Boom lets you load the center of a tandem-axle spreader, handle big round bales, bags of fertilizer or feed, clean stalls and much, much more. The unique lift linkage gives you 28 to 34 inches of forward dump reach depending on which of the six models you choose. Super Boom also gives you more capacity, more stability and less spillback than conventional loaders. Choose gas or Diesel engine from 22-hp to 75-hp. Operating loads range from 900 to 2,050 pounds (S.A.E.)

Why settle for an ordinary combine?

Own a Sperry New Holland Twin Rotor™ combine instead. Patented dual-rotor threshing process produces a cleaner sample with less grain damage and lower losses. Three models to choose from. Stop in today. And be sure to ask us about the line of corn heads; flexible cutterbar bean headers and rigid cutterbar grain heads. And like all Sperry New Holland machines, Twin Rotor combines are backed by a parts and service system that's second to none.

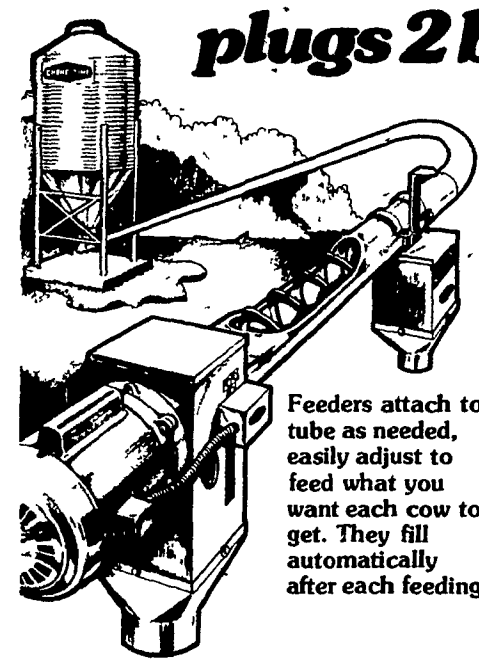
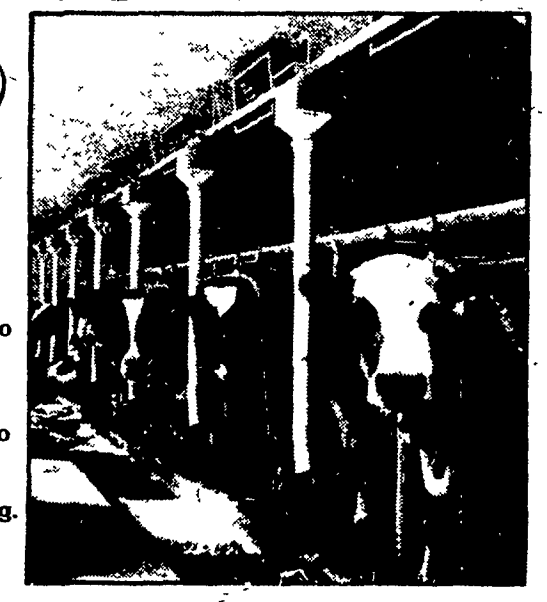
FLEX-AUGER® cow feeding plugs 2 big profit leaks



Feeders attach to tube as needed, easily adjust to feed what you want each cow to get. They fill automatically after each feeding.



Put Chore-Time FLEX-AUGER® Cow Feeding System to work boosting your income

Feeding supplement by hand wastes money two ways: (1.) Some cows get too much, others not enough — wasting feed and hurting production. (2.) It's time and labor spent you'd be money ahead to put into management. Mechanize your feeding with an inexpensive, energy-efficient Chore-Time Cow Feeding System. Feed each cow the right amount, as many times a day (to boost production) as you want by automatic timeclock, or by pulling a lever.

Find out about the Chore-Time system — our 10-year warranty on auger — plus the line of feed bins that outsell all others in America because of their built-in quality and long life.

National corn contest forms available

BLOOMINGTON, Il. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) Board of Directors has announced that the rules and entry forms for the 1983 NCGA Corn Yield Contest are now available. The contest encounters four classes, which includes Irrigated, Class A and Class AA Non-Irrigated and No-Till.

The No-Till classification was added to the contest last year. To qualify for the No-Till division, a field must not be tilled during the fall season prior to the year in which the contest is held, with the exception of shallow disking (no deeper than three inches) to establish a cover crop, or shallow disking once to break up corn stalks; no tillage of a field already in sod during the prior fall season; and no soil disturbance took place after January 1 of the year in which the contest is held, with the exception of that tillage done by the corn planter and in such case, no more that 25 percent of the surface area tilled for the seed zone.

The Non-Irrigated classes are divided into Class A and Class AA. Class AA is for corn producers entering fields located in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio and Wisconsin. The remaining states are classified in the Class A Non-Irrigated division. The fourth class in the contest is Irrigated.

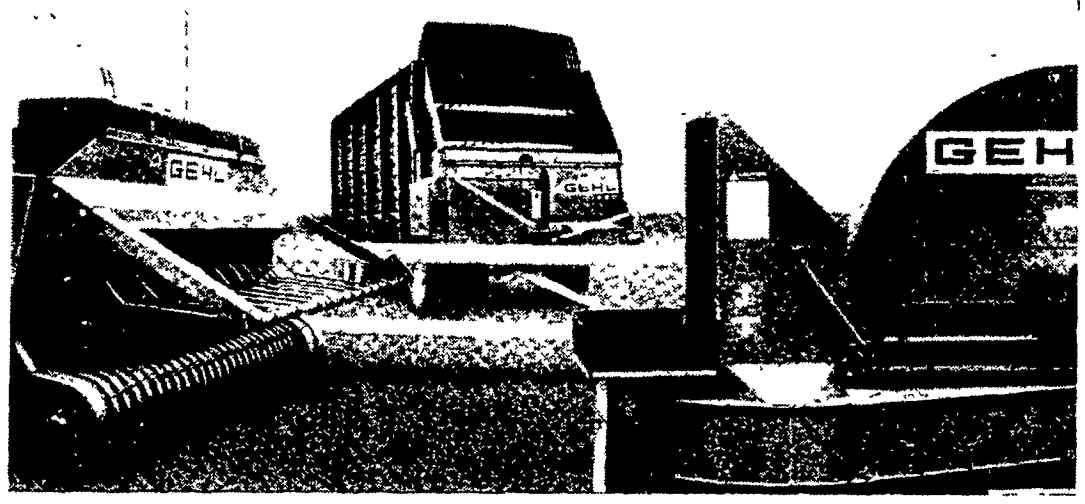
A completed application and a contest entry fee of $50 for NCGA members, and $80 for non-NCGA members must be received by August 10, 1983 in order to qualify for the 1983 contest. Also, to be eligible for the contest, participants must enter a field at least 10 acres in size. Once a field in entered into a particular contest class, it cannot be changed to a different classification.

State and national winners in the 1983 Corn Yield Contest will be honored at the 1984 NCGA Annual Convention. The 1982 yield contest winners will be awarded at the NCGA Annual Convention in Springfield, Illinois on July 17 through July 20, 1983.

All corn producers in the United States interested in entering the 1983 NCGA Corn Yield Contest should write to: National Corn Growers Association, P.O. Box 1623, Bloomington, Illinois 61701.

GEHL

YOUR GEHL DEALER HAS LINED UP SOME GOOD IDEAS FOR SPRING.



Now's the time to stop in at your Gehl dealership and see how Gehl good ideas can work on your farm

You'll see a full line of quality forage equipment – and get a chance to talk over our full slate of good ideas with your Gehl dealer

More capacity for your money.

Act now and you can put a high capacity forage harvester to work without paying the high prices you'd expect Choose from a full range of forage harvesters capacity matched to your 60 to 250 hp tractor

All Gehl forage harvesters give you high output via non stop forage flow And our exclusive water injector option reduces haylage gumming to speed up harvesting and slow down fuel consumption

Gehl even saves you time and headaches when sharpening knives Our patented in head hydraulic knife sharpener lets you put a factory true bevel on every knife right in the field It's fast and simple And you'll never find a simpler way to fine tune a cutterbar than our single station cutterbar adjustment

Teamwork speeds unloading.

Gehl efficiency doesn't stop with harvesting your crop

Our new 960 box and our popular 99 blower team up to make unloading at the silo a fast operation The box features an extended cross conveyor to fit perfectly with our capacity matched blower hopper

You'll find our blower is really two blowers in one Twin spinners fire incoming forage into a powerful two sided blower – and then it's up and into the tallest silo

See our new mower conditioners, too.

One thing you're sure to notice at your dealership is our new rigid-frame and swing frame mower conditioners From 7'3" all the way up to a big 14' double sickle unit And our swing-frame design offers self-propelled maneuverability at a pull-type price

Now that's a good idea

CLINTON CO. DHIA
March, 1983

Anthony Graine, led the Clinton County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for March.

The top herd in the Clinton County DHIA for March and the cow completing the highest lactation is also owned by Anthony Graine.

The top herd of Registered and Grade Holsteins completed the month with a Rolling Herd Average of 19899 lbs. of milk per cow, yielding 690 lbs. of butterfat.

Other top herds were:

— Paul L. Courter, 17301 lbs. of milk, 658 lbs. of butterfat.

— Blair & Elaine Courter, 18267 lbs. of milk, 657 lbs. of butterfat.

The cow completing the highest lactation of 305 days or less was Alberta, a 4-year-old Holstein owned by Anthony Graine. Alberta produced 22978 lbs. of milk testing at 3.6 percent, yielding 818 lbs. of butterfat.

Other top producing cows were:

— Shirley, owned by Blair & Elaine Courter, 20233 pounds of milk, 3.8 percent, 766 pounds of butterfat.

— Dixie, owned by Paul L. Courter, 18157 pounds of milk, 4.2 percent, 757 pounds of butterfat.

— #18, owned by Paul Dotterer, 19782 pounds of milk, 3.8 percent, 750 pounds of butterfat.

Study okays using soy protein

CHICAGO — Longterm consumption of ground beef with added soybean protein exerts little effect on the body's ability to absorb dietary iron, U.S. Department of Agriculture human nutrition researchers report.

They said a six-month study involving 227 adults and children fed a diet containing soy protein showed that iron and zinc levels in the blood either improved or were not significantly changed.

These findings were presented by the research team at a meeting of the Federation of Amercian Societies for Experimental Biology. Team members are C.E. Bodwell, Eugene R. Morris and Carolyn W. Miles, all of USDA's Human Nutrition Research Center in Beltsville, Md.

The USDA findings challenge several earlier nutrition studies which suggested that soy proteins posed a health risk. Those earlier studies were based on single-meal tests and indicated that soy proteins may sharply reduce human absorption of iron.

Soy protein is widely used in the United States in meals provided by the military, in school lunches, baby formula and many diet supplements.

Three of the most common soy protein preparations were investigated in the USDA study. These were textured soy flour, soy protein isolate and soy concentrate. In addition, the study analyzed the possible benefits of fortifying soy proteins with dietary iron or zinc.

To investigate the nutritional impact on iron status under practical conditions, Bodwell and colleagues at the agency's Human Nutrition Research Center studied 52 households from the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia. In addition to the participants in the feeding study, "control" volunteers were selected so that normal variations could be monitored.

After passing a thorough medical evaluation, the 227 participants continued their usual lives as much as possible during the study.

Each family received especially prepared "meat" patties which were eaten for protein in 7-9 meals each week. Seven kinds of patties were tested: all beef; beef with three types of protein; and beef with three soy proteins fortified with iron and zinc.

Complete blood analyses were done at the beginning and end of the six-month study.

Ferritin — the body's iron storage protein — was measured during these analyses and also a 45-day intervals.

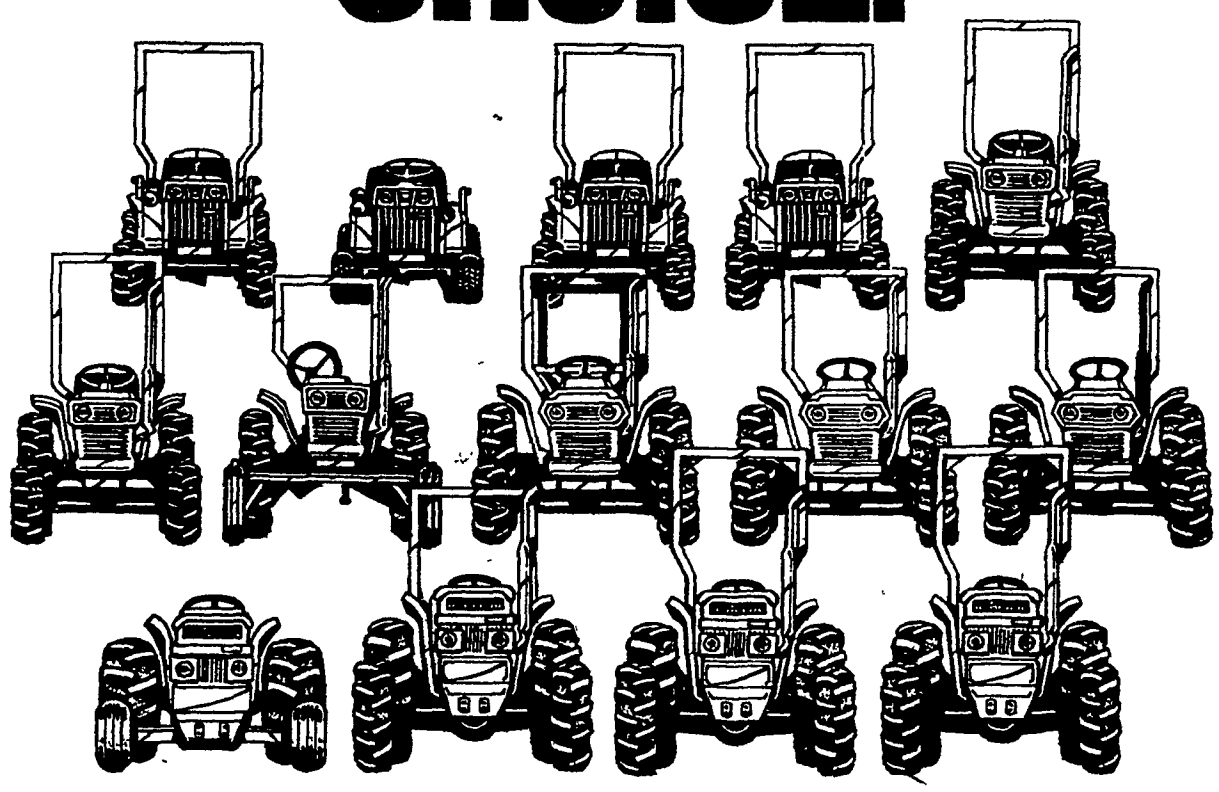
Adult males also participated in two absorption tests in which they consumed meals specially labeled with a radioactive isotope of iron. The absorption tests provided highly accurate check measurements for the ferritin analysis, Bodwell said.

The patties (except all-beef) were prepared with 20 percent soy protein and 80 percent protein from beef. This ratio is close to that specified for ground beef purchased by the U.S. Department of Defense, Bodwell said.

USDA's national school lunch program — which provides about 23 million lunches per school day — allows use of soy to replace up to 30 percent of ground meat.

"Neither the Department of Defense nor the school lunch soy protein level appears to present a risk of soy-induced iron on zinc deficiency," Bodwell said.

FIELDER'S CHOICE.



Kubota's got the field covered when it comes to mid-size tractors. With so many models to choose from, ranging from 12 to 81 hp, you're sure to find one that'll be at home on your range.

Of course, the tractors vary in strength and capabilities, but they're all designed to work with a variety of implements. And each one features the economical, fuel-efficient Kubota diesel engine.

Take a look. Given the choice, we think you'll choose Kubota.

The Dairy Business

By Newton Bair

(Newt Bair may have retired as Lebanon County Extension Agent, but he's not retiring as a dairy columnist for Lancaster Farming. He'll still be writing a bi-weekly column to help dairy farmers through these trying economic times. Here's the first of the columns.)

Crop Economics — The Best System:

Protein and energy — these are the real reasons for growing crops on a dairy farm. And you had better grow them cheaper than you can buy them, unless you farm just for the fun of it.

A good modern cropping system should be geared to growing the best mix of crops that will give the maximum yield per acre of protein and energy for the dairy herd. Total Digestable Nutrients-(TDN) is generally used to indicate the energy content of a crop, and Crude Protein (CP) is the measure of protein level.

Years ago I read a text book on dairying, which repeated the phrase "good corn silage and alfalfa hay" to emphasize the importance of these two ingredients in a successful cropping system for dairy cows. Well, we have come a long way in farming technology from 1920, but those two crops are still our most efficient producers of protein and energy. Together they make a perfect marriage of crops. They even complement each other in alternating contour strips as well as in a succession of crops on the same field.

Lets take a look at how some other common crops stack up when compared to corn and alfalfa in TDN and crude protein. The legumes, clover, alfalfa and soybeans are of course, the protein carriers, while the grains furnish the bulk of the total digestable nutrients.

YIELD OF TDN AND PROTEIN

Crop	Yield	TDN#	CP#
Corn Silage	18 T	7400	500
Alfalfa	4 T	4000	880
Clover-grass	2.7 T	2860	420
Sh. corn	105 Bu.	4710	390
Ear corn	3.67 T	5310	390
Oats	60 Bu.	1500	180
Barley	60 Bu.	2200	260
Soybeans	35 Bu.	1800	670

A quick glance at table 1. shows the superiority of corn silage in total energy, even over ear corn, while no other crop comes close to alfalfa in protein per acre. Soybeans come in second to alfalfa, but on an equal yield basis, they don't come very close. The yields listed are nominal average yields for comparison only.

Since corn and alfalfa are already the basic crops on most dairy farms, we need no further convincing. But a look at the net returns per acre based on YIELDS, is a real eye opener.

Table 2.

NET RETURNS VS. YIELDS PENNA. ALFALFA PROGRAM

TONS/AC	$COST/AC	$COST/TON	NET/AC
3.4	$259	$86.00	$15.64
4.63	$242	$60.00	$81.90
5.39	$252	$54.00	$124.00
6.59	$292	$50.00	$181.30
7.38	$285	$42.00	$251.00

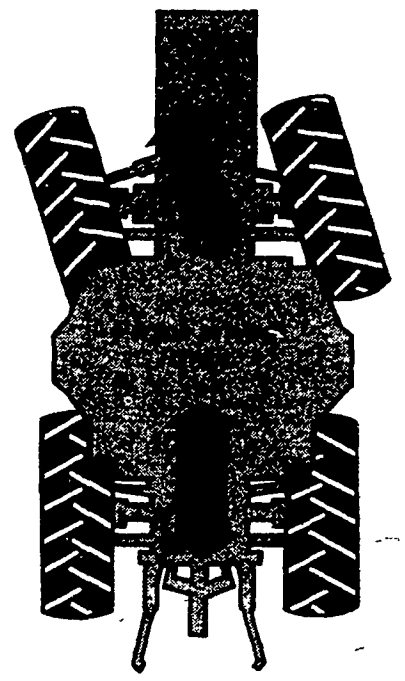
SOLID STATE SELECTIVE STEERING. ONLY CASE HAS IT.

FRONT WHEEL STEERING



Case 4-wheel drive tractors combine a solid frame design with exclusive solid state 4-way selective steering. In the field or on the road, when you switch to FRONT steering, the front wheels do the steering and the rear wheels remain centered. The frame doesn't bend in the middle like articulated models. You get the same easy, simplified turn as with a 2-wheel drive tractor — no awkward reverse steering action. It's the only way to farm in the rows. That's Case. We're not like the others.

Dairy Business

THE obvious conclusions from the data in table 2. are that as yields of alfalfa increase, so do the per acre costs, while the cost per ton goes down dramatically! And look at the net return per acre- there is an eight-fold increase in profit as yields go from 3.4 tons to 5.4 tons per acre! I only call attention to the very moderate yield increase, rather than to the record breakers.

Table 3.

PENNA 5-ACRE CORN PROGRAM-NET RETURNS

BU./AC.	COST/ACRE	COST/BU.	NET/AC.
91	$220	$2.41	$18.79
110	$226	$2.04	$64.83
130	$239	$1.86	$98.23
148	$261	$1.76	$127.75
168	$267	$1.59	$173.10

Since these are 1981 figures the costs seem too low, but nevertheless they are comparative with the yields. Again, it's the higher yields that produce the lowest cost per bushel and the highest return per acre.

Bill Waters, the Penn State Farm Economist who compiled the figures in the tables, has been telling us that the break-even yields of both corn and alfalfa are going up each year. The break-even yield for alfalfa went up from 2.2 tons per acre in 1977 to 3.9 tons in 1982. Breakeven yield for corn is now 98 bushels, compared to 78 bushels in 1979. Of course, we all know that the price of corn hit bottom last year, seriously affecting the return per acre on the corn you raised.

Since the break-even yields of both crops are somewhat above the average yields for the State, it is evident that the management practices for both must continue to improve.

Now remember that I said in the beginning that your aim should be to produce protein and energy cheaper than they can be purchased. The only way to be sure is to know your cost of production. I'll cover some of those techniques in the next discussion.

Meanwhile, test your soil, (and apply lime and nutrients accordingly), plant tested varieties and go for the high yields. We have not yet reached the 'point of no return' for either of these factors in efficient growing of TDN and protein for dairy cows.

Egg producers to confer with Block

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Al Pope, president of UEP and John Ricca, president of Northeast Egg Marketing Association, jointly announce that Secretary Block and a group of top echelon policy makers in USDA have agreed to meet with egg producers in Washington D.C. on April 26.

Purpose is to review the effects of the current economic squeeze on egg producers and discuss any helpful action the department can offer.

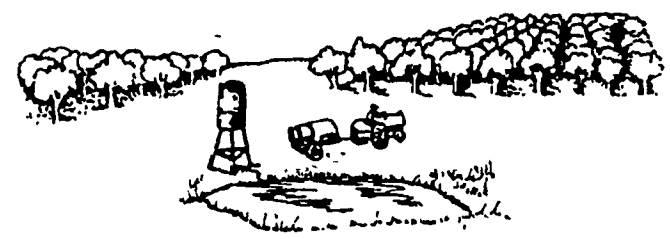
Among possible items are: stresses on family farm egg producers, rejuvenation of U.S. egg exports, effect of PIK on those who must buy food stuffs, and the role of foreign investment in the egg industry.

This will be a formal meeting. UEP is inviting the participation of state farm and poultry organizations and hopes to field 50 delegation members from Lancaster and Adams counties.

Whether you are a UEP member or not, your attendance and imput are welcome. Interested producers are asked to call (609) 443-3490 or your appropriate state organization, if you haven't been previously contacted.

Aquashade

To control algae and waterweeds in nonflowing lakes and ponds.



SAFE FOR RECREATIONAL, ORNAMENTAL, IRRIGATION AND SPRAY USES. Will not harm humans, livestock, wildlife or crops.

PROVEN EFFECTIVE, at Cornell University. EPA Registered (No. 33068-1).

EASY TO APPLY. Apply Aquashade after spring runoff or by early May. Pour into water along shoreline. Use one gallon to 4 acre-feet of water. Initial treatment lasts 6-10 weeks in nonflowing waters. Reapply at midseason or as necessary to maintain light aqua-blue color.

Purchase Aquashade at your local Agway outlet.

Judges, managers ready for Dairy Expo

UNIVERSITY PARK — A Dairy Princess Contest Wednesday and "Show Day" May 7 will highlight the 58th Annual Dairy Exposition sponsored by the Penn State Dairy Science Club. The first part of the Exposition was the Dairy Cattle Judging Contest held April 9.

Overall chairman of the Dairy Exposition is Dave Naugle of R1, Hooversville, senior in dairy production. Assistant overall chairman is Dave Trotter of R1, Enon Valley, junior in dairy production.

Last year's Princess, Judith Harding of R4, Brookville, sophomore in dairy production, is organizing this year's Dairy Princess Contest on April 27. Contest entrants are limited to girls in the Penn State Dairy Science Club. The Princess is chosen on the basis of overall appearance, character, poise, communication skills, and activities in the College of Agriculture.

The 1983 Dairy Exposition concludes with "Show Day" at the University dairy barns on May 7. About 100 cows from the University Herds were drawn randomly by students on March 16. These students are grooming and training their cows to be led and to stand correctly in preparation for fitting and showing classes on "Show Day."

In the fitting classes, entrants are judged on how well their animals are groomed, bathed, and clipped. In showmanship classes, entrants are judged on how well they present their animals in the ring – including posing and leading the cow to maximize good points and minimize faults.

Judge for fitting contests at "Show Day" will be James Bates, of New Alexandria, a dairy farmer and 1975 graduate of Penn State in dairy production. Judge for showmanship is Gary Baxter, of Stoneboro, Penn State production graduate in 1980 and now in veterinary school at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Show Day" manager for Holsteins is Lisa Cooper of R1, Slippery Rock, senior in dairy production. The assistant managers are Penny Smith, of R2, Mansfield, junior in general agriculture; Daniel Ulmer of R2, Bellefonte, senior in dairy production; Melanie Alsdorf from R2, Spartansburg, senior in dairy production; and Laura England of R1, Williamsburg, senior in general agriculture.

The manager for all other breeds is James Harding of R4, Brookville, senior in agricultural business management. The assistant managers are Scott Houseman, of Broomall, senior in agricultural business management; William Zollers, of Mertztown, sophomore in dairy production; Michael John, from Chambersburg, senior in agricultural economics and rural sociology; and Jay Clark of R1, Enon Valley, freshman in agricultural business management.

Fun events for "Show Day" are being organized by Dave Lash, of R1, West Newton, junior in dairy production and his assistant, Suzanne Voight, from Lafayette, NJ, sophomore in general agriculture. A celebrity milking contest, fraternity and individual milk "chugging" contests, sorority and individual milking contests, and a calf dressing contest will be the main events.

County Fair May 27-28

CONESTOGA — The annual Conestoga Country Fair will be held Friday, May 27, and Saturday, May 28, on the grounds of the Conestoga Fire Company in the village of Conestoga.

The Fair is sponsored by the Lancaster Forest Fire Crew and the Fair Committee is making every effort to expand the Fair, by inviting organizations, business and private individuals to be a part of the annual event. Space is being planned for more exhibits and an enlarged arts and crafts area.

In addition to business and commercial displays, exhibits are expected to include educational and environment related entries and private exhibitors are encouraged as well. Food concessions are being increased and plans call for a flea market area on Saturday afternoon.

Persons interested in seeking space at the Fair, or obtaining more information, are invited to call The Lancaster Forest Fire Crew at (717) 872-7298, or writing to the Crew at R2, Box 375, Conestoga, Pa. 17516.

One of the particular interests of the 1983 Fair Committee is to locate additional Community organizations interested in operating festival-type games. Music, stage entertainment and special attractions are also planned, including the second annual 'cake-baking' contest.

Sheep producers stress marketing

DENVER, Colo. — The American farmer is experiencing a revival with renewed emphasis is being placed on marketing activities rather than the traditional production role.

Speaking at the Southeastern Sheep Symposium held April 13-14 at Mississippi State University, Eldon White, director of producer services for the American Sheep Producers Council (ASPC) said, "The results of the 1970's have been a universal weakening of farm product markets. Of necessity, producers are now concerned about marketing—stimulating consumer demand, foreign export development and even a return to the concept of direct producer-to-consumer selling."

Referring specifically to the lamb and wool industry, White said the ASPC has developed, through its producer Board of Directors, a strategic plan geared to enhance profit opportunities over the next three years. Through the plan, ASPC is positioning itself within the marketing chain, rather than totally at the consumer end.

In the wool area, White said, "Our objective is to increase domestic wool usage and to increase the percentage of the U.S. wool clip used." During 1982, domestic mills used 112 million clean pounds of wool. Of this amount, 58.6 million pounds, or 52 percent, was supplied by U.S. sheep producers. To secure a strong position for American wools, the ASPC will go directly to the marketplace and influence the decision makers on new uses and products for domestic wool in fashion, textile and other areas. "We are developing three-way partnership between the woolen mills, the garment manufacturers and the retail distributor," White said. "In less than six months, key contacts have been made with some of the industry's leading woolen mills, garment manufacturers, and retail chains."

In the lamb marketing area, a partnership approach is also being used. "The seven ASPC Lamb Marketing Consultants are working directly with key decision makers at all levels of the trade; including packers and distributors, meat retailers, and the hotel, restaurant and institution trade to broaden market outlets for American lamb.

On the foodservice side, the ASPC is working with the trade to introduce new cutting and breaking standards to assure quality and portion control, as well as introduce greater variety in a full line of new lamb products. "We are developing technology that will result in chef-ready lamb cuts," White said. He also said producers can better position themselves in the marketplace by knowing what they are selling, knowing their customers, targeting attention, and by considering all marketing options, including direct selling, auctions, teleauctions or electronic marketing.

A proven technique a producer may consider is direct producer-to-consumer marketing. "We are finding that more consumers are interested in buying lamb directly from the producer," White said. "And they are willing to pay more for the lamb."

White concluded that, "As we go through the 1980's, the competition will dictate that you must become more market oriented, understand what you produce, who your customers are and, finally, get involved. It will take a shrewd, resourceful businessman to prosper in this new marketplace."

Penn State offers soil map

UNIVERSITY PARK — Penn State's College of Agriculture has a soil map for Pennsylvania unlike anything published elsewhere. It is entitled the Land Resources Map of Pennsylvania and features 153 soil groups.

First published in 1976, the map is issued as an educational, nonprofit function of the Agricultural Experiment Station, the research division of the College.

Robert J. Flipse, Assistant Director of the Station, said the Land Resources Map brings together factors of soil depth, drainage, available moisture, and productive capacities of soils.

The map has been used widely by industrial and community planners, Flipse commented. High school and college teachers find it helpful in studying earth sciences. It was developed by Howard W. Hughes, professor emeritus of soil science, who considers it vital for soil and water resources managers.

Copies are available for $3.25, tax and shipping included, from Land Resources Map, Department 6000, University Park, PA 16802. Make check or money order payable to The Pennsylvania State University. Allow at least two weeks for delivery. The map may also be purchased directly in room 204 of the Agricultural Administration Building at University Park. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays.

Multiple patterns and color are used to portray the 153 soil groups -- coded and symbolized for identification. Each soil unit or group is evaluated by 16 characteristics. The more important characteristics are depth, soil drainage environment, geological source of soil material, available moisture, planting rooting zones, and dominant crop production.

Do you want to adopt tree?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — An opportunity for people to make donations to finance planting trees on the national forests was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block.

In response to numerous public requests, Block said, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service has established the plant-a-tree program to give individuals and groups an opportunity to help improve the nation's forests.

Contributions may be made by groups and individuals in their own names or in honor of others.

For a minimum $10 donation, contributors will receive a certificate acknowledging their gifts. Individual trees will not be marked to recognize contributors but probably will be planted on the national forest nearest the honoree's home.

Based on current needs, the Forest Service will select the species and sites to be planted. The number of plantings that will result from an individual donation will vary due to differences in costs in various parts of the country.

Donations to the plant-a-tree program will be accepted at all Forest Service offices. The donations are tax deductible.

Arbor Day - a holiday of the future

HARRISBURG — In Pennsylvania, the last Friday in April is Arbor Day, a day set apart to encourage people to plant trees and shrubs. This year it is April 29.

In the mid 1800s, the midwest was an open treeless plain. Settlers moving west missed the trees of their eastern homes and they needed trees for windbreaks, to reduce soil erosion, and for fuel, building materials and shade.

F. Sterling Norton, a journalist from Detroit moved west in 1854 and became editor of Nebraska's first newspaper. He was a great promoter of agriculture, family life and trees.

In 1872, Norton became secretary of the Nebraska territory (later he became U.S. Secretary of Agriculture). Norton was able to use that position to propose an annual tree planting day. His resolution to the State Board of Agriculture included a prize of $100 to the county which properly planted the largest number of trees and a farm library valued at $25 to the individual who did the same.

The first Arbor Day was observed in Nebraska on April 10, 1882. It was a huge success with more than one million trees planted in Nebraska on that day.

This year is the 111th anniversary of Arbor day and it is the 101st anniversary of its first celebration in the schools. Norton was delighted to learn of a tree planting ceremony in Cincinnati, Ohio in 1882 and of school children's involvement in it.

Norton considered the adoption of Arbor Day by the schools the most important aspect of the holiday's development. He was fond of saying, "Other holidays repose upon the past: Arbor Day proposes for the future."

Each year the governor makes a public declaration on Arbor Day regarding its significance and encouraging citizens to actively participate in the observance.

Why plant a tree? The presence of trees along streets and highways, in parks and recreational areas, and adjacent to public buildings creates a more liveable and enjoyable environment. Trees contribute to our well-being by reducing noise and sight pollution, moderating temperatures, beautifying landscape settings, and increasing property values. In less obvious ways they help cleanse and purify the air, conserve energy in buildings, reduce rainfall runoff and soil erosion, as well as provide habitat for wildlife.

Angus Pathfinder Report qualifies sires

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — More than 3,200 outstanding Angus cows and 108 Angus sires have qualified to be listed in the 1983 Angus Pathfinder Report, according to Dick Spader, executive vice-president of the American Anugus Association.

The report, issued annually by the Association, highlights cows that have calved early in their life, and have then calved regularly thereafter and weaned calves with above average weaning ratios. Pathfinder sires are those registered Anugus bulls that have produced five or more Pathfinder Cows.

"The Pathfinder program was designed to recognize Angus cows that are outstanding at doing what a beef cow should do," said John Crouch, director of performance programs for the American Angus Association.

"Without fertility, mothering ability and production of above average calves in size and quality, there is little or no profit in the beef cattle business, that's why we want to highlight cows with these traits through out Pathfinder program," Crouch said.

The herd with the largest number of Pathfinder Cows at 66 is Summitcrest Farms, Summitville, Ohio.

Of the 108 Pathfinder Sires listed in the 1983 reports the top sire with 69 Pathfinder daughters is Rito 707 of Ideal 533 70, owned by American Breeders Service, DeForest, Wisconsin, and Jorgensen Ranches, Ideal, South Dakota.

The complete Pathfinder report with the listing of 3,263 cows and 108 sires, and their owners, will be published in the May issue of the Angus Journal. A bound copy of the report is also available free from the performance programs department of the Association.

Grafting demo at Pottsville today

POTTSVILLE — A grafting demonstration sponsored by the Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association starts today at 10 a.m. at the Fairlane Village Mall in the Community Room, Pottsville.

Glen Helms, president of the association, will welcome the participants and discuss activities of the association. George Land, secretary of the association and editor of the Nut Kernel will conduct the grafting demonstration. Scion wood and grafting supplies will be available to sway or purchase at the meeting.

For additional information contact either Frank Bracious, a nut grower, R1, Schuylkill Haven, or George P. Perry, Jr., County Agent - Horticulture, Schuylkill County Extension Office.

The Milk Check

Time Running Out

With the start of the 50 cent assessment on April 16 milk shipments and rulings by Federal judges, it appears that the deductions in the April milk checks are closer to certain than they have ever been. It won't actually happen until after May 15 when the Uniform Price is announced and handlers write checks to producers but the rulings of the past week would indicate at least that time is running out.

I believe that all of the suits that have been filed have had at least one ruling and some have had more. Rulings last week in New York, South Carolina and Pennsylvania came in rapid succession but none produced a decision to stop the collection. However, it doesn't mean that future action is blocked or that an injunction won't be granted in the future. It only means that there have been three strike outs and you will get another chance at bat before the game is over. However, it's an expensive ball game and the result may depend on how long the farm organizations and the co-ops can afford to play.

March Pool

Milk shipments from farmers to Order 2 handlers passed the billion-pounds-a-month level two months ahead of time this year. The last two years you didn't reach that level until May and this is the first time in 18 years that you did it in March. This was a jump of nearly four per cent (on a daily basis) over February shipments and about the same increase over last March.

Processing plant capacity for the spring flush seems to be critical here in the northeast than anywhere in the country and this March production may be an indication of real trouble ahead if it keeps up. The blend price dropped 34 cents from last month to $13.01 as a reflection of the increased production and spring payments into the Louisville Plan.

Everything price wise was going in the wrong direction as it always does in the spring but the largest cut was the 20 cents a hundred for the Louisville Plan. After that it was a seven cent drop in the Class II price from the seasonal incentive and a six cent drop in the Minnesota-Wisconsion Price. This made the total of a 13 cent drop in the Class II price from $12.61 in February to $12.48 in March. A 1.8 per cent drop in your Class I utilization to 38 per cent cost you another penny and if you put them all together they add up to a 34 cent drop in your blend price from $13.35 in February to $13.01 in March. Louisville Plan payments increase to 30 cents in April and 40 cents in May and June. Adding the 50 cents assessment at this time of the year can drop your blend price close to $12.00 in the next few months.

Don't Bet Yet

Senate subcommittee hearings on dairy price suport legislation were held April 14 in Washington. They had fewer bills to consider than the House but nothing seemed to surface as a front runner. It's expected they would lean toward price cutting as they did a year ago but so far the haven't said that - or anything else. Neither did Secretary Block testify at either the House or Senate hearings so the administration has yet to be heard - officially. There have been some closed door sessions between representatives of the House and Senate subcommittee and the Secretary but no indications yet on where to put your money if you're a betting man.

Even though we can't yet rule out any of the proposals I'm still leaning toward a one or two year incentive payment program to get the supply/demand imbalance back on track and that to be followed by a return to the Parity concept with a dairy specific index and a trigger mechanism based on CCC purchases. Maybe that's more wishful thinking than hard evidence and it doesn't leave much "flexibility" for the Secretary but it does make good fuel for a newsletter fire and producer discussion.

PIK for Milk

When some dairymen talk incentive programs they sometimes consider a transfer of the principles of the feed grains price support program to milk as a possibility. Certainly the feed grains program has produced ample incentives to farmers to participate with 59 million more acres signed up in PIK than expected and 36 per cent of the nation's cropland taken out of production. In fact, the response was so great that it had ASCS personnel scurrying from March 29 to April 4 to set up a CCC at the loan rate plus interest to besure they would have enough grain for PIK payments next fall. The idea may work fine for grain farmers in spite of (or because of) the tremendous participation but if it does or doesn't there's always next year to change the rules and I'm wondering what the Secretary is thinking since March 29 about continuing the PIK part in 1984.

However, grain isn't milk. In fact these commodities are so different in production, marketing, processing, distribution and consumption that they almost defy comparison. Just the fact that grain is produced on land and milk comes from a cow is important. The land will still be there next year so if it is needed in 1984 because we over reacted in 1983 it can be brought back into production. On the other hand, if we send a cow to the butcher so we can participate in an incentive program it will take two years to grow a replacement.

Milk Check

Tailor Made

CCC storage stocks of grain are enough to last a year and can be replenished with one crop if necessary. Cheese and butter in CCC storage would only last four to six months and would take years to replace. In fact, storage is a normal part of grain marketing with production occurring over only a few months but with consumption continuing all year but milk goes to market every day and even when processed into "soft" dairy products is consumed within weeks. We've developed this marketing system for milk and dairy products because of their high perishability and storage costs. There are a lot more differences that you can think of but these should be enough to illustrate why we need a support program tailor made for milk that's cut and fitted to the commodity.

DAIRY FARMERS WILL RECEIVE $13.01 FOR MARCH MILK

New York — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during March will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $13.01 per hundredweight (28.0 cents per quart.) Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $13.35 in February 1983 and $13.02 in March 1982. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive fund removed $.20 per hundredweight from the dairy farmers' uniform price for March, for a total of $2,033,571.05. Deductions will continue through June and will be returned in the August through November uniform price calculations.

A total of 17,455 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 1,016,785,525 pounds of milk during March 1983. This was an increase of 3.8 percent (about 37 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $135,239,041.72. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 386,454,471 pounds of milk for Class I, 38.0 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test and skim milks. For March 1983, handlers paid $14.87 per hundredweight (32.0 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $14.80 a year ago.

The balance, 62.0 percent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. Handlers paid $12.48 for this milk.

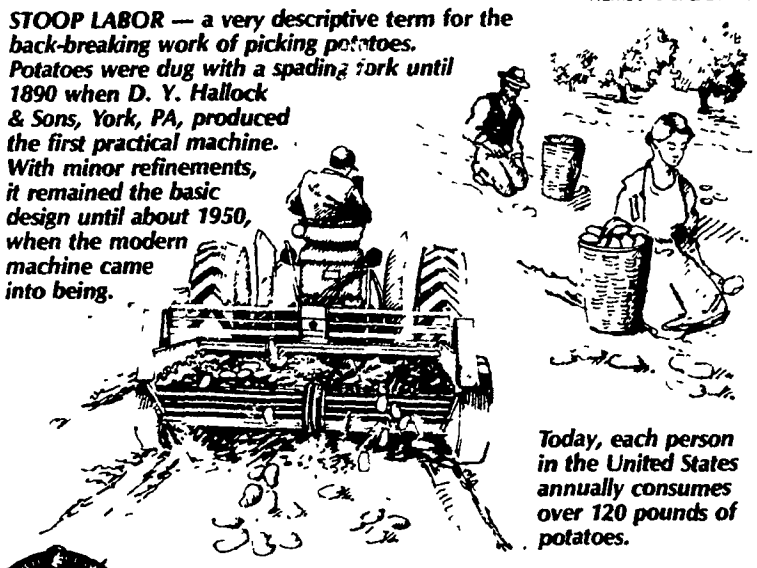
The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat.

The Tools of Farming

The Potato Harvester

Number 3 of a Series.

STOOP LABOR — a very descriptive term for the back-breaking work of picking potatoes. Potatoes were dug with a spading fork until 1890 when D. Y. Hallock & Sons, York, PA, produced the first practical machine. With minor refinements, it remained the basic design until about 1950, when the modern machine came into being.



Today, each person in the United States annually consumes over 120 pounds of potatoes.

Since 1896, we have been creating ways to free the farmer from the worry of insurable disasters.

WHY THIS BENEFIT SALE?

The Coblentz family, Gospel Echoes Revival Team, has patiently and faithfully traveled in their present motor home, a 1975 GMC that now has 194,000 miles, for the past three years. They have held approximately 380 prison services and have visited over 125 churches. The high mileage and their growing family have made a replacement vehicle a necessity. Here is your opportunity to help! We need YOU! Come and help make this Benefit Sale a success. Thank you. The Sale Committee.

The Coblentz family will be on hand to thank you personally on the day of the sale.

Pigs that start fast finish faster.

We have proof: Pigs that start gaining early have more efficient gains — clear to market.

With High Octane® Baby Pig Chow® and High Octane® Pig Starter Chow® brand rations, we can help you get your pigs off to a running start. Both rations have the proper balance of amino acids and energy. Both are easily digested as sow's milk. And pigs love the taste.

Come see us for the proof on High Octane starter rations. After all — the faster they start, the sooner they finish!
